Re: 3 Bow Drive, Brick, New Jersey
Rear Porch Structural As-Built Plan

Dear Mr. Dopf:

In accordance with our proposal, we have enclosed four (4) signed and sealed sets of the as-built plan and calculation worksheets for the referenced project. The plans have been revised based on your comments and information that we obtained from Brick Township.

As we previously described, the undersigned performed a visual inspection of the rear porch. All observations were visual in nature. The site visit was performed on October 3, 2017.

The project is currently under construction and we were told that the work was performed to repair and replace an existing porch of the exact same size. The existing porch was reportedly dilapidated and in an unsafe condition. The porch is in the right rear corner of the building (looking at the front of the house) and is accessed directly from a rear slider door on the building. The porch is enclosed and integrated into the footprint of the building with a separate egress door to the exterior. The configuration of the porch area is typical throughout the neighboring properties.

The roof is supported by the rear wall and headers on the rear wall. The walls are framed with 2 x 4 lumber spaced 16" on center. There is a rear door and rear window which are constructed with structural header beams. There is a transom window located on the upper portion of the side window which does not support a distributed load from the roof above.

The porch area is constructed on a slab on grade and the perimeter walls are bearing on the slab. We observed the slab extended below grade with no settlement. The framing included a double 2x8 header beam over the rear door (2'-8" span) and a double 2x10 header beam over the rear window (4' - 4" span).

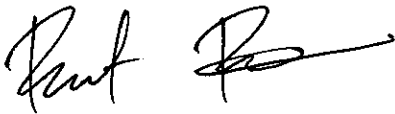

We performed structural calculations based on the existing size of the roof, the assumed dead and live loading and the location of the distributed load on the header that spans the rear door (D1) and the rear window (W1). We used a dead load factor (10 psf) and included a snow load (25 psf) for the roof and live load (30 psf) for the attic area. Our calculation worksheets are attached.

Based on our review of the existing conditions, the information that has been presented to us and our calculations, it is our engineering judgment and opinion that the general configuration of the framing, window header and door header are adequate for the structure.

Please contact our office if you have any questions or would like additional information or assistance regarding the information discussed above.

Very truly yours,

Mr. Dopf,

Please be advised that I am in receipt of your Permit for a 3 Season Room. The photos of the site that were provided show that new Pavers were installed where you formerly had a Concrete Slab. I went to your home today and verified that. I also noted that your front area was also done with Pavers.

While I have deemed there would be no Engineering Review Fee for your 3 Season Room Project, you do however owe the Township a Clearing and Grading Permit for the Paver work. The Permit Fee is $100.00. The Pavers appear to be installed and graded correctly so I do not need anything to be excavated for Inspection. I will NOT forward the Permit for the 3 Season Room until this requirement is satisfied. I have included the Building Department in this thread so they are also aware. My contact information is listed here. If you have any further questions please contact me. Thank you.
