Due to operational challenges we needed to combine Mansfield recovery with another town. The driver (not Tony but he is familiar with Mansfield) will be in the area after 1230PM and will dive into recovery. That means you might still receive calls until then.

This is the best I can do right now, Mike, and if things change for the better (or worse), I will keep you abreast of the situation.

I would strongly suggest either Marc or Anthony return this resident's phone call. He's demanding the Mayor send out our in house employees, in pickup trucks, to gather the trash missed. If I'm understanding correctly, Republic is not coming into Mansfield today?

Please give Robert Patterson  a call with your plan to retrieve his trash. I just can't.....

Mike,

We made offers to 6 drivers in the past week and a half. We are down 10 employees in residential. We have tried to borrow drivers from other divisions but the holiday week made it a major struggle because of how many people are on PTO this week. We continue to get help from neighboring divisions but those employees are not familiar with our routes which is creating another struggle. We are behind on almost every route and struggling to catch up. We will continue to hire and staff. We apologize to put you through this. We really are trying the best we can but without people everyday is a struggle. The 6 offers we made in the past week and a half is the best we have had in a long time. We continue to make sure we hire the right people and not just hire a body out of desperation.

As Mansfield continues to experience mutiny from Residents due to ongoing sanitation issues, does Republic have any kind of form letter, memo, or propaganda explaining the trials and tribulations experienced within the sanitation world that I could post on our social media site, email to residents ect?? I'm sure a company of your size has some kind of marketing team with a copy of such on file. Could you please forward me something explaining the perils associated with our dilemma so I could post, explaining to residents.

As you know this is a new driver he is still learning the route. Our driver was under the impression he could only work 12 hours and the truck had to be empty before returning to the yard. This morning I gave him authorization to work up to 14 hours and bring the truck back loaded if need be. He said if that is the case he can have the route completed in one day.

Liz is phenomenal... I receive a call from her ever morning, setting the table for the day and discussing the previous days run.. Greatly Appreciated! I am not receiving the late afternoon or evening call from whomever at this point in letting me know how the day went, was it completed, what was left, ect.. the reason this is important is because starting around 6pm, the calls start from residents and more importantly my Township Committee Members, who get calls from their friends, relatives, and residents alike asking "what's going on" or "here we go again" obviously, they then call me for an update, which I don't have. Bottom line, I can BS my way through calls and complaints if I know what I'm talking about, hence the end of day call. Hope that all makes sense...Communication is key in allowing me to understand where we are, at the end of the day, and talking residents off the ledge.

Received... honestly going to miss Liz, her communication skills on setting the table each morning were stellar. With Liz's morning calls, I knew what to expect for the day... how many trucks out, how many crewmen on each truck ect... that seemed to work really well and very much appreciated. Can I anticipate someone else conversing with me each morning for a QUICK rundown in Liz's absence? It was great to be ahead of the game.

Oh boy.... We're back to that again. I'm hoping for both your company and the township, this doesn't become the trend again. We've had a few good weeks, which I am really grateful for, it seems we now know the answer to the problems and how to fix them, as it's been proven. I'd really like to see that continue without Tony has 68 Joyce and Mapleton all completed but is packing out soon and heading to dump. Johnathan has about an hour left on his route and will provide some help to Tony. Tony got a late start due to parking brake issues which is causing delay on his end. If I had to make a guess I'd figure about 75% of town will be up by end of day. We will have to plan for recovery for Monday. I don't want to promise a team tomorrow when I already know I won't have much to work with due to hours limits. Monday will be more flexible.

Received... Let's hope for the best. Anthony, in speaking with you yesterday, we probably won't see a recovery truck in town tomorrow (if needed) since Thursday is a killer day for Republic, correct? This then plays into our conversation dealing with Friday, and how Friday is never really completed as we're always chasing our tails in an effort to balance recovery with actual established runs.

Liz, although I appreciate the call early this morning, it seems we were both misled a bit... Tuesday's pickup was NOT finished. I'm getting calls from Columbus/West Main Street as well as Jacksonville Road. In my disbelief, I went out to get eyes on both and sure as heck, both are still sitting from yesterday... please have them picked up today.

Not sure why, but getting a lot of calls from New York Ave. as well as East Main Street that quite a few houses have been missed? I obviously question each and every caller on the 6 items, no metal ect... but in this case, all seems to be good from the resident end. Can you please have the crew make sure they grab all of East Main and New York Ave.

Thank You,

One of our curatto drivers is in and heading out there now. Pending traffic and weather, figure this to be wrapped up by the afternoon.
