New and Noteworthy: CISA Launches Joint Initiative to Develop Nation's Cyber Defense Procedures

CISA announced a new effort among public and private organizations to establish and execute national cyber defense plans combating the rise in cyber attacks against critical infrastructure in the United States. CISA stated the Joint Cyber Defense Collaborative (JCDC) intends to use a whole-of-nation approach to design and implement comprehensive cyber defense plans that address risks and facilitate coordinated action, share insight to shape joint understanding of challenges and opportunities for cyber defense, implement coordinated defensive cyber operations to prevent and reduce impacts of cyber intrusions, and support joint exercises to improve cyber defense operations. The JCDC comprises representatives from numerous federal agencies, including the Department of Homeland Security, Department of Justice, US Cyber Command, National Security Agency, FBI, and Office of the Director of National Intelligence. It will also consult with various state and local partners, information sharing and analysis organizations and centers, owners and operators of critical information systems, and other private entities.
