Hi Detective Mayan,

I just wanted to reach out to you so you receive the (correct) full story. As I mentioned to you this morning on the phone, i was able to get my application website back up without the house of horrors crew finding out and trying to have it taken down. Yesterday I started calling a few of the previous applicants that Rebecca had reviewed and possibly adopted out to. I did speak with one woman named Rosalie. She was hesitant to speak with me once I introduced myself, but became a little bit more receptive as the conversation continued. I explained that I was calling her to check to see if she did in fact adopt under Lynn's animal rescue and if so, how the puppies were doing. I asked her if they had been sick at the time of adoption. She said they had worms and diarrhea in which she had treated at her vet. I briefly explained to her that I was not aware of most of the transports/adoptions that Rebecca had been doing under my rescues name, and that I was going through the rescues application files to reach out to check on the dogs, and to provide comfort to the rescues that they originated from. I thought I was doing a good thing, but now I'm not so sure. I will include a screenshot from what was just posted on the house of horrors page from this Rosalie woman.

I don't want to cause any more issues, I just want to help however I can .

Thanks
Lynn
