> They will be adding the State NJ Cares data as well, in their next printing. Below is a review of the State Attorney General's new office - NJ Cares:

> The Office of the New Jersey Coordinator of Addiction Response and Enforcement Strategies ("NJ CARES") will be responsible for overseeing addiction-fighting efforts across the Department of Law and Public Safety and creating partnerships with other agencies and groups similarly committed to identifying and implementing solutions to the opioid crisis and drug addiction.

> Sharon M. Joyce, Acting Director of the Division of Consumer Affairs and a Deputy Director in the Division of Law, has been named Director of NJ CARES. Under Joyce's leadership, the office will roll out a series of new addiction-fighting programs, including the creation of around-the-clock "Opioid Response Teams" in municipalities throughout New Jersey, an electronic data-sharing network to exchange opioid-related data among state agencies, and an online portal providing the public with real-time updates on overdose deaths and other addiction-related information.

> Among the new initiatives being rolled out under NJ CARES are:

> Statewide Opioid Response Teams ("ORT") – The ORT program is a twenty-four-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week program in which participating police departments and emergency medical technicians ("EMTs") work with volunteers and local treatment agencies to provide crisis intervention to individuals suffering from opioid abuse. Comprised of members of law enforcement, mental health advocates, substance abuse providers, Substance Abuse Recovery Advocates, and EMTs, the ORT will be called by local police or EMTs to assist addicted individuals by providing them with support, information, and referrals to treatment programs. Specialized and multi-disciplinary training will provide team members with an understanding of de-escalation techniques, evidence preservation, and how to interact with opioid-addicted individuals. New Jersey expects to design and implement the ORT program using an $850,000 federal grant to pay for on-call volunteers, training, and costs associated with transportation to a treatment facility.

> NJ CARES Website – The NJ CARES website will be dedicated to providing the public with a real-time snapshot of the state's opioid crisis and a breakdown of how each county is being affected. The website will include weekly updates on suspected fatal drug-overdoses and deployments of the life-saving overdose antidote "naloxone", quarterly reports on the number of opioid prescriptions being written, and other data related to the opioid crisis. The NJ CARES website will provide members of the public with a better understanding of how the opioid addiction crisis is impacting their counties and alert them to emerging trends and issues to better protect themselves and their loved ones. The portal includes data released today on drug-related deaths in New Jersey in 2016.

> Interagency Drug Awareness Dashboard ("IDAD") – IDAD will be a computerized, information-sharing "dashboard" to exchange opioid-related data between state agencies, including data from the New Jersey Prescription Monitoring Program ("NJ PMP"), law enforcement data on heroin, fentanyl and other opioid-related arrests, naloxone administrations, fatal and non-fatal drug overdoses, and treatment information. The goal of IDAD is to create a holistic picture of New Jersey's opioid environment, help develop targeted interventions, develop analytical opioid "hot spot" data, and push notifications through the PMP to providers. Under the IDAD program, the Department of Law and Public Safety will integrate the State Police's Drug Monitoring Initiative ("DMI") with information from the Division of Consumer Affairs' NJ PMP into one centralized dashboard to create a clearer picture of the opioid epidemic ranging from street drug activities to prescribing abuse. The marrying of law enforcement data with public health data will refine resources and make responses to opioid overdoses more efficient and timely. IDAD's pilot program will be funded in part by a $600,000 federal grant obtained by the Department of Law and Public Safety.

> Enhancements to the NJ Prescription Monitoring Program ("NJ PMP") – The NJ PMP will see its role as a vital addiction-fighting tool expanded under a series of upgrades and enhancements to the program that uses an electronic database to track information on prescription sales of narcotic painkillers and other habit-forming drugs. Proposed enhancements include adding the anticonvulsant medication Gabapentin, a drug known to enhance the effects of opioids, to the list of drugs tracked by the NJ PMP; expanding access to the NJ PMP database to certain mental health providers; and hiring a medical consultant to assist in reviewing NJ PMP data to identify and flag potential cases of problem prescribing and to assist the development of advanced data-analysis programs to identify abnormal prescribing patterns.

> The Department of Law and Public Safety, which includes the Division of Consumer Affairs, the Juvenile Justice Commission, the Division of Criminal Justice, the New Jersey State Police, the Division of Law, the Division of Highway Traffic Safety, and the Office of the Insurance Fraud Prosecutor, has broad powers to fight the opioid crisis through regulation, enforcement, criminal prosecution, and civil litigation.

> Under Director Joyce, NJ CARES will coordinate the strategic use of those powers to promote new initiatives and advance existing addiction-fighting programs that helped propel New Jersey to the forefront in addressing the country's opioid epidemic. Joyce, a 38-year veteran of the Department of Law and Public Safety and a Deputy Director in the Division of Law, was instrumental in planning and implementing many of those programs.

> Among the initiatives Joyce was instrumental in planning and implementing are: the creation and expansion of the NJ PMP; the creation of rules establishing standards for prescribing opioids, and an emergency ban on several unregulated, counterfeit analogs of the highly-addictive opioid painkiller "fentanyl."

The Emergency Departments years ago gave this handout and told the patient make the calls. It is a frustrating process and did not work. I have proof of its failure.

Then we can use the recovery team to help the patient navigate the system and offer help. I would advocate this is the best initial course of action and not release patients in the field. Having a peripheral is nice but is use alone is insufficient.

In addition, I have other resource information such as local AA/NA meetings, MAT providers, etc... This info already exists, we would just have to decide how to narrow it down/format it. Every person/family I've ever spoken to has reported that having too many numbers to call is overwhelming and makes it less likely that they'll make a call at all. We should strategize on how to make it more user friendly and targeted to the population we want it to serve. I'm out of the office tomorrow but I will share the docs Monday. I'm happy to work on this with Bil and whoever else wants to tackle it.

The bill builds in an immunity for the sharing of information with the TF. Hope that does it.

I think this is a step in the right direction if it passes, but when I was involved early on, the health folks seemed reluctant to law enforcement's interest in pill mills/trends that showed that particular doctors were at the source of some of the OD deaths. It would be nice if the bill went a bit further to compel disclosure of such information to the law enforcement participants since the health folks seemed reluctant with that aspect of the process.

This was our bill two years ago via singer! Never went anywhere. Glad to see it's being considered again.
