Please see the attached Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Health Advisory: Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza A(H5N1) Virus: Recommendations for Human Health Investigations and Response.

A person has tested positive for avian influenza A(H5) virus (H5 bird flu) in the U.S., as confirmed by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and reported by the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment on April 28, 2022. This case occurred in a person who had direct exposure to poultry and who was involved in the culling (depopulating) of poultry with presumptive H5N1 bird flu.

Starting in January, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) detected highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) A(H5N1) virus in wild birds in the United States followed by multiple detections in U.S. commercial poultry and backyard bird flocks [1,2].

Detection of A(H5) virus in one person who was involved in culling of poultry does not change the human health risk assessment, which remains low for the general public. People with work or recreational exposures to infected birds are at greater risk of infection and should follow recommended precautions. The purpose of this HAN Health Advisory is to notify public health workers, clinicians, and the public of the potential for human infection with this virus and to describe the CDC's recommendations for patient investigation and testing, infection control including the use personal protective equipment, and antiviral treatment and

4 Ideas Friday: Lights. Camera. Action! Product videos offer more than meets the eye. !

If a picture's worth a thousand words, imagine what a video can do, especially when you're trying to select winning promotional products for your next marketing effort!

Take a look at some fresh, unique promotional products that will definitely grab your customers' and prospects' attention. These videos will show you how these products work and how they can be used to build your brand and get your organization noticed.

Breaks are more fun with logo'd food and drink containers: Give them a break—and a great branded tumbler or lunch container. Durable, BPA-free food and drink containers not only help reduce waste, but they can also encourage healthier eating. No need to hit the drive-thru at lunchtime when they can bring leftovers or a fresh salad from home. And reusable containers provide promotional longevity, since recipients tend to hold on to them for years. With every sip or bite, they'll be reminded of your generosity and your services.

Writing instruments are a practical promotional partner: Virtually everyone needs a pen at some point in their day. Why not give them one that reminds them of your brand? With so many styles, colors and features to choose from, you're sure to find something your audience will love. For example, stylus pens combine tradition with technology, and mood pencils are an affordable, fun and memorable giveaway. Or choose a multifunction writer, like a combination pen/highlighter, for added exposure. Hand them out at expos, fairs and open houses to spread your message to the masses.

Cell Phone Pen Stylus

Electronics and computer items help keep your brand current: If you've ever been to a trade show, you've probably seen people flock to whichever booth is giving out tech gadgets. Whether it's a USB hub, cleaning cloth, charger, phone stand or speakers, handing out tech-related promos is a great way to build a following. And it's easy to find tech items to fit any budget. As long as people are using their smartphones, tablets, computers and other media devices, your logo will be there to keep them company.

Watch their faces light up (and your logo shine) with light-up promoters: Nothing grabs attention like a flashing light, whether it's a neon business sign, lights on a music stage or the flashing strobes of a police car. Now you can turn flashing lights into a brilliant way to spotlight your brand for customers, prospects and vendors. Light-up jewelry, drinkware and safety items are just the tip of the iceberg. Use your promotional dollars to create a stunning light show they'll remember for a long time. Build excitement for your brand by injecting light-up fun into your next event. Think concerts, company parties, marathons/fun runs, family gatherings and much more.

Dear Reader,

In my latest video, I'm revealing news of a landmark development that I am convinced will trigger the greatest depression we've ever seen.

In fact, this event is so potentially explosive it could take the entire American economy down with it.

And the one asset that so many "experts" will tell you is where you should flock for safety...

It's about to get slaughtered too.

Over the last month the price of this asset has become massively inflated. Getting into it now, while it's at an unsustainable peak, could be deadly to your wealth.

If you own it, it's time to take action - right now.

That's why I'm urging all our readers to watch this controversial video.

Send it to your friends and family, before we're forced to take it down. Warn everyone you know about this disturbing development, and move fast to protect your wealth.

Details here.

Sincerely,

Harry Dent

The 2019 PHS Philadelphia Flower Show, "Flower Power," will pay tribute to the enormous impact of flowers on our lives, from March 2 to 10, 2019, at the Pennsylvania Convention Center. Across ten acres of the Show floor, the world's leading floral and garden designers will explore how flowers convey a wide range of emotions and messages in a universal language that transcends cultures and borders. Stunning landscapes, imaginative gardens, and breathtaking floral displays will interpret flowers' power to inspire, decorate, style, and enrich our lives. Through imaginative exhibits, guests will see ideas like community, healing, peace, transformation, and hope brought to life in surprising, vibrant ways.

TODAY'S SPOTLIGHT

April 13, 2021

Good morning. Covering the state's quest to legalize the recreational use and sale of marijuana has become an endurance test. First was the legislation, then the referendum, then the legislation again. Now we move to the regulatory stage, where a new state commission met for the first time yesterday with supposedly six months to come up with the rules. But given the state doesn't seem very good at meeting deadlines on this issue, we'll see about that.

— John Mooney, founding editor, xxxxxxx@xxxxxxxxxxxxx.xxx

The cannabis chronicles: Latest installment

It took four years-plus to legalize marijuana for adult recreational use in New Jersey. Now the commission tasked with drawing up the industry's regulations finally has got down to work. State lawmakers, though, are still tinkering with legislation, including on the issue of "home grow." Ian T. Shearn has the details. Read more.

Lt. gov. supports diversion of housing fund

After hearing from the state treasurer last week, lawmakers are now reviewing departmental budget requests submitted by top officials from Gov. Phil Murphy's administration. Among those testifying Monday was Lt. Gov. Sheila Oliver, who also serves as commissioner of the Department of Community Affairs. She defended a raid on an affordable housing trust fund. John Reitmeyer explains. Read more.

This program is for the birds — and horseshoe crabs

A grant of nearly $87,000 to the American Littoral Society will help them further protect some of New Jersey's most vulnerable shore species, including the red knot and the horseshoe crab. The red knots flock to the Bayshore to feed on horseshoe crab eggs to tank up on the protein and fat they need for their 9,000-mile migration. But as Andrew Lewis explains, cold weather brought about by climate change can delay the crabs, so they're not there when the red knots arrive. Read more.

Call for NJ prisons chief's departure

New Jersey's prisons are under intense scrutiny after an attack on female inmates by corrections officers. One official plans to retire, but lawmakers are pressing for the commissioner at the Department of Corrections to leave. Colleen O'Dea has our story on the turmoil. Read more.

Loans for Black-owned businesses

Nadine Brown opened a cleaning service in Hackensack a couple of years ago. When the pandemic caused business to dry up, she used her savings to pay basic bills. Now she's a recipient of a loan through a program that's focused on helping Black-owned businesses access capital in the wake of the pandemic. Report by Joe Hernandez of WHYY News, a content partner of NJ Spotlight News. Read more.

Jersey City to return to work

Jersey City's mayor has announced that all municipal workers will return to their assigned work sites by May 3, with proper safety precautions in place, but some epidemiologists think more people need to be vaccinated first, and the largest union is pushing back. Other towns are taking a slower approach — staying hybrid and keeping an eye on infectious coronavirus variants. Brenda Flanagan reports. Watch here.

Push for student loan forgiveness

Some of the state's highest-ranking congressional members, like U.S. Sen. Bob Menendez and Rep. Bill Pascrell (D-9th), are pushing back on President Biden's $1.5 trillion budget plan for not including the broad student loan forgiveness that advocates were hoping for. The lawmakers are calling on Biden to forgive up to $50,000 in student loan debt. Report by Leah Mishkin. Watch here.

TONIGHT'S SPOTLIGHT

December 21, 2021

Tonight's Spotlight brings you highlights from the day's news for New Jersey, with a continued focus on the COVID-19 pandemic in detail. All of it is brought to you by the reporting of NJ Spotlight News and provided as a public service to the daily subscribers of Today's Spotlight.

Today's developments

- NJ's COVID-19 numbers added to their already dizzying climb today, with more than 2,000 people now being treated for a coronavirus infection at the state's hospitals for the first time since the middle of April.
 - The number of confirmed cases also rose today, to near 7,000 and has now been at 6,000 or more for six straight five straight days — a first for the entire pandemic.
 - Increases in COVID-19 patient counts were seen at hospitals in all three regions of the state.

- 34 confirmed deaths were reported today, up three-fold over yesterday's report; in general, fatalities have not risen at the same rate as cases and hospitalizations, but officials note that deaths are a lagging indicator of the course of the virus.
 - The rate of transmission, which had been falling for more than a week, rose slightly overnight and now stands at 1.23; anything above 1.0 indicate that the spread of the virus is hastening.
 - Nationally, nearly 290,000 new cases were reported yesterday, nearly a record one-day addition, and the seven-day average in new case US numbers is now nearly 150,000, more than double what it was at the end of October, according to the CDC.
 - See NJ Spotlight News for a video report on what the surge is expected to mean for schools in NJ.
- President Joe Biden today sought to reassure the nation over the disquieting public health trends, amid word that the omicron has within days replaced delta as the dominant coronavirus strain in the country.
 - "This is not March of 2020," Biden said, stressing that, despite the rise in cases, the country now is better prepared than it was at the beginning of pandemic.
 - Vaccinations, especially in those who have received boosters, continue to provide protection against serious illness and death, he said.
 - Stockpiles of gowns, masks and ventilators have been amassed, in anticipation of increased hospitalizations among the unvaccinated.
 - 10,000 new vaccinations sites are being set up, in addition to the 80,000 already in place.
 - Additional testing sites are being set up in areas where supply is not meeting demand, with initial locations due to open in New York City before Christmas.
 - Half a billion rapid tests are being bought for residents to test themselves at home, starting in January.
 - See NJ Spotlight News for a video report on long lines seen now at testing sites in NJ.

- The National Hockey League today joined the growing ranks of organizations that have hit the pause button on their schedules as a result of the surge in COVID-19 cases.
 - The professional hockey league said all games and travel between Wednesday and Saturday have been postponed, which it called an early start to its pre-scheduled break for the holiday.
 - Players can return to their teams on Sunday for testing, practice and travel, if necessary, in anticipation of 14 games now scheduled for Monday.
 - The league has already seen many cancellations this season due to COVID-19, many of them announced earlier this week.
 - Late today, numerous outlets reported that the league and its players union have agreed to withdraw from participation in the 2022 Winter Olympics in Beijing.
- The state Assembly has unanimously approved a bill that would boost the penalties for so-called “porch pirates” — those who swipe packages left by delivery services near the front entryway of people’s homes.
 - The lower house voted 76-0 in favor of the measure, which would make any such theft a third-degree crime, punishable by as much as five years in prison and $15,000 in fines.
 - Current law grades the degree of crime according to the value of the material stolen.
 - The state Senate has yet to vote on the measure; the Budget and Appropriations Committee signed off on it unanimously roughly a year ago.
 - According to a survey, one in seven Americans say they have been victimized by porch pirates over the past year.

The latest numbers

- The 6,840 new positive molecular tests reported today, up more than 300 overnight, put NJ's total confirmed-case count for the pandemic at 1,177,197.
 - The state is also reporting 1,911 new probable coronavirus cases detected by quick-turnaround but less-reliable antigen tests.
 - Nearly 51.24 million infections have been reported in the U.S. during the pandemic, according to the Johns Hopkins Coronavirus Resource Center.
 - The U.S. leads the world in COVID-19 cases, followed by India (34.75 million), Brazil (22.21 million), Great Britain (11.6 million), Russia (10.09 million) and Turkey (9.21 million).
- The 34 confirmed COVID-19 deaths reported today bring NJ's overall toll for the pandemic to 28,762.
 - 25,920 deaths are laboratory confirmed.
 - Another 2,842 are listed as probable coronavirus fatalities, as determined in an ongoing review of death certificates and other data by state epidemiologists and other officials.
 - 12 other deaths were reported overnight at NJ hospitals; tests will determine if they were caused by the coronavirus.
 - Across the nation, more than 809,000 have succumbed to complications of a coronavirus infection, according to Johns Hopkins.
- 2,034 people were being treated at NJ's 71 hospitals for confirmed or suspected COVID-19 cases yesterday, a one-day increase of more than 130.

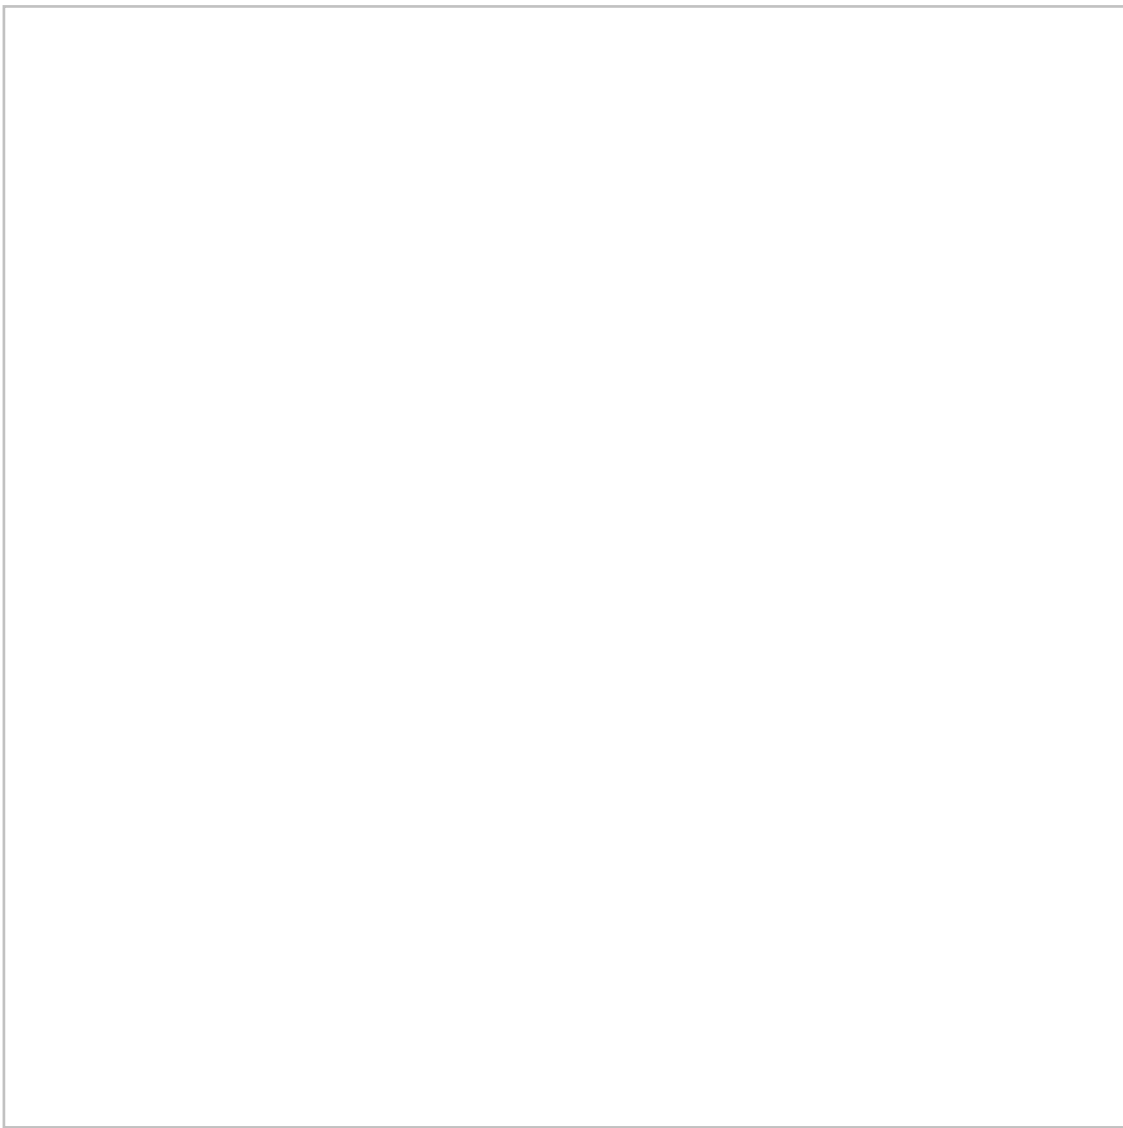

374 of yesterday's patients were in intensive care and 186 were on ventilators, increases in both cases.

- By region, there were 848 patients at hospitals in the north (up 74 overnight), 658 in central Jersey (up 50) and 528 in the south (up 18).
 - 166 coronavirus patients were discharged statewide, either to their homes or to other health-care facilities.
- Today's mass-immunization report shows slow growth in the tally of those who've received the originally prescribed immunization regimen and larger increases in those who've gotten a first dose or a booster shot.
 - The tally of people in New Jersey who have had all the originally prescribed shots for their vaccine is now 6,361,877, up more than 6,000 overnight.
 - The number of people with at least one dose is 7,164,738, up nearly 16,000.
 - More than 1.96 million booster doses of all types have been administered in NJ, according to today's report, up more than 30,000.
 - The ongoing tally of NJ residents who have been fully immunized at out-of-state locations stands at nearly 207,000.
 - The number of nursing homes and other long-term care centers experiencing new coronavirus outbreaks continues to grow rapidly.
 - 229 LTCs were reporting active outbreaks, up 24 overnight.
 - Over the course of the pandemic, 2,004 outbreaks have been reported at LTCs in NJ.
 - 8,742 confirmed deaths have been reported at LTCs, up three overnight; more than 98% of the fatalities have been residents, the rest staff members.

Below, Day laborer Background (source: newamericans article)

Driving along Throckmorton street off route 9 in central New Jersey, one sees the railroad tracks appearing almost out of nowhere, side by side with the road, out of the shrubbery and trees that have grown like a hood around it.

The immigrant workers of Freehold Borough call it La Vía—the Way; for years they have walked along these tracks from neighboring areas to the center of town to gather and look for work. You see them walking or sitting along the embankment—Hispanic* men, weather-beaten and carrying backpacks, distinguishable now from pre-pandemic days by blue surgical masks donned to protect against COVID-19. In the early 2000s when they first began to make their presence felt, Freehold's Hispanic laborers congregated in the town's unofficial 'muster zone,' a shady patch alongside the tracks where workers waited to be picked up by contractors and anyone else hiring day labor. These days, they cluster in the parking lot of a 6/12 convenience store that abuts the railroad, or outside the bus station and the Rita's Ices adjacent to it. The gathering places have shifted over time, but workers continue to flock to Freehold, some laying down roots, others passing through. After 9/11 and the passing of the Homeland Security Act, and as the border between the U.S. and Mexico becomes increasingly impermeable, many who would otherwise have returned home have stayed.

Freehold Borough—famous as Bruce Springsteen's childhood home—is a tiny, historic town with a revolutionary past. A sign along the railroad on Throckmorton street commemorates the Battle of Monmouth, fought nearby in June 1778. One parallel street away from the 6/12 where the workers gather, is Main street and a picturesque downtown, with classical columns and the plaza at the Hall of Records on one end. Leaving the center of town, the street opens onto a neighborhood of pretty Victorian homes with restored sidings and wide-open porches and hanging flower baskets. In the 90s, Freehold became a hub for immigrant farm labor. By 2010, nearly half of its 12,000 residents were undocumented Hispanic workers and their families. Their numbers have only risen since then, crowded into the town's barely 2-square mile radius.

Background on the lawsuit-

Casa Freehold grew out of an ad-hoc coalition between an immigrant rights group formed by residents of Monmouth county and 'Journaleros De Freehold,' (Day Laborers of Freehold), led by Alejandro Abarca, a worker from Mexico. In the early 2000s, word got around that workers were available for hire at low wages in Freehold's muster zone, making it a destination for contractors and workers alike. This irked some townsfolk who pressed the town council to prevent them from gathering. Things came to a head in 2003 when Freehold's incumbent mayor, Michael Wilson, campaigned on an anti-immigrant platform, pushing for random home inspections that forced day laborers to stop looking for work. When protests and efforts to negotiate with the council failed, the laborers joined hands with supporting organizations and filed a federal lawsuit against the Borough of Freehold. The laborers won.

The court ruling permitted the men to return to the muster zone without fear of being ticketed by local police for loitering and panhandling. The laborers voted to pay a dollar a day from their daily wages to raise funds for a hiring center and related costs. "I was there every morning at 6," said Dentino. "We would gather under a tree." She took over when Abarca returned to Mexico in 2007 and remains unpaid.

What you should know about this important vaccine

Cooler weather brings the promise of many pleasant things: football, cardigan wearing and pumpkin spice lattes. But it also ushers in flu season, which is no one's definition of fun. The best way to avoid or minimize the effects of the flu is to be vaccinated against influenza each year, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

full albums. With the rise of the mp3, however, most listen to individual tunes loaded to an iPod or other mp3 device instead of listening to a full album, start to finish. It is for that reason that the heyday of the live album format really was in decades past, and to find the best live albums of history, we need to look to the past. Here, for your consideration, are five of the best live albums ever made.

Date: Tuesday, February 7, 2023 12:32:43 PM

Hi Chief Bauman-

Good afternoon, I just tried giving you a call and wanted to know if you had 5 min today to connect to clear up any confusion.. I just spoke with Capt Pasquinucci and he shared that the Sheriff's office gave you some information.

I'd like to address any questions and concerns about Flock doing business in Monmouth County or NJ State/SNAP AG Directive.

Flock Safety along with every ALPR vendor in NJ, including ELSAG are all going through a SNAP Certification process with the NJSP. We're allowed to continue doing business.

We've been in constant contact with LT Adam Polhemus the NJ State Police ALPR Coordinator. You can also reach out to him anytime regarding any concerns about Flock

Hi Capt Pasquinucci-

Great meeting you earlier today and I appreciate you coming by to look at Flock. Here are all the documents to review internally to move forward with testing/piloting 7 of our units for 60 days with no risk cost. We discussed doing a Proof of Concept to see how Flock's technology stacks up to your current system with ELSAG.

Attached are the following documents to review, In addition, I included the following documents for purchasing and legal.

W9, NJ BRC, and Flock Sole Source Letter

Legal FAQs to reference, Terms, and Conditions document that can be redlined with changes/requests

Flock 7 Camera Agreement with a 60-Day out Clause to Pilot and test 7 ALPR units
No Penalty to reduce or remove the cameras if you're not happy

You can sign electronically through DocuSign or sign and scan via email. I just sent it through DocuSign.

Here's what we need for the 7 locations. Let me know when we could set up a call over the next week to discuss locations with you and your guys.

- For each location, we'll need to know if you want to use Power or Solar
- Let's avoid permits that are usually on State + County Roads- DOT + Utility companies permitting process is 1-2 years
- Crosstreets/maps/landmarks for each location
- Do you own or can access any traffic lights, or lamp posts?
- For Power 120 or 220V, work with your electrician to plug in during installation/the electrician is your responsibility/our technician will work with them- Attached is our electrician handout
- For Solar- Do we need to install our pole in the ground/grass?
- Or can we put Solar panels on an existing pole that Bridgwater owns? We will need your permission
- Ideally for Solar, we'll need at least 4 hours of Direct Sunlight. 4 hours will get you approx 30K reads.
- The direction of the camera at each location- NB, SB, EB or Westbound
- Letter from DPW or County that you have permission to use each location

Subject: Upcoming Flock Activities - NJ - Freehold Twp PD

Hi Daniel Pasquinucci,

Recent Activity		Status	Visit Type	Completed/Scheduled Date
Location Name
[REDACTED]		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022

Status:

Scheduling: We are actively scheduling the technician visit - be that for a pre-installation site survey or the installation. Be on the lookout for the dispatched appointment within the next week or two.

Scheduled: Barring unforeseen circumstances, the technician will be onsite for your site survey or installation on this date.

Completed: The technician has completed the visit. Next step: the experts are in the process of confirming that your cameras are functioning properly (receiving adequate sunlight, connecting regularly to the cellular network, taking high-quality images, etc.). Once that part is complete, we will grant access to your camera footage.

Visit Types:

Site Survey: The technician will confirm that the locations previously agreed upon will work for the installation. The technician will place white flags at each location according to the plan you approved.

Installation: The technician will follow the plan based on the results of the site survey.

Maintenance: Our systems have identified an issue with your camera and a technician will be onsite to resolve the issue.

Stay Safe,
Your Flock Safety Team

Please see the attached Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Health Advisory: Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza A(H5N1) Virus: Recommendations for Human Health Investigations and Response.

A person has tested positive for avian influenza A(H5) virus (H5 bird flu) in the U.S., as confirmed by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and reported by the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment on April 28, 2022. This case occurred in a person who had direct exposure to poultry and who was involved in the culling (depopulating) of poultry with presumptive H5N1 bird flu.

Starting in January, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) detected highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) A(H5N1) virus in wild birds in the United States followed by multiple detections in U.S. commercial poultry and backyard bird flocks [1,2].

Detection of A(H5) virus in one person who was involved in culling of poultry does not change the human health risk assessment, which remains low for the general public. People with work or recreational exposures to infected birds are at greater risk of infection and should follow recommended precautions. The purpose of this HAN Health Advisory is to notify public health workers, clinicians, and the public of the potential for human infection with this virus and to describe the CDC's recommendations for patient investigation and testing, infection control including the use personal protective equipment, and antiviral treatment and prophylaxis.

Subject: Flash Mobs

Folks this is a synopsis of the newly circulated NRF "white paper" on Flash Mobs. If you haven't already done so please familiarize yourselves with the content and discuss with our tenants when necessary:

Flash Mob = Flash ROB?

For many of us, the term brings to mind viral videos of impromptu, yet well-choreographed dance or singing routines. They are a form of performance art, where large groups of people, appearing to be strangers, suddenly create a spectacle involving everything from dancing zombies in a public park, to the Hallelujah Chorus in a mall food court. The phenomenon is even being parodied in mobile phone commercials.

One example of this is shown below. This video was taken in February 2010, in Bristol, England. It shows over 100 individuals in a shopping center gathering and engaging in an impromptu "Light Saber" battle. The battle lasted for a few minutes, then the "would be" Jedi put their pretend weapons away, and assimilated back into the regular customer base.

These events are organized through the use of social media sites and text messages. Oftentimes, the participants are unaware of exactly where, when, or what "routine" will be performed – until just minutes prior. Originally designed as "social experiments," flash mobs quickly morphed into occurrences seemingly designed for no other reason than to bring joy to unsuspecting masses. However, as groups have begun to record and upload their performances to the internet, many of the "events" have become somewhat of a competition. No longer assembled solely for entertainment purposes, many groups are now more interested in viral views and record breaking.

For some cities though, the term "Flash-mob" has much darker connotations. Over the last 18 months, citizens and retailers in several metropolitan areas are seeing an increase in theft, vandalism, and violent acts carried out by groups of youths as large as 900 strong. The media is referring to these incidents as "flash-mobs;" while retailers and police departments have labeled them as MOC's (Multiple Offender Crimes).

Flash-mob type MOC's have been occurring throughout the US for years, and have been called many different things including: "wilding" in the 70's and "rampaging" in the 80's. Regardless of the name, it is undeniable that over the last 18 months these incidents have been increasing in frequency, organization, and media appearances. Our technology driven, "instant communication" culture makes the process easy. Like the entertainment flash mobs, these MOC groups can be organized and executed very quickly through the use of social media sites like Twitter and Facebook, or with mobile phones and texting. Offenders can then further benefit from technology, as their exploits are made famous through security and self-recorded videos appearing on the evening news and in internet postings.

March 2010 – South St. in Philadelphia PA, hundreds of young adults flock to South Street and begin to execute random acts of violence toward each other, people on the streets, and the occasional passer-by yanked out of their car.

February 2011 – Golden Valley MN, a mob of over 50 teens and young adults converged on a gas/convenience store and ravaged through merchandise like a school of piranha feeding on prey.

April 2011 – Washington DC, during an event at the National Zoo, a young adult is injured with a "life threatening" stab wound. Suspects were identified as being part of a large group of young adult/teenaged males. About an hour later, 19+ young males entered a designer clothing store down the street from the zoo. These suspects entered the store at the same time and quickly managed to snatch over $20,000.00 in merchandise.

July 2011 – Milwaukee (Riverwest) WI, mob of 30+ teens and young adults enter a convenience store, assault several employees and customers, and proceed to steal everything in sight. Some individuals are observed carrying entire racks and shelves out of the store. (RAW NEWS FOOTAGE)

July 2011 – Los Angeles CA, mob of 2000 + young adults attend an impromptu "block party" at the premiere of the "Electric Daisy Carnival" film. The mob commits various acts of vandalism and disorderly conduct until broken up by police in riot gear.

August 2011 – Milwaukee (State Fair) WI, mob of over 100+ teens and young adults in and around state fair commit multiple offenses, including multiple assaults, vandalism, burglary, and destruction of property.

According to a report just released by the National Retail Federation (NRF): "In July 2011, NRF polled retailers around the country to gauge the impact of multiple offender crimes. Over three-quarters (79%) of retailers report being a victim of a multiple offender crime in the past 12 months, some of these incidents (10%) involving flash mob tactics."

There have been hundreds of arrests nationwide following these flash mob incidents. But with most suspects only being charged with misdemeanor vandalism and petty theft, punishment is minimal. In fact, the charges may even be perceived as almost a rite of passage in some circles. Between a well aired viral video, and an almost meaningless criminal charge, the suspect in question has just been given substantial "street cred" with his/her peers.

So what is being done?

From a civic standpoint, most cities that have experienced these mobs have reacted quickly and aggressively. After a near riot in July, several new laws were created in Cleveland. One new law forbids ANY flash-mob activity; and another makes it possible to charge anyone that uses social media to organize a "flash mob" with a misdemeanor. In Philadelphia, police are regularly monitoring social media sites looking for potential organizers or advertisements for mob activity. Cities like Washington DC and Chicago are imposing earlier curfews in hopes of quelling some of the mob activity, with varying degrees of success. Fox News is reporting that popular Hip-Hop artists are being recruited to speak out against MOC/Flash mob activity as well.

From a retail standpoint, there seems to be much confusion on how to handle these incidents. Because of the unpredictable nature of the mobs, and the overwhelming number of suspects; ideas for preparation and reaction are sparse at best. Internet research shows a wide range of opinions on how best to handle an event as it occurs (during) and there is very little information on how what to do before or after. As is often the case when seeking advice on the internet, much of what is out there is flawed, erroneous, or even downright dangerous. Some of these "WORST" practices (NOT recommended by MAS) include: Any suggestions promoting physical or verbal confrontations with perpetrators, the use of weapons, or the use of security doors to lock or trap suspects in the store or area.

MAS has developed some BEST practice guidelines regarding Flash Mob MOC activity. They have been broken down into three categories: items for preparedness, actions to take during (an incident), and proper reaction to:

PREPAREDNESS:

- Ensure an "observe, report, document" culture within the store
- Ensure that entire team understands the prioritization of company assets
 1. Employee/customer safety
 2. Safety/integrity of structure (four walls), operating equipment, and fixturing
 3. Security of cash/merchandise
- If CCTV systems are available, ensure that they are consistently tested, utilized, and serviced in a timely fashion (when necessary)
- Ensure strict diligence in the monitoring on-hand counts/perpetual inventory systems, (in ALL stores, but) especially in area where MOC activity has occurred. In the event that a full inventory cannot be taken, this can help to quickly identify exact losses, create valuable descriptions of stolen merchandise for police followup, and ease the process of on-hand adjustment later
- Develop and maintain relationships with management and LP/AP teams at neighboring retailers
- Develop relationships with local police departments, and inquire any special unit or division currently monitoring MOC activity
- Discuss and assess the potential benefits and risks of silent alarm usage during an incident; then clearly instruct team members

ACTIONS DURING:

- Make an effort to maintain a 5' (minimum) radius from any perpetrators or area being affected – STAY OUT OF THE WAY
- Assess the safety and distance of fellow employees and any innocent bystanders; paying particular attention to high risk individuals: children, the elderly, pregnant women, etc.; attempt to bring them into your 5' "safety zone"
- Call 911 as soon as it is safe to do so
- Make NO ATTEMPT to confront or apprehend ANY of the suspects
- Try to remember identifiable features of one or more of the suspects
- IF SAFE TO DO SO, attempt to identify vehicles and/or license plate numbers

REACTIONS FOLLOWING:

- Assess the safety/condition of all employees and customers
- Call 911 (if you haven't already)
- Call immediate supervisor and any pertinent field managers (District Manager, Loss Prevention Manager, etc.) Note: field management should respond (in person if possible) immediately upon notification
- Order and Take a full physical inventory of the store to get a detailed assessment of precise inventory loss. Damage fixtures, building features, product protection devices, cash registers, etc. should all be evaluated and documented at this time

- Ensure diligent data-centric tracking of these incidents utilizing a proper case management system. The system should have capability to attach employee statements, incident photos and/or video, and any other pertinent documentation System should be preloaded with dropdowns (or other selection options) that include a specific "Flash Mob – MOC" classification, with subsets that could specify:
 1. Number of suspects
 2. Age range/descriptions
 3. Transportation used (arrived by foot, multiple cars, public transportation, etc.)
 4. Any assault or otherwise harmed employees, customers, or suspects
 5. Types of merchandise taken
 6. Descriptions of any damage to store, fixtures, product protection devices – including dollar values
 7. Detailed descriptions of merchandise loss; including product descriptions, value, UPC codes, quantities, and information on defeated product protection devices
 8. Ability to list departments, aisles, and/or categories in the order that they were "hit" (including special notation section if any areas were hit that only employees would have knowledge of/access to, i.e., hidden safe, high value hidden merchandise back-stock)

Even with the diligent work being done by lawmakers, law enforcement, and retailers, it is difficult (at best) to determine where and when these types of MOC's will occur, let alone to stop them. As it seems to be technology that is allowing these groups to organize and communicate, it may be technology and data that ultimately defeats them. Proper documentation, data entry, and case management will allow companies to perform their own tracking and analysis of these incidents. There WILL be data trends that will begin to show themselves. As these incidents become more frequent, database may be created by a coalition of retailers and/or law enforcement agencies (similar to current ORC programs) that will allow tracking and trending on a national level. Just as proper data analysis and predictive modeling can be utilized to forecast shrink; the MAS team believes that proper data capturing and trending can help to predict (and ultimately prevent) Flash Mob MOC activity.

Hi Capt Pasquinucci-

I wanted to know if we can set up a call next week to discuss the 7 locations with my Deployment team. If so, let me know if some dates/times options will work for you.

How are things progressing internally with the 60-day Pilot agreement and NJ Documents/Sole Source that I sent for purchasing?

Are there any specific blockers from moving forward?

I know we lose a week during the week of Thanksgiving and trying to gauge the timeline

What's needed for the 7 Locations

- For each location, we'll need to know if you want to use Power or Solar
- Since you own county roads this will be helpful

- Crosstreets/maps/landmarks for each location
- Do you own or can access any traffic lights, or lamp posts?
- For Solar- Do we need to install our own pole in the ground/grass?
- Or can we put Solar panels on an existing pole that the county or jurisdiction owns? We will need your permission
- Ideally for Solar, we'll need at least 4 hours of Direct Sunlight. 4 hours will get you approx 30K reads.
- The direction of the camera at each location- NB, SB, EB or Westbound
- If you own any Traffic lights/Lamp posts that can be hardwired, let me know if it's 120 or 220 V- you would be responsible for the electrician to plug in.

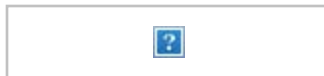

Look forward to hearing from you.

Hi Capt Pasquinucci-

Great meeting you earlier today and I appreciate you coming by to look at Flock. Here are all the documents to review internally to move forward with testing/piloting 7 of our units for 60 days with no risk cost. We discussed doing a Proof of Concept to see how Flock's technology stacks up to your current system with ELSAG.

Attached are the following documents to review, In addition, I included the following documents for purchasing and legal.

W9, NJ BRC, and Flock Sole Source Letter

Legal FAQs to reference, Terms, and Conditions document that can be redlined with changes/requests

Flock 7 Camera Agreement with a 60-Day out Clause to Pilot and test 7 ALPR units
No Penalty to reduce or remove the cameras if you're not happy

You can sign electronically through DocuSign or sign and scan via email. I just sent it through DocuSign.

Here's what we need for the 7 locations. Let me know when we could set up a call over the next week to discuss locations with you and your guys.

- For each location, we'll need to know if you want to use Power or Solar
- Let's avoid permits that are usually on State + County Roads- DOT + Utility companies permitting process is 1-2 years
- Crosstreets/maps/landmarks for each location
- Do you own or can access any traffic lights, or lamp posts?
- For Power 120 or 220V, work with your electrician to plug in during installation/the electrician is your responsibility/our technician will work with them- Attached is our electrician handout
- For Solar- Do we need to install our pole in the ground/grass?
- Or can we put Solar panels on an existing pole that Bridgewater owns? We will need your permission
- Ideally for Solar, we'll need at least 4 hours of Direct Sunlight. 4 hours will get you approx 30K reads.

- The direction of the camera at each location- NB, SB, EB or Westbound
- Letter from DPW or County that you have permission to use each location

Hi, All:

Just want to give a heads up. Starting 2011, NJDHSS requires all the foodborne disease and norovirus outbreaks will be directly entered into the National Outbreak Reporting System (NORS). We don't have the access to the electronic data entry yet. I will complete the form but will have your cooperation in collecting data, especially foodborne outbreaks happen in food entities. Please just have some idea of the 6-page report form with attachments when you have time.

Dear Mayors and Municipal Officials,

It looks like Spring has sprung! Until tomorrow that is, when much of the state is expected to get a nasty storm with snow and rain. Please be careful and don't forget that you can check DEP's Weather Ready Site for resources and information related to weather events that affect our state. If you have questions or concerns, don't hesitate to reach out to our office.

Registration Open! Climate Change Mayors Session on Electric Vehicles ⚡

You are invited to join the NJ League of Municipalities and DEP for the fourth Climate Change Lunch and Listen Session to discuss Vehicle Electrification. The conversation will include a primer on EV Charging stations , information on State and Federal funding opportunities , and a breakdown of NJ's EV infrastructure model ordinance . The presentations will be followed by a Q&A session open to all attendees.

The virtual meeting will take place Tuesday, March 15th from 12 pm -1 pm. To register for the virtual meeting, click here. The zoom link will be sent out shortly before the meeting on Tuesday, 3/15.

New Funding Opportunity! Federal Transit Authority (FTA) Announce Nearly $1.1 Billion in Grants to Help Modernize Bus Fleets and Bus Facilities Across the Country

On Monday, March 7, the Federal Transit Administration announced a competitive funding opportunity for electrifying Public Transit Buses. These grants provide funding to state and local governmental authorities for the purchase or lease of zero-emission and low-emission transit buses as well as acquisition, construction, and leasing of required supporting facilities. Approximately $1.1 billion is available under the FY2022 Low or No Emission Grant Program and approximately $372 million is available under the FY 2022 Grants for Buses and Bus Facilities Program. The deadline for applying is May 31, 2022.

Electrifying public transportation is a key part of NJ's climate mitigation goals, so we encourage you to consider applying for funding and/or spreading the word to other eligible entities. For more information, please review the below.

Register Now! 3rd Annual HAB Summit

Join DEP on March 23 for the 3rd annual Harmful Algal Bloom (HAB) Summit. This all-day, virtual seminar will be packed with important information to help attendees understand, prevent, and manage HABs. The draft agenda, which is subject to change before the summit, is attached. You can register for HAB Summit here.

A meeting invitation, accompanied with all log-in information needed for the platform, will be sent to registered participants closer to the date of the summit. If you are unable to attend the live event due to schedule constraints, the entire summit will be recorded and posted online. Please share this registration link with all who are interested!

As always, you can find additional HABs information on the DEP HABs website.

New Jersey State Parks to Fill Hundreds of Summer Jobs

From High Point in the northwest to Cape May Point in the southeast, New Jersey residents and visitors flock to the State's oceanfront, urban and rural parks between the months of May and September. To ensure park-goers can enjoy all that the New Jersey State Parks system has to offer, DEP recruits hundreds of seasonal employees who can build important skills while helping to deliver a first-class visitor experience. Jobs ranging from lifeguards to visitor assistants, nature educators to trail stewards and grounds maintenance, offer applicants the opportunity to spend their summer outdoors and consider the experience a possible steppingstone to a future career working to restore, preserve, and protect our natural, cultural, and historic resources.

To learn which parks, forests and historic sites are accepting applications or to apply for a specific position, visit www.nj.gov/dep/workinparks. Applicants are encouraged to check with the park office of their choice by phone at their earliest convenience about specific positions, scheduling and other job-related inquiries. Applications should be submitted as soon as possible.

Murphy Administration Releases Guide to Help Municipalities Prepare for More Electric Vehicles

A new guidebook was released on Tuesday, March 8, to give municipalities a blueprint to become Electric Vehicle Ready, from implementing the statewide Electric Vehicle Supply/Service Equipment \(EVSE\) ordinance to streamlining the permitting process and installing charging stations for fleet or public use. Charge Up Your Town – Best Management Practices to Ensure Your Town is EV Ready is a comprehensive guide that walks communities through the process to enhance EV accessibility for all. The guide provides easy-to-understand descriptions of the various types of charging stations, power outputs, costs, and electrical supply needs that will enable towns to pick the best charging station for their particular use case.

Murphy Administration Improves Planning and Access to New Jersey's Recreational Trails with Innovative Data Analytics

NJDEP, in partnership with the Trails Task Force of the New Jersey Geospatial Forum, released the first phase of a statewide inventory of public trails in New Jersey on Wednesday, March 9. This first-of-its-kind dataset, using information provided by government agencies and nonprofits, will advance the capabilities of the DEP and other government agencies, trail planners, and advocates to improve, expand and better connect the state's extensive network of trails, improving access for all of New Jersey's residents.

The dataset, accessible by PC and smartphones, can be helpful for the public to find places to hike. Web links and/or contact information is provided for the trail manager. The DEP strongly recommends that hikers use these resources to get more detailed maps and information, as well as current conditions or advisories. The New Jersey Division of Parks and Forestry offers a mobile-friendly Trail Tracker interactive trail map that provides useful information on hiking on state parks, forests, and recreation areas. Always be sure to download a pdf version before venturing into areas with uncertain cellular service. The DEP plans to integrate the data into a user-friendly web application in the future.

The dataset may be accessed here. To read the full press release, click here.

DEP Commissioner LaTourette Hails U.S. EPA Decision Restoring Stringent California Clean-Air Authority for Vehicles

On Wednesday, March 9, EPA reinstated California's authority under the Clean Air Act to implement its own greenhouse gas (GHG) emission standards and zero emission vehicle (ZEV) sales mandate. Commissioner LaTourette welcomed the decision, saying "We applaud the EPA for reinstating California's clean car waiver, which means New Jersey can continue developing very strong vehicle emissions standards that are protective of both public health and the environment. Today's decision reaffirms our commitment to greener and cleaner transportation in every community."

Barnegat Lighthouse will Close Through October to Undergo $1.3 Million Restoration

Barnegat Lighthouse will close to visitors for the next seven months as the Department of Environmental Protection embarks on a $1.3 million restoration of the historic lighthouse. The lighthouse closes Monday, March 14. Construction work through October will involve a complete exterior restoration of the lighthouse, masonry recoating and repairs to the brick facade, interior lantern steel platform repairs, roof repairs and the installation of new windows. Barnegat Lighthouse State Park will remain open.

Shore visitors wanting to climb a lighthouse this summer may visit one of the State Park Service's other lighthouses including Twin Lights Historic Site in Highlands, Absecon Lighthouse in Atlantic City or the Cape May Lighthouse in Cape May Point.

Free Salem Oak Seedling!

The New Jersey Forest Service Nursery is pleased to offer your municipality a seedling from the historic Salem Oak. The Salem Oak, a white oak estimated to be more than 500 years old, was one of New Jersey's most recognized trees. In 2019, this tree monument fell. The NJ Forest Service Nursery grew new seedlings from its acorns, collected before it fell, and they are now ready for distribution.

The seedling is three years old, bare-root, 8-26" in length and will be distributed to interested municipalities from March until April. Supply is on a first ordered, first fulfilled basis and inventory is limited.

Please note that if your municipality received a Salem Oak seedling in 2021, you do not qualify for another this year.

To order a Salem Oak seedling, please fill out and submit the attached form. Seedlings must be picked up at one of the locations on the form; shipping is not available. Please call the Forest Service Nursery at 732-928-0029 with any questions.

Don't forget to move your clock forward this weekend!

Please see the attached Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Health Advisory: Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza A(H5N1) Virus: Recommendations for Human Health Investigations and Response.

A person has tested positive for avian influenza A(H5) virus (H5 bird flu) in the U.S., as confirmed by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and reported by the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment on April 28, 2022. This case occurred in a person who had direct exposure to poultry and who was involved in the culling (depopulating) of poultry with presumptive H5N1 bird flu.

Starting in January, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) detected highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) A(H5N1) virus in wild birds in the United States followed by multiple detections in U.S. commercial poultry and backyard bird flocks [1,2].

Detection of A(H5) virus in one person who was involved in culling of poultry does not change the human health risk assessment, which remains low for the general public. People with work or recreational exposures to infected birds are at greater risk of infection and should follow recommended precautions. The purpose of this HAN Health Advisory is to notify public health workers, clinicians, and the public of the potential for human infection with this virus and to describe the CDC's recommendations for patient investigation and testing, infection control including the use personal protective equipment, and antiviral treatment and prophylaxis.

Status:

Scheduling: We are actively scheduling the technician visit - be that for a pre-installation site survey or the installation. Be on the lookout for the dispatched appointment within the next week or two.

Scheduled: Barring unforeseen circumstances, the technician will be onsite for your site survey or installation on this date.

Completed: The technician has completed the visit. Next step: the experts are in the process of confirming that your cameras are functioning properly (receiving adequate sunlight, connecting regularly to the cellular network, taking high-quality images, etc.). Once that part is complete, we will grant access to your camera footage.

Visit Types:

Site Survey: The technician will confirm that the locations previously agreed upon will work for the installation. The technician will place white flags at each location according to the plan you approved.

Installation: The technician will follow the plan based on the results of the site survey.

Maintenance: Our systems have identified an issue with your camera and a technician will be onsite to resolve the issue.

Stay Safe,
Your Flock Safety Team

American Red Cross Releases 5-Year Report on Response to Hurricane Katrina

Five years after a hurricane season that wreaked havoc on the Gulf Coast, the American Red Cross released "Bringing Help, Bringing Hope", a report that details the Red Cross response to Hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Wilma and the ensuing years of recovering for the survivors.

"Five years ago, the American public responded to Katrina with unprecedented generosity," said Russ Paulsen, Executive Director of the Hurricane Recovery Program at the Red Cross. "Looking back, I think they can be proud of what their contribution accomplished."

The Red Cross gave 1.4 million families - approximately 4.5 million people - emergency financial assistance in response to Hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Wilma, which was 19 times more than the previous record. Donors gave the organization a total of 2.2 billion for people affected by the storms which helped the Red Cross provide:

- Shelter for survivors across 31 states and the District of Columbia
- Hot meals and snacks
- Financial assistance for survivors to purchase groceries, clothing, diapers and other basic needs; and money for people to return home, make home repairs and get back to work
- Physical and mental health services to help them cope with stress and ease the trauma
- Tools to help survivors chart a path to recovery
- Disaster preparedness training so people know the steps to take to protect themselves and their families

"Never before had the Red Cross served so many people after a disaster, and never before had so many people come forward to help," said Paulsen. "But we learned that there are some disasters that are so big that no agency - government or nonprofit - can do it all. We learned that everyone needs to play a part."

One critical lesson was that the Red Cross needed to increase its capacity to respond and build partnerships with other organizations that can help in large events. As a result, the Red Cross established a nationwide warehouse system and pre-positioned more than two Katrina's worth of disaster supplies in warehouse - enough to support 350,000 shelter residents. It also enhanced local, state and national-level planning efforts to plan for how it would respond to large-scale disasters and created new partnerships with national, state and local groups to help ensure that all segments of the community are served after a disaster.

The report, "Bringing Help, Bringing Hope: The American Red Cross Response to Hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Wilma," is available at online.

"Red Cross Ride to Rock the Jersey Shore" Riders Urged to Gear Up for Annual Bike Tour

RNR Bike

Sunday, September 12, 2010
Sunset Park, Harvey Cedars
Long Beach Island, NJ

The 13th annual Rock 'n Ride Bike Tour and Party in the Park set on Long Beach Island will fuse together cyclists, rock music, and fun for all who attend. Held rain or shine, Sunday, September 12, Rock 'n Ride will benefit the Jersey Coast Chapter of the American Red Cross. Rock 'n Ride has become a tradition on LBI, combining a day of scenic biking and a party at Sunset Park in Harvey Cedars.

Rock 'n ride kicks off at Sunset Park in Harvey Cedars at 8:00 a.m., when riders can choose a 10-20 or 40-mile tour. Any skill-level rider is encouraged to come with their family, coworkers or friends and have fun, whether you are testing your endurance, or riding the route at your own pace along the beautiful New Jersey coastline.

After the bike tour is complete, riders return to Sunset Park in Harvey Cedars for a celebration with live music, food and activities. Rock 'n Roll phenomenon, The Nerds and The Punks will be on the stage and Have Grill...Will Travel will serve a barbecue lunch. "We have many exciting and new activities planned for this year. There is something that everyone can enjoy at the party," said event coordinator, Amy Weltner. The Bloodmobile will be on-site from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. for those who meet the requirements and are willing to donate. Kids workshops, fishing lessons, face painting, clowns, goodie bags with coupons, massages, chocolate tasting, etc. are among the festivities.

*Meet Our
Business Partners*

By supporting the Jersey Coast Chapter, you are supporting the world's largest humanitarian organization. Your generosity will help us provide blood to a premature baby, comfort to a family who has lost everything in a house fire; train and certify lifeguards who keep our families safe and teach CPR to someone who may save the life of someone you love. Advanced registration is only $20 for adults/$10 for kids ages 12 and under. You can also register on-site; $25 for adults/$15 for kids ages 12 and under. Registration can be done online or you can call 732.493.9100, ext. 1224 to receive information.

Prizes are awarded to individuals who pledge certain amounts of money ranging from vintage first-aid kits, to t-shirts, to a two-night stay at an Oceanside home in Barnegat Light for up to six people. "This year we are also encouraging friends, families and companies to form teams. We want to be more group-friendly and there are many incentives for those who form their own team," said Weltner. Riders in the past have ranged anywhere from ages 3 to 90. "Please show your support for the American Red Cross and gear up for this year's better than ever Rock 'n Ride," said Weltner.

Dedicated Couple Ridin' for Red Since 1997

Bruce & Carol MacPherson's Story

The Rock 'n Ride Bike Tour has been an event recognized throughout Ocean County and brought to Long Beach Island by the Jersey Coast Chapter since 1997. When people on the island hear the words, "Rock 'n Ride," it is synonymous with the American Red Cross. It is the event at the culmination of the summer for many excited riders from all over the tri-state area; who come out with family, friends and co-workers to enjoy a fun-filled scenic bike ride at each rider's own pace.

As things have changed and evolved over the years with Rock 'N Ride, one thing is certain over the past 13 years that has not changed. Husband and wife, Bruce and Carol MacPherson, have always signed up as the #2 and #3 riders since the birth of the event. Bruce and his wife begin training every year for Rock 'N Ride five months prior in April and prepare by riding ten miles in the morning and ten miles at night. It gives them

Mission Statement

The American Red Cross, a humanitarian organization led by volunteers, provides relief to victims of disasters and helps people prevent, prepare for and respond to emergencies.

an incentive to finish the ride and they receive their pledges from people per mile. "It is in our best interest to finish as we collect money per mile, we want to raise as much money as possible for the Red Cross because you all do a great job," said Bruce.

Bruce and Carol spend most their summer on Long Beach Island and look forward to Rock 'N Ride to culminate the summer season. Bruce's voice already has excitement in it as he speaks about the event which is rapidly approaching on September 12th. "The start of the ride is the most exciting part for me because everyone is together and excited. Not everyone finishes, so I think starting together is the best part."

Over 13 years running, Rock 'N Ride has grown in many ways, adding exciting options for everyone in attendance. "We love the food and the band, but the fact that the bloodmobile comes now is so important. We plan on donating blood right after we finish the ride."

Rock 'N Ride is an extremely important event for the chapter and this year looks to be more exhilarating than ever. There is a new option to form a team, a 20-mile route, more kids activities and of course, a free concert by The Nerds!

"I would not change a thing, last year was so great - last year, I brought a lot of new people and they were worried about what to do when we all finished at different times and they were thrilled - you did everything right. I would do it twice a year - fall and spring!", said Bruce.

Something that stands out about Bruce and Carol MacPherson is not only both of their dedication to the American Red Cross, their generosity in bringing people to ride with them and their caring attitude towards the organization. "One year, we finished dead last and there were guys from the Red Cross that followed us in...but we finished and we were so proud of that!"

The 13th annual Rock 'N Ride and Party in the Park will be held at Sunset Park in Harvey Cedars on Long Beach Island. Please become a supporter and show your pride for the Jersey Coast Chapter, like the MacPherson's have year in and year out.

Local Disaster Relief Efforts by YOUR Jersey Coast Chapter

Matawan

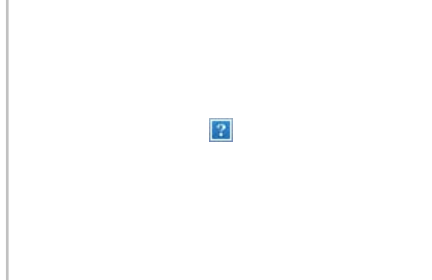

Firefighters rescued three people who were trapped on the first floor of their home while a furious fire roared through their two-story home in Matawan at 4:30 am on August 12th. An 88 year old woman, her caretaker and his son were all trapped in the home before firefighters managed to get all three of them out safely. The elderly woman, who was also in a wheelchair, was taken to Bayshore Medical Center for severe smoke inhalation but is reported to be doing fine. The Jersey Coast Chapter was notified at 6:00 am and disaster volunteer, Antonia Silver arrived on the scene. Through the generosity of our donors, the Jersey Coast Chapter assisted and supported the victims of the fire with several nights stay at a local hotel, food and clothing.

Middletown Fire

The weather has been thoroughly unpredictable throughout the Jersey Shore all summer, consisting of short, yet severe thunderstorms that roared through the coastline, leaving damage behind. One of these storms recently moved through an area of Monmouth County leaving one family devastated and in need of help from the Jersey Coast Chapter

A fire broke out on Monmouth Parkway in Middletown after lightning struck their home, causing their roof to catch on fire. A mother, father and three of their small children fortunately escaped without injuries and were left displaced as a result. The cause was clearly accidental, with the family safe and unharmed, but their possessions had no such luck. Although it was confined to the attic and extinguished quickly, water damage ruined furniture and appliances.

Without renter's insurance to cover the effects, and looking for more permanent housing, YOUR Jersey Coast Chapter was there for them. Disaster volunteer, Carol Cohen, arrived on the scene and through the generosity of our donors, the Jersey Coast Chapter was able to provide shelter, food, clothing, comfort kits and infant formula to the family. We also provided financial assistance so the family could relocate to another home. The father of the family commented stating that, "The Red Cross has been unbelievable. Out of any other agency - they've been the best and we are grateful."

Funding for disaster relief comes completely through local donations from individuals, businesses and organizations. Please consider donating to replenish the fund, helping ensure the Jersey Coast Chapter is always prepared to respond to disasters in our community. You can donate by calling (732) 493-9100 or go online at www.jerseycoast-redcross.org.

Red Cross Sends Additional Aid to Flood-Engulfed Pakistan

Click Picture to Donate and Support the Pakistan Relief and Development

The global Red Cross and Red Crescent network is quadrupling its emergency activities in Pakistan in response to the country's worst flooding in more than 80 years. As part of this effort, the American Red Cross is providing $1 million to help Pakistani families meet their most critical needs.

The impact of the flooding is staggering and the UN estimates that the number of people affected is now more than 15 million.

Much of the affected area in the south is still underwater. Hundreds of villages and thousands of acres of standing crops are submerged, and the waters may not recede fully for more than a year. In the northwest of the country, the waters have receded in many places and the devastation most resembles an earthquake. Bridges have collapsed and nearly 1 million houses are damaged or destroyed.

Thousands of local Pakistan Red Crescent volunteers are now distributing relief to their communities, and have reached 350,000 people since the flooding started.

There is still great need. The global Red Cross and Red Crescent network is working with the Pakistan Red Crescent Society to reach more than 900,000 people. This assistance includes emergency relief, tents and shelter kits, medical care, clean water and improved sanitation, as well as help to restore livelihoods in the coming months.

Meanwhile, medical teams have treated 44,000 people since the flooding first began. Waterborne diseases still pose a risk to millions of people, especially children, living in the flood-affected areas, and contaminated water and the lack of medication are causing some of the main flood-related illnesses, such as destructive tract infections and diarrhea, to be potentially deadly.

Comparisons between Pakistan's current flooding and previous major natural disasters make it clear that this is a catastrophe of unparalleled magnitude, and the floods are not yet likely to have reached their destructive peak. More rain is expected by the end of this week.

2010 Haiti Earthquake

American Red Cross 6-Month Progress Report

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT AND CEO

Over the past six months, I have made three trips to Haiti, and each one has left me filled with a mixture of hope and despair. Tremendous progress has been made, and the resiliency of the Haitian people is inspirational, but immense needs still remain.

People I saw walking through the streets of Port-au-Prince after the earthquake with little more than their shock and grief are now living under at least tarps or tents. In addition, many Haitians have access today to more reliable supplies of food, clean water, sanitation and, in some cases, better health care than they did before the earthquake.

And new American Red Cross programs will provide financial assistance that will empower families who once stood in line for relief distributions to buy some of the things they need most, which in turn should help stimulate the country's economy.

But for every sign of optimism in Haiti, there is a sad reminder of how much more remains to be done.

Rubble fills many side streets in Haiti's capital. Tents and tarps cover nearly every open space, and land ownership is still unresolved, leaving few places to build the thousands of much-needed transitional shelters. And threats of crime and infectious disease outbreaks are prevalent.

Click Image to View a Special
Video Haiti: Reflections of Humanity

We know the crisis is not over and the recover process will be long and difficult. Haiti and its people must rebuild their homes, economy, health systems, schools and transportation network. With an estimated $12 billion needed to rebuild Haiti, the needs are far beyond the capacity of the Red Cross along to fix, and will require the collective efforts of governments and humanitarian groups around the world.

I want to assure everyone who generously donated to us that the American Red Cross and the global Red Cross network are doing the absolute best we can to help as many people as possible in Haiti - and your dollars are making a big difference. The American Red Cross spends 91 cents of every dollar on our humanitarian mission, and we will spend the funds donated for Haiti relief and recovery transparently and wisely. The American Red Cross will be in Haiti until the last donated dollar is spent, and thanks to your generosity, we are making a difference in the lives of the Haitian people.

Taste of the Holidays

Hot Dogs Are Not Happy Dogs

As we are in the final leg of summer, temperatures across the country continue to soar. Many people will flock to the beach, others might host a picnic in their own backyard. However we spend our summer days, pets are often included in the trips and festivities. The American Red Cross is using the Dog Days of summer as an opportunity to promote pet safety, and encourage pet owners to learn how to prevent and treat heat stroke in dogs, especially during the hot summer months.

Heat stroke occurs when a dog severely overheats - most commonly in the spring and summer months - when the weather turns warm. The good news is if the heat stroke hasn't advanced too far (with body temperature of more than 104°F), you can help your dog recover. It is important to know if your dog is predisposed to heat stroke which is true of dogs with short snouts such as bulldogs, pugs and many other breeds. Other common causes of heat stroke include: a previous episode of heat stroke, dog left in a parked car, excessive exercise in hot humid weather (this may be exercise that your dog can usually handle but no in warmer weather), lack of appropriate shelter for an animal outdoors, thick-coated dogs in warm climates and underlying disease such as upper airway, heart or lung disease.

Never leave your pet in a parked car! Even with the windows cracked, your pet can quickly suffer heat stroke - and even die. Temperature can exceed 120°F in parked cars.

Unlike humans, dogs do not have sweat glands, so they can dispel heat only by panting and through the pads of their feet. Make sure your pet has plenty of cool water and shade during the hot weather.

Signs and symptoms of heat stroke include: collapse, body temperature 104°F or above, bloody diarrhea or vomit, depression, stupor, seizures or coma, excessive panting or difficulty breathing, increased heart rate, salivation.

If you suspect heat stroke:

- you should get your dog out of direct heat
- check for shock
- take your dog's temperature
- spray your dog with cool water then retake temperature
- place water-soaked towels on the dog's head, neck, feet, chest and abdomen, turn on a fan and point in your dog's direction, rub Isopropyl alcohol (70%) on the dog's foot pads to help cool him, but don't use large quantities as it can be toxic if ingested
- take your dog to the nearest veterinary hospital.

During a heat crisis, the goal is always to decrease the dog's body temperature to 103°F in the first 10-15 minutes. Once 103°F is reached, you must stop the cooling process because the body temperature will continue to decrease and can plummet dangerously low if you continue to cool the dog for too long.

Even if you successfully cool your pet down to 103°F in the first 10-15 minutes, you must take the dog to a veterinarian as soon as possible because consequences of heat stroke will not show up for hours or even days. Potential problems include abnormal heart rhythms, kidney failure, neurological problems and respiratory arrest.

The Golden Rule for Back to School

Whether it's the last-minute run to the store for the glue that will hold a child's project together or the dozens of bake-sale cupcakes whipped up late at night, parents frequently deal with the unexpected. Being prepared for emergencies - and not just the glue and cupcake variety - is the new golden rule for having a great school year.

Get a Kit

Most back-to-school shopping lists feature items like pencils, notebooks and folders. This year, make sure you also have items for an emergency preparedness kit.

At a minimum, have the basic supplies listed below. Keep supplies in an easy-to-carry container that you can use at home or take with you in case you must evacuate.

- Water - one gallon per person, per day (3-day supply for evacuation, 2-week supply for home)
- Flashlight
- Food - non-perishable, easy-to-prepare items (3-day supply for evacuation, 2-week supply for home)
- Flashlight
- Battery-powered or hand crank radio (NOAA Weather Radio, if possible)
- Extra batteries
- First Aid kit
- Medications (7-day supply) and medical items
- Multi-purpose tool
- Sanitation and personal hygiene items
- Copies of personal documents (medication list and pertinent medical information, proof of address, deed/lease to home, passports, birth certificates, insurance policies)
- Cell phone with chargers
- Family and emergency contact information
- Extra cash
- Emergency blanket
- Map(s) of the area

Make a Plan

Every family should create and practice an evacuation and communication plan. Each person should know how to reach other family members and where to meet if they can't return home. You should also designate an out-of-area relative or friend as an emergency contact and make sure all household members know how to contact this person.

To make an evacuation plan, choose two meeting places: one right outside your home in case of a sudden emergency, such as a fire, and another outside your neighborhood in case you cannot return home or are asked to evacuate.

Decide where you would go and what route you would take if you had to evacuate. Make sure to also plan ahead for your pets. Keep a phone list of "pet friendly" motels/hotels and animal shelters that are along your evacuation routes.

Be Informed

Learning the skills you need to respond in an emergency before help arrives is another important key to being prepared. Make sure that at least one member of your household is trained in first aid and CPR and knows how to use an automated external defibrillator (AED).

The need is constant.

Give blood.

Every two seconds

someone in the United States needs blood.

That's a lot of blood.

But only 5% of the eligible US population donates blood in any given year.

Type O Negative donors especially needed!

While all blood types are needed during the critical summer month, Type O negative is always in high demand because it can be transfused to patients with any blood type, especially in emergency situations. Type O negative donors can make the difference between an adequate blood supply and a summer shortage.

What Is the American Red Cross Legacy Society?

The American Red Cross honors every planned gift donor with membership in its prestigious Legacy Society. We invite you to become a member of the Legacy Society, created exclusively to honor and recognize people who have helped continue our lifesaving work through a gift to the American Red Cross in their wills, trusts or estate plans. As a Red Cross Legacy Society member, you'll receive a certificate of appreciation and a Legacy Society lapel pin to serve as a reminder to others of your support of our mission. Your gift can be recognized publicly, unless you prefer to give anonymously. The society also provides information and assistance to donors considering a planned gift.

What Is The Next Step?

If you have already arranged for a bequest or other planned gift, please notify Debi Heptig, Director of Development at 732.493.9100, Ext. 1259 so we can honor your support. If you have not made a planned gift yet but want more information about our Legacy Society, or to request a free copy of our estate planning booklet, Touching the Future: A Guide to Estate Planning and Charitable Giving, please call Debi and she will help you and your advisors complete your gift in a way that benefits your estate and makes clear your intention to help the Red Cross.

When you join the Legacy Society, you demonstrate your commitment to the humanitarian mission of the Red Cross and help ensure the long-term strength of the organization.

Good morning Lt Kodran,

Any chance we can move the kick off call from today to Monday, 11/28? Sam time would work for me, 10am eastern time.

Let me know your thoughts.

Kind regards,

Velo

Responding Legislatively to COVID-19

In a matter of weeks, so much about our communities has changed. Local governments are juggling a massive number of issues in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. The challenges are economic, cultural, and have included process disruption, public health concerns, and so much more. This has led to enacting emergency ordinances to allow service continuity and protection of the safety and health of constituents. It's also involved finding creative and practical ways to overcome stress on the food supply chain and local business hardships.

Chief Baumann,

Properly manufactured LPR surveillance cameras are built to last for years. I recently came across this older and operational omniQ/HTS installation at the now nonexistent Grand Orlando Resort.

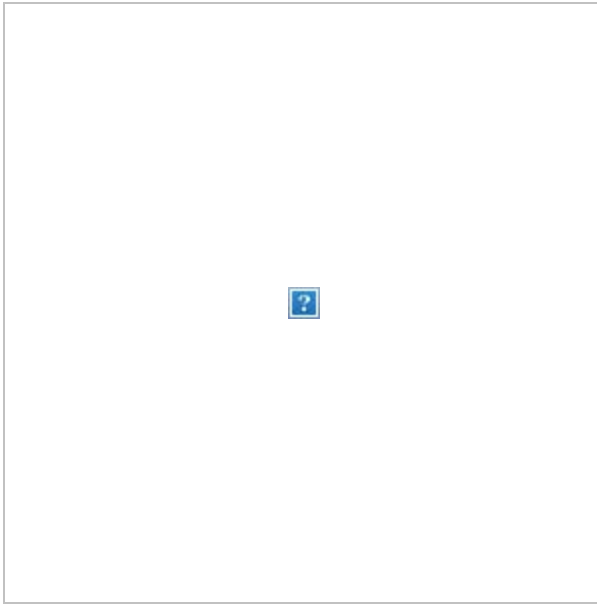

Why are many law enforcement agencies paying full camera price of $2,500 every year to rent an LPR camera from an omniQ SaaS competitor?

Security cameras are built to work for years.

Do the math – in 5 years your rental Brand F LPR camera has cost you $12,500 and over 200% more than a properly manufactured LPR camera from a security surveillance manufacturer.

This is what happens when software companies try to invade the security space with an inferior product. Don't be fooled by the flock. Look to omniQ.

Please make me aware of a good time when you can meet for an in person omniQ demonstration, or click the following link to set a virtual appointment - Select a Meeting Date and Time

Dear Mayors and Municipal Officials,

It looks like Spring has sprung! Until tomorrow that is, when much of the state is expected to get a nasty storm with snow and rain. Please be careful and don't forget that you can check DEP's Weather Ready Site for resources and information related to weather events that affect our state. If you have questions or concerns, don't hesitate to reach out to our office.

Registration Open! Climate Change Mayors Session on Electric Vehicles ⚡

You are invited to join the NJ League of Municipalities and DEP for the fourth Climate Change Lunch and Listen Session to discuss Vehicle Electrification. The conversation will include a primer on EV Charging stations , information on State and Federal funding opportunities , and a breakdown of NJ's EV infrastructure model ordinance . The presentations will be followed by a Q&A session open to all attendees.

The virtual meeting will take place Tuesday, March 15th from 12 pm -1 pm. To register for the virtual meeting, click here. The zoom link will be sent out shortly before the meeting on Tuesday, 3/15.

New Funding Opportunity! Federal Transit Authority (FTA) Announce Nearly $1.1 Billion in Grants to Help Modernize Bus Fleets and Bus Facilities Across the Country

On Monday, March 7, the Federal Transit Administration announced a competitive funding opportunity for electrifying Public Transit Buses. These grants provide funding to state and local governmental authorities for the purchase or lease of zero-emission and low-emission transit buses as well as acquisition, construction, and leasing of required supporting facilities. Approximately $1.1 billion is available under the FY2022 Low or No Emission Grant Program and approximately $372 million is available under the FY 2022 Grants for Buses and Bus Facilities Program. The deadline for applying is May 31, 2022.

Electrifying public transportation is a key part of NJ's climate mitigation goals, so we encourage you to consider applying for funding and/or spreading the word to other eligible entities. For more information, please review the below.

- Notice of Funding
- FTA Program Summary
- Fact Sheet: Buses and Bus Facilities Programs

Register Now! 3rd Annual HAB Summit

Join DEP on March 23 for the 3rd annual Harmful Algal Bloom (HAB) Summit. This all-day, virtual seminar will be packed with important information to help attendees understand, prevent, and manage HABs. The draft agenda, which is subject to change before the summit, is attached. You can register for HAB Summit here.

A meeting invitation, accompanied with all log-in information needed for the platform, will be sent to registered participants closer to the date of the summit. If you are unable to attend the live event due to schedule constraints, the entire summit will be recorded and posted online. Please share this registration link with all who are interested!

As always, you can find additional HABs information on the DEP HABs website.

New Jersey State Parks to Fill Hundreds of Summer Jobs

From High Point in the northwest to Cape May Point in the southeast, New Jersey residents and visitors flock to the State's oceanfront, urban and rural parks between the months of May and September. To ensure park-goers can enjoy all that the New Jersey State Parks system has to offer, DEP recruits hundreds of seasonal employees who can build important skills while helping to deliver a first-class visitor experience. Jobs ranging from lifeguards to visitor assistants, nature educators to trail stewards and grounds maintenance, offer applicants the opportunity to spend their summer outdoors and consider the experience a possible steppingstone to a future career working to restore, preserve, and protect our natural, cultural, and historic resources.

To learn which parks, forests and historic sites are accepting applications or to apply for a specific position, visit www.nj.gov/dep/workinparks. Applicants are encouraged to check with the park office of their choice by phone at their earliest convenience about specific positions, scheduling and other job-related inquiries. Applications should be submitted as soon as possible.

Murphy Administration Releases Guide to Help Municipalities Prepare for More Electric Vehicles

A new guidebook was released on Tuesday, March 8, to give municipalities a blueprint to become Electric Vehicle Ready, from implementing the statewide Electric Vehicle Supply/Service Equipment \(EVSE\) ordinance to streamlining the permitting process and installing charging stations for fleet or public use. Charge Up Your Town – Best Management Practices to Ensure Your Town is EV Ready is a comprehensive guide that walks communities through the process to enhance EV accessibility for all. The guide provides easy-to-understand descriptions of the various types of charging stations, power outputs, costs, and electrical supply needs that will enable towns to pick the best charging station for their particular use case.

Murphy Administration Improves Planning and Access to New Jersey's Recreational Trails with Innovative Data Analytics

NJDEP, in partnership with the Trails Task Force of the New Jersey Geospatial Forum, released the first phase of a statewide inventory of public trails in New Jersey on Wednesday, March 9. This first-of-its-kind dataset, using information provided by government agencies and nonprofits, will advance the capabilities of the DEP and other government agencies, trail planners, and advocates to improve, expand and better connect the state's extensive network of trails, improving access for all of New Jersey's residents.

The dataset, accessible by PC and smartphones, can be helpful for the public to find places to hike. Web links and/or contact information is provided for the trail manager. The DEP strongly recommends that hikers use these resources to get more detailed maps and information, as well as current conditions or advisories. The New Jersey Division of Parks and Forestry offers a mobile-friendly Trail Tracker interactive trail map that provides useful information on hiking on state parks, forests, and recreation areas. Always be sure to download a pdf version before venturing into areas with uncertain cellular service. The DEP plans to integrate the data into a user-friendly web application in the future.

The dataset may be accessed here. To read the full press release, click here.

DEP Commissioner LaTourette Hails U.S. EPA Decision Restoring Stringent California Clean-Air Authority for Vehicles

On Wednesday, March 9, EPA reinstated California's authority under the Clean Air Act to implement its own greenhouse gas (GHG) emission standards and zero emission vehicle (ZEV) sales mandate. Commissioner LaTourette welcomed the decision, saying "We applaud the EPA for reinstating California's clean car waiver, which means New Jersey can continue developing very strong vehicle emissions standards that are protective of both public health and the environment. Today's decision reaffirms our commitment to greener and cleaner transportation in every community."

Barnegat Lighthouse will Close Through October to Undergo $1.3 Million Restoration

Barnegat Lighthouse will close to visitors for the next seven months as the Department of Environmental Protection embarks on a $1.3 million restoration of the historic lighthouse. The lighthouse closes Monday, March 14. Construction work through October will involve a complete exterior restoration of the lighthouse, masonry recoating and repairs to the brick facade, interior lantern steel platform repairs, roof repairs and the installation of new windows. Barnegat Lighthouse State Park will remain open.

Shore visitors wanting to climb a lighthouse this summer may visit one of the State Park Service's other lighthouses including Twin Lights Historic Site in Highlands, Absecon Lighthouse in Atlantic City or the Cape May Lighthouse in Cape May Point.

Citizen Science Water Monitoring Equipment Loan Program Request for Applications Now Open

The 2022 US EPA Region 2 Citizen Science Water Monitoring Equipment Loan Program Request for Applications is now open for New York and New Jersey. The goal of the program is to provide the tools and a framework to enable citizens to take an active role in their community and watershed by providing quality data to enhance environmental stewardship, create healthy and sustainable communities, support community-driven solutions, and to collaborate with government at all levels in protecting the environment.

The equipment loan program is open to all non-profit organizations (e.g., volunteer monitoring organizations, citizen science groups, non-government organizations, universities, local governments, etc.) and Tribal Nations in New York and New Jersey. This loan program is restricted to equipment only and does not include expendable sampling or analysis supplies. Please see the Request for Applications (RFA) for an estimate of consumable costs.

Applications will be accepted through April 10th, 2022, and can be accessed at this link.

All details can be found in the Request for Applications (RFA), here.

Free Salem Oak Seedling!

The New Jersey Forest Service Nursery is pleased to offer your municipality a seedling from the historic Salem Oak. The Salem Oak, a white oak estimated to be more than 500 years old, was one of New Jersey's most recognized trees. In 2019, this tree monument fell. The NJ Forest Service Nursery grew new seedlings from its acorns, collected before it fell, and they are now ready for distribution.

The seedling is three years old, bare-root, 8-26" in length and will be distributed to interested municipalities from March until April. Supply is on a first ordered, first fulfilled basis and inventory is limited.

Please note that if your municipality received a Salem Oak seedling in 2021, you do not qualify for another this year.

To order a Salem Oak seedling, please fill out and submit the attached form. Seedlings must be picked up at one of the locations on the form; shipping is not available. Please call the Forest Service Nursery at 732-928-0029 with any questions.

Don't forget to move your clock forward this weekend!

Dear Mayors and Municipal Officials,

It looks like Spring has sprung! Until tomorrow that is, when much of the state is expected to get a nasty storm with snow and rain. Please be careful and don't forget that you can check DEP's Weather Ready Site for resources and information related to weather events that affect our state. If you have questions or concerns, don't hesitate to reach out to our office.

Registration Open! Climate Change Mayors Session on Electric Vehicles ⚡

You are invited to join the NJ League of Municipalities and DEP for the fourth Climate Change Lunch and Listen Session to discuss Vehicle Electrification. The conversation will include a primer on EV Charging stations , information on State and Federal funding opportunities , and a breakdown of NJ's EV infrastructure model ordinance . The presentations will be followed by a Q&A session open to all attendees.

The virtual meeting will take place Tuesday, March 15th from 12 pm -1 pm. To register for the virtual meeting, click here. The zoom link will be sent out shortly before the meeting on Tuesday, 3/15.

New Funding Opportunity! Federal Transit Authority (FTA) Announce Nearly $1.1 Billion in Grants to Help Modernize Bus Fleets and Bus Facilities Across the Country

On Monday, March 7, the Federal Transit Administration announced a competitive funding opportunity for electrifying Public Transit Buses. These grants provide funding to state and local governmental authorities for the purchase or lease of zero-emission and low-emission transit buses as well as acquisition, construction, and leasing of required supporting facilities. Approximately $1.1 billion is available under the FY2022 Low or No Emission Grant Program and approximately $372 million is available under the FY 2022 Grants for Buses and Bus Facilities Program. The deadline for applying is May 31, 2022.

Electrifying public transportation is a key part of NJ's climate mitigation goals, so we encourage you to consider applying for funding and/or spreading the word to other eligible entities. For more information, please review the below.

Register Now! 3rd Annual HAB Summit

Join DEP on March 23 for the 3rd annual Harmful Algal Bloom (HAB) Summit. This all-day, virtual seminar will be packed with important information to help attendees understand, prevent, and manage HABs. The draft agenda, which is subject to change before the summit, is attached. You can register for HAB Summit here.

A meeting invitation, accompanied with all log-in information needed for the platform, will be sent to registered participants closer to the date of the summit. If you are unable to attend the live event due to schedule constraints, the entire summit will be recorded and posted online. Please share this registration link with all who are interested!

As always, you can find additional HABs information on the DEP HABs website.

New Jersey State Parks to Fill Hundreds of Summer Jobs

From High Point in the northwest to Cape May Point in the southeast, New Jersey residents and visitors flock to the State's oceanfront, urban and rural parks between the months of May and September. To ensure park-goers can enjoy all that the New Jersey State Parks system has to offer, DEP recruits hundreds of seasonal employees who can build important skills while helping to deliver a first-class visitor experience. Jobs ranging from lifeguards to visitor assistants, nature educators to trail stewards and grounds maintenance, offer applicants the opportunity to spend their summer outdoors and consider the experience a possible steppingstone to a future career working to restore, preserve, and protect our natural, cultural, and historic resources.

To learn which parks, forests and historic sites are accepting applications or to apply for a specific position, visit www.nj.gov/dep/workinparks. Applicants are encouraged to check with the park office of their choice by phone at their earliest convenience about specific positions, scheduling and other job-related inquiries. Applications should be submitted as soon as possible.

Murphy Administration Releases Guide to Help Municipalities Prepare for More Electric Vehicles

A new guidebook was released on Tuesday, March 8, to give municipalities a blueprint to become Electric Vehicle Ready, from implementing the statewide Electric Vehicle Supply/Service Equipment \(EVSE\) ordinance to streamlining the permitting process and installing charging stations for fleet or public use. Charge Up Your Town – Best Management Practices to Ensure Your Town is EV Ready is a comprehensive guide that walks communities through the process to enhance EV accessibility for all. The guide provides easy-to-understand descriptions of the various types of charging stations, power outputs, costs, and electrical supply needs that will enable towns to pick the best charging station for their particular use case.

Murphy Administration Improves Planning and Access to New Jersey's Recreational Trails with Innovative Data Analytics

NJDEP, in partnership with the Trails Task Force of the New Jersey Geospatial Forum, released the first phase of a statewide inventory of public trails in New Jersey on Wednesday, March 9. This first-of-its-kind dataset, using information provided by government agencies and nonprofits, will advance the capabilities of the DEP and other government agencies, trail planners, and advocates to improve, expand and better connect the state's extensive network of trails, improving access for all of New Jersey's residents.

The dataset, accessible by PC and smartphones, can be helpful for the public to find places to hike. Web links and/or contact information is provided for the trail manager. The DEP strongly recommends that hikers use these resources to get more detailed maps and information, as well as current conditions or advisories. The New Jersey Division of Parks and Forestry offers a mobile-friendly Trail Tracker interactive trail map that provides useful information on hiking on state parks, forests, and recreation areas. Always be sure to download a pdf version before venturing into areas with uncertain cellular service. The DEP plans to integrate the data into a user-friendly web application in the future.

The dataset may be accessed here. To read the full press release, click here.

DEP Commissioner LaTourette Hails U.S. EPA Decision Restoring Stringent California Clean-Air Authority for Vehicles

On Wednesday, March 9, EPA reinstated California's authority under the Clean Air Act to implement its own greenhouse gas (GHG) emission standards and zero emission vehicle (ZEV) sales mandate. Commissioner LaTourette welcomed the decision, saying "We applaud the EPA for reinstating California's clean car waiver, which means New Jersey can continue developing very strong vehicle emissions standards that are protective of both public health and the environment. Today's decision reaffirms our commitment to greener and cleaner transportation in every community."

Barnegat Lighthouse will Close Through October to Undergo $1.3 Million Restoration

Barnegat Lighthouse will close to visitors for the next seven months as the Department of Environmental Protection embarks on a $1.3 million restoration of the historic lighthouse. The lighthouse closes Monday, March 14. Construction work through October will involve a complete exterior restoration of the lighthouse, masonry recoating and repairs to the brick facade, interior lantern steel platform repairs, roof repairs and the installation of new windows. Barnegat Lighthouse State Park will remain open.

Shore visitors wanting to climb a lighthouse this summer may visit one of the State Park Service's other lighthouses including Twin Lights Historic Site in Highlands, Absecon Lighthouse in Atlantic City or the Cape May Lighthouse in Cape May Point.

Citizen Science Water Monitoring Equipment Loan Program Request for Applications Now Open

The 2022 US EPA Region 2 Citizen Science Water Monitoring Equipment Loan Program Request for Applications is now open for New York and New Jersey. The goal of the program is to provide the tools and a framework to enable citizens to take an active role in their community and watershed by providing quality data to enhance environmental stewardship, create healthy and sustainable communities, support community-driven solutions, and to collaborate with government at all levels in protecting the environment.

The equipment loan program is open to all non-profit organizations (e.g., volunteer monitoring organizations, citizen science groups, non-government organizations, universities, local governments, etc.) and Tribal Nations in New York and New Jersey. This loan program is restricted to equipment only and does not include expendable sampling or analysis supplies. Please see the Request for Applications (RFA) for an estimate of consumable costs.

Applications will be accepted through April 10th, 2022, and can be accessed at this link.

All details can be found in the Request for Applications (RFA), here.

Free Salem Oak Seedling!

The New Jersey Forest Service Nursery is pleased to offer your municipality a seedling from the historic Salem Oak. The Salem Oak, a white oak estimated to be more than 500 years old, was one of New Jersey's most recognized trees. In 2019, this tree monument fell. The NJ Forest Service Nursery grew new seedlings from its acorns, collected before it fell, and they are now ready for distribution.

The seedling is three years old, bare-root, 8-26" in length and will be distributed to interested municipalities from March until April. Supply is on a first ordered, first fulfilled basis and inventory is limited.

Please note that if your municipality received a Salem Oak seedling in 2021, you do not qualify for another this year.

To order a Salem Oak seedling, please fill out and submit the attached form. Seedlings must be picked up at one of the locations on the form; shipping is not available. Please call the Forest Service Nursery at 732-928-0029 with any questions.

Don't forget to move your clock forward this weekend!

NJSME Awards Committee judges needed

NJSME

NJSME is seeking individuals from the general membership or other qualified candidates for the Awards Committee.

Committee members will be responsible for judging the Municipal Project of the Year entries in accordance with the Program's Application & Guidelines and including the published Judging Criteria. The goal of this solicitation is to broaden the committee perspective and also offset for judges that must abstain from specific entries.

Judging is typically completed in a single day. This is a volunteer position; however, lunch will be provided. If interested, please contact Matt Halpin, NJSME Executive Director.

2017-2018 Certified Municipal Engineer Program: Application deadline is Sept. 1

NJSME

Applications for the Certified Municipal Engineer (CME) Program are now being accepted. The program was created in 1987 by action of the New Jersey Society of Municipal Engineers (NJSME) with the creation of the New Jersey Municipal Engineering Institute (NJMEI) and the appointment of the NJMEI Board of Governors, who are charged with running the program.

The CME program consists of a series of 10 seminars and workshops devoted to the many areas of practice of municipal engineering. Instruction in the program is based on current engineering practices. The instructors, who volunteer their time, are drawn from the ranks of professionals who the NJMEI Board of Governors have recognized as expert in their particular specialty to present current, practical engineering information.

The deadline for applications is Friday, Sept. 1. READ MORE

New Jersey Municipal Engineers Institute: Individuals wanted for Board of Governors

NJSME

NJSME is seeking individuals from the general membership for the NJMEI Board of Governors.

The Board was established in 1987 and is still comprised of a few original members. The main objective of the Board is to administer the Certified Municipal Engineer's Program. Each board member is responsible to facilitate a seminar(s) on the date agreed upon with the creation of the annual schedule.

Planning for 2017-18 is complete, and the application for the upcoming year's program is posted here. The session is to begin in September. At this point, new Board members would be asked to confirm speakers and proctor their session.

This is a volunteer position; however, lunch will be provided.

If interested, please contact Matt Halpin, NJSME Executive Director.

State strives to stay ahead in transportation, logistics and distribution

NJ Spotlight

New Jersey's business and government leaders recognize the value in the state becoming a major center of distribution and logistics, so they are looking for its education system to help New Jersey remain a step ahead. Business leaders say they have plenty of jobs available in this sector and want colleges to evolve, so well-trained workers are available here in the Garden State well into the future. Thousands flock to Jersey City to watch solar eclipse

The Jersey Journal

Thousands flocked to Liberty State Park today to partake in a rare afternoon of national unity around today's solar eclipse, the first total eclipse to traverse the continental United States in nearly a century. Families rushed to Liberty Science Center's lawn to see it with their own, eclipse glasses-clad eyes, while others stayed inside the museum to watch a remote broadcast of the scene in Cadiz, Kentucky, where the eclipse was total (in New Jersey, only 77 percent of the sun appeared covered by the moon). Derailment cleared in New York's Penn Station, delays ease

The Associated Press via CNBC

An empty New Jersey Transit train derailed early Wednesday in Manhattan's Penn Station, causing some delays at the beginning of the morning rush hour. An Amtrak crew was moving a New Jersey Transit train out of a railyard around 5 a.m. when some cars derailed on Track 4, where repair work started earlier this summer, according to NJ Transit spokeswoman Penny Bassett. Trump infrastructure panel's end seen unlikely to harm funding plan

Engineering News-Record

President Donald Trump's decision to shut down an announced but not yet active infrastructure advisory panel isn't expected to have a major impact on his still-unreleased proposal to add $1 trillion over 10 years for highway, rail, water, energy and other projects, industry officials say. News of the panel's cancellation came in an Aug. 17 statement from a White House official, who said Trump had announced the closing of two higher-profile advisory bodies, the Manufacturing Council and the Strategy and Policy Forum. The statement added that the infrastructure council, "which was still being formed, will not move forward." READ MORE

Protecting smart buildings from cyber attacks

Engineering.com

Over the past few decades, there have been a number of seismic shifts in technology. Mainframe computing, client/server and cloud computing are some examples that easily come to mind. The emergence of the Internet of Things (IoT) has seen a technological shift that could potentially change the way our society operates. The emergence of the IoT will affect urban planning and engineering as much as it will impact network computing services. The IoT will be at the core of the smart cities we live in, the smart buildings we occupy, and even the smart bodies we inhabit. READ MORE

Our agency has included a wheelchair platform swing on a two year old playground without incident. We will now be removing that swing. It was specifically installed for children in wheelchairs who cannot transfer, have limited mobility, and who are too heavy for their parents to move easily. I am committed to providing a way for them to enjoy the playground. Can anyone suggest a replacement that can provide the same degree of access? Thanks very much.

We partner with our local schools as well. Since we don't have any athletic indoor facilities aka gyms, we use their facilities to run our indoor programs in the winter. However we have a number of outdoor field space (i.e. Soccer Fields, golf courses) in which they don't fully have. So, we do a non-cash trade of facilities. As far as equipment goes, you can do 1 of 2 things in my eyes.

1.) You have them send a staff person over for a training on how to use the equipment and setup/tear it down properly. They could sign a memo of understanding that lets them use the equipment for free however any damages they are liable for.

2.) Have 1 or 2 of your staff people run it for their event and ask for the staff expense to be reimbursed to you, but the equipment is free.

We've done similar scenarios with our schools and worked out well.

Good luck!

Last year, we purchased a large inflatable movie screen, projector, and speaker system. We've hosted a handful of movies, have a movie series in the works, and plan to partner with other government agencies to show films from time to time.

Recently, we were approached by a local school about borrowing our screen. We have joint use agreements with the local school systems and they are very generous with their facilities. However, we have no precedence when it comes to renting/lending our screen.

Anyone have any procedures or protocols they follow when it comes to this kind of thing?

Matt,

Our department partnered with SORBA - a local chapter of IMBA (International Mountain Bike Assoc) - when building the Enterprise South Nature Park to design and build mountain bike trails and skills areas. Our department furnished lumber, hardware, dirt, and drainage materials for less than $3K. Our partner organization brought experienced professionals and a large volunteer workforce to build a skills area and a small pump track.

Mr. Dean B Crane, CPRP

Hi Matt,

Blacksburg Parks and Recreation in Blacksburg Virginia is currently working on the Mountain biking skills park project. One thing we did was created a concept map of the project so we could use that as our advertising tool. We talked to the area mountain bikers and local IMBA groups to make sure we were heading in the right direction. We did an Indiegogo campaign to help raises funds and awareness. We sold the naming rights to the local Rotary club and have had several restaurants give a percentage of beer sales to the project. We received a $20,000 grant from IMBA form construction documents. After gathering this momentum, we recently submitted a $300,000 grant to our state Conservation and Recreation dept to build our first phase. ($300,000 will design and build: 3650 feet of downhill trail with dirt features and a 6250 sq ft pump park.)

Since you already have a trail system, I would suggest that your skills park be a series of progressive building jumps and amenities to help the riders build skills so they can challenge themselves and become better riders.

Hope this is helpful. Feel free to call and I can give you specifics.

Mr. Henry White

Any municipality looking to open a freestyle cycling skills park should take into consideration a few things:

- 1)Cycling transcends age, meaning- every age and style of bike will ride a skills course if its built, so ensure you involve more then the MTB community when developing the facility.
- 2)Aftercare- since dealing with molded soil, erosion can be a big factor for safety. Ensure your coordintors have a solid plan for continued upkeep after the build, be sure to involve the local cycling community. Community dig days work out well for PR and volunteers often flock.
- 3) Size doesnt matter- Skills and experience do. Ensure the park has features for all, built in a safe and progressive design. Use signage that clearly identifies the skillset required to ride the terrain (using skiing as a reference) Black Diamond for expert+, you get the idea.
- 4)Culture- your community leaders in this industry (typically in the 30+ age group) make for excellent facility managers, program coordinators, and event hosts. If your seriously building this park for the community, make sure you have ALL of their inputs for the reality this park will live, because it will happen without you or your permission.

Most municipalities are unaware of the impact these facilities are having on communities and the freestyle cycling industry. They must be cared for properly, with effective community engagement. The more you restrain the group from developing the facility, the less it will be used.

The freestyle cycling community encompasses BMX, MTB, DJ, DH, Singletrack, and I'm sure im missing one or two other sectors. Specialty organizations like the IMBA offers a multitude of excellent services but caters primarily to the MTB industry, which is mostly adults.

DO NOT EXCLUDE THE "BMX" COMMUNITY.

Good luck with the build, if done correctly, your community will have a great new means of tourism and entertainment.

Neil Pukesh

Hello Matthew,

I just recently joined the NRPA and noticed your question on the forum and thought I would reply. Last year, our City opened up a new Bike Skills Park with great success. I wouldn't necessarily call it a Mountain Bike Park however there are varying lines of progression for skill development which we felt was important to include. It follows the same mantra as a ski resort with green dot runs listed as the easiest and black diamonds as the hardest. We have a variety of features that really challenge the riders that include table top jumps to full wall ride features.

The park takes up approximately 1 hectare of land and the total cost of the project was approximately $550,000 (Canadian Funds). We utilized a company called Alpine Bike Parks from Whistler BC who specialize in these projects. Our park was also combined with the build of a new skate park plaza too. One of the neat features of our bike park was the inclusion of North America's first concrete pump track. At first I was skeptical however after seeing it in use, its one of the most used features in the park by kids and families.

This was a community driven project that had lots of support from Mayor and Council as well as the community. The only challenge that we faced was with the estimated annual maintenance costs as these just aren't projects that you build and not maintain. We put about 15-20 hours of maintenance into the park each week, from garbage cleanup, trail maintenance, and landscaping - especially during the spring/summer months. We also perform a major annual maintenance program in which we bring Alpine Bike Parks back to our City as they are the specialists in this field.

Not sure if this is what your City was planning but hopefully it helps. I've added a few photos and have included a youtube video link here: Cam's Jam - Powell River Bike and Skate Park \(August 20th 2015\)

Mr. Dan McGuire

We've done some Digital forms as well using Adobe Acrobat. It's worked out well.

I've also played around with an online software called DocuSign. It's a nice piece of online software that you can send a permit or contract to someone and they are able to fill out all the info and sign it or forward it onto someone. The software tracks the whole thing. It's a nice system but there is a monthly/yearly expense to it.

I would check out those 2 things prior to a spending lot of money on a company doing it all for you.

All,

Our city is working on digitizing standardized forms and wanted to see if any agencies could recommend a firm that does this type of work. Standardized forms would include special event permits, activity permits, etc. Any guidance would be appreciated.

Thanks!

This is fairly easy to do yourself with the right computer program. We use a version of Adobe that allows us to create digitized forms. It is easy to learn and use after a few tries. I would check with your IT to see if that is a possibility.

Suggest you need to start by separating into 2 issues, first is Service Standards and second is Department Policies.

Service standards should be documented and council approved to ensure service levels are known to all. For example, what is the frequency of grass cutting, ball diamond grooming, playground inspections, etc. As you grow, you will be able to quantify what resources you need to maintain the current standards or if you are requested to improve service, you have a benchmark to start from when requesting more staff and resources.

Department Policies should cover items such as when sports fields close due to weather, refunds, allocation of permits for sports fields, provision of services, hours of operation, etc.

- 1) Researchers Examine Foundation Expectations for Giving in 2009 (3/04/09)

The New York City-based Foundation Center (<http://foundationcenter.org/>) has released a new research advisory that examines how foundations expect their 2009 giving to be affected by the economic downturn.

The advisory, Grantmakers Describe the Impact of the Economic Crisis on Their Giving, looks at public statements made by more than a third of the one hundred largest U.S. foundations ranked by total giving and thirty-five other foundations and corporate funders that have described their plans. Of the hundred largest foundations, only two have announced that they intend to increase their giving in 2009: the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, which said it will increase giving in 2009 by raising its payout rate, and the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, which expects to maintain or increase its giving.

To keep giving stable despite shrinking endowments and assets, ten large foundations, including the Hewlett, Packard, and McKnight foundations, are planning to increase their payout rates or establish cost-cutting measures such as freezing salaries, leaving staff vacancies unfilled, or reducing staff benefits.

"These grantmakers deserve credit for letting their grantees know what to expect over the coming year, so they can prepare," said Foundation Center senior director of research Steven Lawrence, who co-authored the advisory. "A number of these funders are also belt-tightening to boost their giving, which clearly shows that we are all in this together."

The advisory is the latest in a series released as part of the Foundation Center's Focus on the Economic Crisis project, which offers a variety of resources to help nonprofits and foundations deal with the challenges of a tough economic environment.

2) Fourth-Quarter 2008 Giving to Evangelical Ministries Remained Strong (3/06/09)

Although many have feared that recent economic conditions would negatively impact faith-based nonprofits nationwide, most evangelical "parachurch ministries" exceeded, met, or came quite close to their 2008 fourth-quarter contributions goals, a recent survey by the Virginia-based Evangelical Council for Financial Accountability (<http://www.ecfa.org/>) finds.

Parachurch ministries are organizations that work outside of and across denominations to promote evangelism and social welfare, relying heavily on charitable contributions to launch and sustain vital programs and initiatives. According to a survey of more than three hundred ECFA members, 72 percent of the organizations that responded reported they exceeded, met, or came within 10 percent of their goals, while 28 percent reported they were more than 10 percent below their goals. "Many of the ministries...reported small donations of $10 to $100 were relatively unaffected, and in some cases, [they] increased," said ECFA acting president Dan Busby. "In fact, some of our members had the strongest fourth quarter they've had in years and ended the year debt-free."

Some of the ministries attributed the results to increased prayer and widespread humanitarian interest in supporting organizations that help the poor and disadvantaged. In an effort to boost fund-raising, 53 percent also reported that they increased one-on-one contact with major donors, while more than 30 percent said they developed materials for donors that reflected their organization's response to changing economic circumstances.

Despite the positive news, 50 percent of survey respondents saw their investments lose value in the fourth quarter, leading to concerns about what kind of effect the ongoing economic crisis will have on 2009 contributions. Indeed, 41 percent of respondents said they planned to freeze or delay salary increases; 38 percent had already frozen or reduced head count; 53 percent planned to cut travel and conference expenses; 30 percent said they were cutting or delaying capital projects; and 22 percent said they were partnering with other organizations or businesses to share resources.

"Most ECFA member ministries expect 2009 to be more challenging," said Busby. "But for leadership and staff members, this is ministry, not a job. Despite challenges, most remain committed to making positive operational and structural decisions, including developing contingency plans, which will enable them to continue to carry out [their mission] despite limited resources."

3) Economic Downturn a Significant Concern Among Corporate Giving Officers, Report Finds (3/04/09)

Issues related to the economic downturn are a significant concern among corporate giving officers, a new report from the Conference Board (<http://www.conference-board.org/>) finds.

Based on a February survey of 158 companies, the report, The 2009 Corporate Philanthropy Agenda: How the Economic Downturn Is Affecting Corporate Giving, found that the leading factors giving officers took into consideration when planning their 2009 grantmaking were limits on budgetary resources (56 percent), the current economic downturn in general (50 percent), aligning more closely with business needs (47 percent), and directions from the CEO and/or board (46 percent). When asked what they expect their biggest challenge in 2009 to be, corporate grantmakers most frequently indicated an increase in grant requests, followed by inadequate financial resources, a decline in their corporate foundation endowment, and measuring results/outcomes.

While the U.S. economy has been in recession since late 2007, the economic crisis hit hardest during the fall of 2008 and had minimal impact on 2008 giving budgets. Indeed, by the end of the year 81 percent of companies had spent their entire allocated contributions budget, while only 13 percent reported fourth-quarter cuts in their budgets. In contrast, 45 percent of survey respondents reported that they had already implemented cuts in their 2009 giving budgets, while another 16 percent were considering cuts; 35 percent said that they would make fewer grants in 2009, while 22 percent are considering doing the same; and 21 percent said they would make smaller grants, while 27 percent were considering doing so.

In terms of programs, event sponsorship will see the biggest decrease in 2009, with resources falling for 55 percent of survey respondents, while volunteerism will see the biggest increase, with 45 percent of survey respondents reporting an increase in resources. Similarly, in terms of subject area, grants for arts and culture will see the biggest drop, with 34 percent of arts funders saying they are likely to reduce their grantmaking in that area, while environment/sustainability/climate change is likely to see the biggest increase.

"How [they] are faring overall financially is very much on the minds of leading U.S. companies when allotting their corporate philanthropy monies," said Carolyn Cavicchio, senior research associate for global corporate citizenship at the Conference Board. "There is a definite shift toward more critical business issues and an increased emphasis on measuring giving outcomes."

4) Nonprofit Leaders Sign Manifesto Calling on Policy Makers to Help Charitable Sector (3/06/09)

Concerned that policy makers do not understand how much the recession has hurt the nation's nonprofits, leaders representing thousands of organizations across the country have signed an appeal that calls on the nation's public and private leadership to support the work of nonprofits, the New York Times reports.

Many nonprofit agencies that provide in-demand services rely on government financing through community block grants, Medicaid, and other federally financed state-administered programs. "One of the messages of this declaration is that the partnership between us and the government isn't working, and that's not good for the country," said Lester M. Salamon, director of the Center for Civil Society Studies at Johns Hopkins University and author of the appeal, Forward Together: Empowering America's Citizen Sector for the Change We Need.

The problem in this downturn is that cash-strapped states have been taking longer to reimburse nonprofits for the services they provide at the same time that donations to nonprofits have plummeted and their bank lines of credit are being withdrawn. Some portion of the money allocated for higher Medicaid spending and community block grants in the recently passed economic stimulus package will flow to nonprofits, but Congress has been slow to adopt many of the ideas proposed by nonprofit leaders to help the sector during the downturn, including eliminating the excise tax that foundations pay on their investment income and increasing tax deductions for charitable donations.

What's more, many nonprofits that had been hopeful about the administration's initiatives with respect to the sector have been taken aback by its proposal to lower the tax deduction for charitable donations by people who make more than $250,000. Also dropped from the administration's budget was the idea, supported by Independent Sector, of a nonprofit bridge-loan fund, which the White House supported but which was rejected by the House Appropriations Committee, as well as an amendment introduced by Sens. Charles Schumer (D-NY) and Charles Grassley (R-IA) that would have raised the rate at which nonprofit volunteers are reimbursed for their mileage.

5) Watchdog Group Calls for More Funding to Benefit Society (3/04/09)

A new report from the Washington, D.C.-based National Committee for Responsive Philanthropy (<http://www.ncrp.org/>) argues that foundations and other grantmaking institutions are not delivering as much social benefit as they could. To help foundations and others do more, NCRP has released a set of measurable guidelines that funders can use to maximize their contributions to society.

The report, Criteria for Philanthropy at Its Best: Benchmarks to Assess and Enhance Grantmaker Impact, focuses on values, effectiveness, ethics, and commitment, and includes benchmarks related to each criterion on issues such as payout, general operating support, board composition, compensation, disclosure, mission-related investing, and support for underserved communities.

"NCRP makes the essential point that organized philanthropy is obligated by its tax advantage to operate on behalf of the common good," said Gayle Williams, executive director of the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation in Winston Salem, North Carolina, an early endorser of the guidelines. "A great strength of American philanthropy is its diversity, but overall the field invests too small a proportion of its assets in advancing the well-being of low-wealth people and communities."

Prior to the official announcement from NCRP, more than one hundred and twenty nonprofit and foundation leaders endorsed the guidelines, which also received support from Rep. Xavier Becerra (D-CA), a senior member of the House Ways and Means Committee. At the same time, objections from philanthropic organizations and trade associations were voiced. Said Council on Foundations president and CEO Steve Gunderson: "[While] the council supports the diversity of philanthropy...we cannot endorse mandates or imposed measures that seek to promote a one-size-fits-all approach."

According to NCRP executive director Aaron Dorfman, such objections were expected. "What we're calling for requires foundations to change the way they do business and acknowledge that they are partners with tax payers and nonprofits," said Dorfman. "It won't be easy, but important choices almost never are. It will require from the sector real leadership and deep commitment to the greater good."

6) Tackling Social Problems With For-Profit Solutions (3/09/09)

Until fairly recently, people who wanted to tackle social problems such as lack of access to clean water or inadequate affordable housing would create a charity; today, many choose to start for-profit ventures instead, the New York Times reports.

The terms "social entrepreneur" and "social business" are generally used to characterize people and businesses that bring entrepreneurship to ventures with a social mission -- though some would limit the social entrepreneur label to ventures that do not have profit as a goal. Then there are "socially responsible" companies whose core business is not necessarily related to a social mission but which exhibit socially responsible characteristics.

Because social ventures can be difficult to define, it's hard to gauge their exact number. But there are signs that interest in using business to tackle the world's big problems is growing. Last year, for instance, more than six hundred people attended a new conference on social venture investing called Social Capital Markets. According to conference creator Kevin Jones, a principal in Good Capital, an investment firm that focuses on social business, two-thirds of the participants signed up after the collapse of Lehman Brothers -- a sign, in his words, that people are flocking to a "new asset class."

For Sam Goldman, who spent four years in the Peace Corps in Benin before earning a master's degree in business from Stanford University, the for-profit model made sense. He co-founded a company called D.light with the goal of replacing millions of dangerous, highly ineffective kerosene lamps used in poor rural parts of the world with solar-powered lamps.

According to Goldstein, who witnessed the son of a Benin neighbor nearly die from burns suffered from spilled kerosene, only as a business could the venture become large enough to reach the number of people who use the lamps as their primary source of illumination. Since the venture was incorporated in May 2007, it has raised $6.5 million from a combination of investors. "We could have done it as a nonprofit over a hundred years, but if we wanted to do it in five or ten years, then we believed it needed to be fueled by profit," said Goldman. "That's the way to grow."

Not all social problems respond well to a for-profit approach, however. It comes down to one crucial question, said David Bornstein, author of How to Change the World: "As you grow, will the economics of your business work in favor of your mission, or will they work against it?"

7) As Troubles Mount, Newspaper Industry Reconsiders Business Model (3/05/09)

As precipitous declines in revenue put the future of many U.S. newspapers in doubt, one idea gaining attention is the conversion of newspapers into tax-exempt nonprofits supported by endowments, the Associated Press reports.

Unable to generate sufficient revenue from their Web sites to offset declines in print and classified ad revenue, newspapers across the country are being forced to lay off hundreds of employees, scale back home delivery, and make other cuts -- to no avail. In recent months, the owners of the Los Angeles Times, the Chicago Tribune, the Philadelphia Inquirer, and the New Haven Register have sought Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection, while last week the Rocky Mountain News shut its doors and the San Francisco Chronicle faces a similar fate if it cannot find a way to slash expenses. Desperate to protect their franchises, newspaper executives in other cities are rethinking every aspect of their operations, including their status as for-profits.

Indeed, some nonprofits have already entered the field, including ProPublica, an independent nonprofit newsroom that produces investigative journalism in the public interest; Minnpost.com, which was created with $850,000 donated by four families and support from more than nine hundred donors and foundations; and efforts at Boston University and the University of Wisconsin. All these projects are young and relatively small, however, and their endowments, if they have any, are modest.

However, before the idea of endowed not-for-profit newspapers can take hold, say experts, it must overcome resistance from the very newspapers that could benefit. Objections include the fear that major donors could interfere editorially or that tax-exempt status could disqualify newspapers from endorsing candidates and running editorials on pending legislation. On a more practical level, some question whether the millions of dollars needed to create an endowment large enough to support a newsroom could be raised during the worst recession in decades.

Charles Lewis, who started the Center for Public Integrity, a nonprofit investigative journalism organization believes that the future of journalism may depend on whether "the philanthropic community steps up and embraces this civic moment and crisis and tries to solve it. This is a failure of the market. The market can no longer support news substantially."

8) Former State Department Envoy Selected as MacArthur President (3/11/09)

The John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation has announced Robert Gallucci, dean of the Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University, as its new president, effective July 1.

Gallucci, 63, will succeed Jonathan Fanton, who is stepping down as president after two five-year terms. Before heading to Georgetown in 1996, Gallucci served as ambassador-at-large and special envoy for the U.S. State Department, dealing with threats posed by the proliferation of ballistic missiles and weapons of mass destruction. He was the chief U.S. negotiator during the North Korean nuclear crisis of 1994 and served as assistant secretary of state for political and military affairs -- a position for which he was confirmed by the U.S. Senate -- from 1992 to 1993. He also served as senior coordinator for nonproliferation and nuclear safety initiatives in the former Soviet Union and as deputy executive chairman of the United Nations Special Commission overseeing the disarmament of Iraq in 1991.

"Bob Gallucci shares MacArthur's commitment to building a more just and peaceful world," said Robert Denham, the foundation's board chair and an attorney with Munger, Tolles & Olson LLP in Los Angeles. "He has more than two decades of experience representing the United States around the world on the most difficult issues of peace and security, which have been central to MacArthur's work for its thirty-one-year history. And he has a keen interest in all areas of the foundation's grantmaking. The board was impressed by his broad international experience, his intellect, and his sound judgment."

Gallucci told the Washington Post that becoming president of the MacArthur Foundation represents "an opportunity not to be missed -- peace and security...human rights, international justice, conservation, sustainable development, education, migration, international health. That's quite a menu."

9) Community Foundation Update (3/07/09)

California

The Silicon Valley Community Foundation has announced the release of the 2009 Silicon Valley Index. Among other things, the report finds that the region is not producing enough talent to meet its workforce needs in the next decade as the industry mix changes and new skills are required. The report was co-produced by Joint Venture: Silicon Valley Network.

The foundation also announced the appointment of Anne F. Macdonald, a partner at accounting and consulting firm Frank, Rimerman & Co, to its board of directors.

Georgia

The Community Foundation for Greater Atlanta has announced the promotion of Lesley Grady to senior vice president of community partnerships.

Hawaii

The Hawaii Community Foundation has released an organizational effectiveness evaluation report (10 pages, PDF) that examines the foundation's organizational capacity-building grantmaking and its Promoting Outstanding Nonprofit Organizations (PONO) leadership program. According to the report, while leadership-development programs are notoriously hard to measure, the data collected to date provide evidence that PONO is achieving its goals.

Illinois

The Chicago Community Trust has announced a new partnership with the Wallace Foundation and the Chicago Department of Cultural Affairs as part of the Arts Engagement Exchange. The partnership will provide knowledge-sharing sessions and small grants to arts organizations with operating revenues under $1 million to help them build, diversify, and engage audiences and to ensure that their marketing momentum is not lost due to economic concerns.

Kansas

The Community Foundation of Southeast Kansas has announced that it awarded grants totaling more than $75,000 as part of a three-year initiative with the Kansas Health Foundation to improve nutrition and physical activity for residents of the state. According to Stephanie Joiner, program director of the initiative, the goal is to double that amount by 2011.

Massachusetts

The Boston Foundation has announced a series of capacity-building workshops for nonprofit professionals in the areas of finance, management, developing contingency plans, human resource management, and fundraising. Geared toward executive directors, the workshops are also open to senior managers and board members.

Ohio

The Akron Community Foundation has announced education grants totaling $441,000, almost $220,000 of which benefited early learning initiatives. Grantees include the Akron Metropolitan Housing Authority, the Summit County Family and Children First Council's Child Find program, and Child Guidance and Family Solutions.

The Columbus Foundation has announced a $200,000 grant from the American Electric Power Foundation in response to its critical need alert. Half of that amount will be used to match contributions from new donors. The funds will be used to establish the Safety Net Fund, which will help twenty area nonprofits provide food and housing to people in need in central Ohio.

Oregon

The Portland-based Oregon Community Foundation has released findings from a recent survey of 113 nonprofits across the state which found that demand for services is up an average of 16 percent since July 2008 and that corporate giving and large individual donations declined in 2008 for more than half the organizations surveyed.

Washington

The Seattle Foundation has announced that its president and CEO, Phyllis Campbell, is leaving the foundation to lead Pacific Northwest operations for JPMorgan Chase.

Washington, D.C.

The Prince George's Community Foundation, an affiliate of the Community Foundation for the National Capital Region, has announced the recipients of its fourth-annual Civil Leadership Awards. Recipients include Southern Maryland Hospital president and chair Francis P. Chiaramonte, Court Appointed Special Advocates executive director Anne Marie Foley Bisner, and Rising STARS Youth Scholarship Foundation founder and president Herman C. Dawson.

Please see the attached Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Health Advisory: Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza A(H5N1) Virus: Recommendations for Human Health Investigations and Response.

A person has tested positive for avian influenza A(H5) virus (H5 bird flu) in the U.S., as confirmed by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and reported by the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment on April 28, 2022. This case occurred in a person who had direct exposure to poultry and who was involved in the culling (depopulating) of poultry with presumptive H5N1 bird flu.

Starting in January, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) detected highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) A(H5N1) virus in wild birds in the United States followed by multiple detections in U.S. commercial poultry and backyard bird flocks [1,2].

Detection of A(H5) virus in one person who was involved in culling of poultry does not change the human health risk assessment, which remains low for the general public. People with work or recreational exposures to infected birds are at greater risk of infection and should follow recommended precautions. The purpose of this HAN Health Advisory is to notify public health workers, clinicians, and the public of the potential for human infection with this virus and to describe the CDC's recommendations for patient investigation and testing, infection control including the use of personal protective equipment, and antiviral treatment and prophylaxis.

Detection of A(H5) virus in one person who was involved in culling of poultry does not change the human health risk assessment, which remains low for the general public. People with work or recreational exposures to infected birds are at greater risk of infection and should follow recommended precautions. The purpose of this HAN Health Advisory is to notify public health workers, clinicians, and the public of the potential for human infection with this virus and to describe the CDC's recommendations for patient investigation and testing, infection control including the use personal protective equipment, and antiviral treatment and prophylaxis.

Thank you.

Joe:

A few questions and maybe a correction on the contract:

- The billing contact should be: Chief George K. Baumann; xxxxxxxx@xxx.xxxxxxxx.xx.xx 732-294-5155 since he is signing it.
- Is there a termination fee ($500) per camera if we terminate during or before the 45 days pilot?
- Does the 45 day pilot start upon install and operation or upon our signing the contract?
We need to have a definitive drop dead date. I know at one point you said 60 days?

Hi Chief Baumann-

Are you open to speaking for a few minutes today?

Back in Oct, I met with Undersheriff Dawson and there was interest in testing 10 Flock Fixed Units. Both he and Sheriff Golden changed their mind. Even if they moved forward with the Pilot, we were never going to replace the existing ELSAG mobile and fixed units they have in place in the county. I spoke with Undersheriff Dawson earlier and the Sheriff's office has no issue with Flock doing business in the county, despite their large investment in ELSAG.

Capt Pasquinnucci shared earlier that you've had recent success with your Flock cameras at the mall yesterday and that some of your ELSAG cameras are currently down. The Flock cameras have been up for 3 weeks and you've already gotten results. You have another 3 weeks to see even more value from Flock and clear cases with no risk., Why not take advantage?

We will make arrangements to shut the cameras off if you prefer to end the pilot today, We feel like we've done our part with a quick installation and delivered actual results.

Thanks,
Joe

According to a few of my Supervising Staff Flock Safety provides quality equipment and is comparable to Elsag, who we currently utilize for both our fixed posts and Patrol vehicles. When I was first introduced to your company I was informed by Captain Pasquinucci that the Monmouth County Sheriff Department would also be testing Flock equipment. Although your company only provides fixed cameras, I was willing to try the equipment due to our close alignment with the Sheriff's department regarding technology projects and equipment. This not only makes sense from a financial standpoint, but more importantly continuity with the Sheriff's Department, as our Communication provider.

Until Flock Safety has the capability of outfitting both fixed camera sites AND mobile units for our vehicle fleet, I am not interested in contracting two separate providers.

I am assuming that Captain Pasquinucci has already informed you that Freehold Township is requesting to end the trial period early to avoid any long term contractual obligations, as this is what I advised him to do. If this is not the case please allow this correspondence to confirm my desire to end the test period, effective February 7, 2023.

For assistance and/or coordination with removal of your equipment, please contact either Captain Daniel Pasquinucci at (732) 294-2109 or Lt. Jarrad Kodran at (732) 294-2117.

Good afternoon, I just tried giving you a call and wanted to know if you had 5 min today to connect to clear up any confusion.. I just spoke with Capt Pasquinucci and he shared that the Sheriff's office gave you some information.

I'd like to address any questions and concerns about Flock doing business in Monmouth County or NJ State/SNAP AG Directive.

Flock Safety along with every ALPR vendor in NJ, including ELSAG are all going through a SNAP Certification process with the NJSP. We're allowed to continue doing business.

We've been in constant contact with LT Adam Polhemus the NJ State Police ALPR Coordinator. You can also reach out to him anytime regarding any concerns about Flock

Hi, LT Kodran-

How are you? After our meeting a few weeks ago, I wanted to update you on some progress I've made in the county and loop in Capt Pasquinucci and LT Deangelo .

I'm hosting a lunch and learn at Tinton Falls PD at 12:30 this Thursday 10/27 and wanted to invite you to join the demo and grab some food. Sgt Grimm told me I can invite anyone in the county to join. We will have some Ocean Twp + Little Silver guys coming as well.

I'm going to discuss how Flock is going to Pilot 10 of our Solar + Powered ALPR Cameras with the Sheriff's Office and 8 with Neptune Twp for 60 days
Flock Safety is an Axon partner that makes Stationary Solar + Powered ALPR that are infrastructure free with Vehicle Fingerprint to clear cases quicker

Flock Safety is partnering with Union County Prosecutor's office, South Plainfield, Woodbridge, Perth Amboy, New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Linden, Westfield, Clark, Scotch Plains, Glassboro, Cherry Hill PD, and other NJ agencies.

Flock is unique for investigations because we update the NCIC list is updated 4x a day. You can search State Detection, Ghost Tags/Paper Plates, Temp Tags, Roof racks, Stickers, Make, Color, Body, and more. The units are Stationary Solar + Powered and are infrastructure-free.

All in, our Fixed Solar + Powered ALPR is $2,500 $2,750- per camera/per year with a one-time installation of $350, including unlimited users of our Investigative + Hotlist alerts if you decide to purchase at any point. No Maintenance agreement.

Hi Capt Pasquinucci-

Thanks for reaching out. I just sent you an invite, Look forward to seeing you there. We have a nice group attending from the county.

The representative, Joe, will be arriving around 12 noon and the presentation will get underway at 12:30 The presentation should last about 45 minutes to an hour. The lunch portion will be catered by Taste of Italy. Joe generously ordered a four-foot sub sandwich and macaroni salad for the group. Hope to see you all there. Thanks.

Hi, LT Kodran-

How are you? After our meeting a few weeks ago, I wanted to update you on some progress I've made in the county and loop in Capt Pasquinucci and LT Deangelo .

I'm hosting a lunch and learn at Tinton Falls PD at 12:30 this Thursday 10/27 and wanted to invite you to join the demo and grab some food. Sgt Grimm told me I can invite anyone in the county to join. We will have some Ocean Twp + Little Silver guys coming as well.

I'm going to discuss how Flock is going to Pilot 10 of our Solar + Powered ALPR Cameras with the Sheriff's Office and 8 with Neptune Twp for 60 days
Flock Safety is an Axon partner that makes Stationary Solar + Powered ALPR that are infrastructure free with Vehicle Fingerprint to clear cases quicker

Flock Safety is partnering with Union County Prosecutor's office, South Plainfield, Woodbridge, Perth Amboy, New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Linden, Westfield, Clark, Scotch Plains, Glassboro, Cherry Hill PD, and other NJ agencies.

Flock is unique for investigations because we update the NCIC list is updated 4x a day. You can search State Detection, Ghost Tags/Paper Plates, Temp Tags, Roof racks, Stickers, Make, Color, Body, and more. The units are Stationary Solar + Powered and are infrastructure-free.

All in, our Fixed Solar + Powered ALPR is $2,500 $2,750- per camera/per year with a one-time installation of $350, including unlimited users of our Investigative + Hotlist alerts if you decide to purchase at any point. No Maintenance agreement.

Hi Capt Pasquinucci-

I wanted to know if we can set up a call next week to discuss the 7 locations with my Deployment team. If so, let me know if some dates/times options will work for you.

How are things progressing internally with the 60-day Pilot agreement and NJ Documents/Sole Source that I sent for purchasing?

Are there any specific blockers from moving forward?

I know we lose a week during the week of Thanksgiving and trying to gauge the timeline

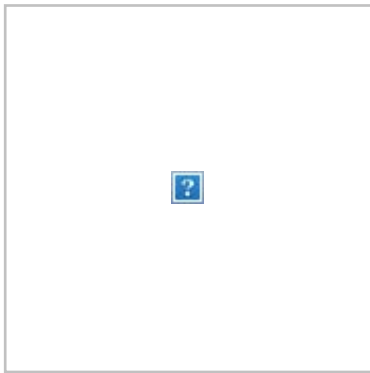

What's needed for the 7 Locations

- For each location, we'll need to know if you want to use Power or Solar
- Since you own county roads this will be helpful
- Crosstreets/maps/landmarks for each location
- Do you own or can access any traffic lights, or lamp posts?

- For Solar- Do we need to install our own pole in the ground/grass?
- Or can we put Solar panels on an existing pole that the county or jurisdiction owns? We will need your permission
- Ideally for Solar, we'll need at least 4 hours of Direct Sunlight. 4 hours will get you approx 30K reads.
- The direction of the camera at each location- NB, SB, EB or Westbound
- If you own any Traffic lights/Lamp posts that can be hardwired, let me know if it's 120 or 220 V- you would be responsible for the electrician to plug in.

Look forward to hearing from you.

Hi Capt Pasquinucci-

Great meeting you earlier today and I appreciate you coming by to look at Flock. Here are all the documents to review internally to move forward with testing/piloting 7 of our units for 60 days with no risk cost. We discussed doing a Proof of Concept to see how Flock's technology stacks up to your current system with ELSAG.

Attached are the following documents to review, In addition, I included the following documents for purchasing and legal.

W9, NJ BRC, and Flock Sole Source Letter

Legal FAQs to reference, Terms, and Conditions document that can be redlined with changes/requests

Flock 7 Camera Agreement with a 60-Day out Clause to Pilot and test 7 ALPR units
No Penalty to reduce or remove the cameras if you're not happy

You can sign electronically through DocuSign or sign and scan via email. I just sent it through DocuSign.

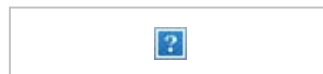

Here's what we need for the 7 locations. Let me know when we could set up a call over the next week to discuss locations with you and your guys.

- For each location, we'll need to know if you want to use Power or Solar
- Let's avoid permits that are usually on State + County Roads- DOT + Utility companies permitting process is 1-2 years
- Crosstreets/maps/landmarks for each location
- Do you own or can access any traffic lights, or lamp posts?
- For Power 120 or 220V, work with your electrician to plug in during installation/the electrician is your responsibility/our technician will work with them- Attached is our electrician handout
- For Solar- Do we need to install our pole in the ground/grass?
- Or can we put Solar panels on an existing pole that Bridgwater owns? We will need your permission
- Ideally for Solar, we'll need at least 4 hours of Direct Sunlight. 4 hours will get you approx 30K reads.

Hi Capt Pasquinucci-

I wanted to know if we can set up a call next week to discuss the 7 locations with my Deployment team. If so, let me know if some dates/times options will work for you.

How are things progressing internally with the 60-day Pilot agreement and NJ Documents/Sole Source that I sent for purchasing?

Are there any specific blockers from moving forward?

I know we lose a week during the week of Thanksgiving and trying to gauge the timeline

What's needed for the 7 Locations

- For each location, we'll need to know if you want to use Power or Solar
 - Since you own county roads this will be helpful
 - Crosstreets/maps/landmarks for each location
 - Do you own or can access any traffic lights, or lamp posts?
 - For Solar- Do we need to install our own pole in the ground/grass?
 - Or can we put Solar panels on an existing pole that the county or jurisdiction owns?
- We will need your permission
- Ideally for Solar, we'll need at least 4 hours of Direct Sunlight. 4 hours will get you approx 30K reads.
 - The direction of the camera at each location- NB, SB, EB or Westbound
 - If you own any Traffic lights/Lamp posts that can be hardwired, let me know if it's 120 or 220 V- you would be responsible for the electrician to plug in.

Look forward to hearing from you.

Here's what we need for the 7 locations. Let me know when we could set up a call over the next week to discuss locations with you and your guys.

- For each location, we'll need to know if you want to use Power or Solar
- Let's avoid permits that are usually on State + County Roads- DOT + Utility companies permitting process is 1-2 years
- Crosstreets/maps/landmarks for each location
- Do you own or can access any traffic lights, or lamp posts?
- For Power 120 or 220V, work with your electrician to plug in during installation/the electrician is your responsibility/our technician will work with them- Attached is our electrician handout
- For Solar- Do we need to install our pole in the ground/grass?
- Or can we put Solar panels on an existing pole that Bridgewater owns? We will need your permission
- Ideally for Solar, we'll need at least 4 hours of Direct Sunlight. 4 hours will get you approx 30K reads.
- The direction of the camera at each location- NB, SB, EB or Westbound

- Letter from DPW or County that you have permission to use each location

Hi Capt Pasquinucci-

I wanted to know if we can set up a call next week to discuss the 7 locations with my Deployment team. If so, let me know if some dates/times options will work for you.

How are things progressing internally with the 60-day Pilot agreement and NJ Documents/Sole Source that I sent for purchasing?

Are there any specific blockers from moving forward?

I know we lose a week during the week of Thanksgiving and trying to gauge the timeline

What's needed for the 7 Locations

- For each location, we'll need to know if you want to use Power or Solar
- Since you own county roads this will be helpful
- Crosstreets/maps/landmarks for each location
- Do you own or can access any traffic lights, or lamp posts?
- For Solar- Do we need to install our own pole in the ground/grass?
- Or can we put Solar panels on an existing pole that the county or jurisdiction owns? We will need your permission
- Ideally for Solar, we'll need at least 4 hours of Direct Sunlight. 4 hours will get you approx 30K reads.
- The direction of the camera at each location- NB, SB, EB or Westbound
- If you own any Traffic lights/Lamp posts that can be hardwired, let me know if it's 120 or 220 V- you would be responsible for the electrician to plug in.

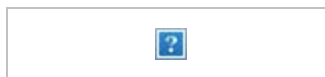

Look forward to hearing from you.

The cables we had for this project were too short. The tech was able to make 2 locations work by connecting the cables together but we will need to return to complete the rest which I have shipping looking into this. Good afternoon Lt,

I'm pretty sure you're familiar with the situation but I wanted to reach out and provide the update:

The cables we had for this project were too short. The tech was able to make 2 locations work by connecting the cables together but we will need to return to complete the rest which I have shipping looking into this. For placement we have saved space for Friday 1/13. Does this tentative date works for you?

Kind regards,

Velo

Good morning Lt Kodran,

I hope you and your team had a great weekend. I just wanted to follow up and see if you and tech meet up on 12/16/22.

I see surveys are completed and we still have all 6 installs scheduled for 1/3/22.

Is there anything needed on my end? I hope we have a bucket truck confirmed as well for that date.

Let me know if you have any questions or if there is anything I can assist you with.

I will follow up again on 1/4/22 to provide updates.

Good afternoon Team,

I do want to confirm we are still a go-to to do the surveys on 12/16/22.

If all goes well with the surveys, the plan is to return on 1/3/23 to install all 6 cameras in one day. We will need the bucket truck on that day, tech will have their certification with them.

Lt, can you confirm that the COI document Joe shared with you is all you need to get the BT?

Kind regards,

Veljko (Velo) Lukic

Good afternoon Team,

I do want to confirm we are still a go-to to do the surveys on 12/16/22.

If all goes well with the surveys, the plan is to return on 1/3/23 to install all 6 cameras in one day. We will need the bucket truck on that day, tech will have their certification with them.

Lt, can you confirm that the COI document Joe shared with you is all you need to get the BT?

Good morning Captain Pasquinucci and Lieutenant Kodran,

I am really excited to be working with you going forward!

As Joe mentioned, I will be handling your project and will be your main point of contact moving forward until you are fully implemented. Throughout that process, I will bring in various groups to help execute their work area.

If you have 15 minutes this or the following week, I'd love to hop on a call and walk you through the next steps, where we sit today, and answer any questions you may have. HERE is a link to schedule a time at your convenience.

All we need is a letter from your PD that you own the extension arms and NO permits are needed. Once the Chief signs the agreement and we have the letter, we can start the installation process, which takes 4-8 weeks.

Introducing you to Velo who'll be your Project Manager, he'll set up a quick call with you to go over logistics, and site survey and coordinate with you upcoming install dates.

Good afternoon Lt Kodran,

Hope you are doing well. I am working with our field ops team on having cameras removed asap, I was wondering if you will be able to assist with the bucket truck again? Ideally, we remove all 6 cameras in one day.

Let me know your thoughts.

Kind regards,

Good afternoon Lt,

I'm pretty sure you're familiar with the situation but I wanted to reach out and provide the update:

The cables we had for this project were too short. The tech was able to make 2 locations work by connecting the cables together but we will need to return to complete the rest which I have shipping looking into this. For placement we have saved space for Friday 1/13. Does this tentative date works for you?

Kind regards,

Velo

I will keep you posted on the installation timeline on 12/19/22 after the surveys are completed.

Who would be the best contact for traffic control once we have the installation date confirmed? I would like to share their name and contact information with our Field Ops team.

All we need is a letter from your PD that you own the extension arms and NO permits are needed. Once the Chief signs the agreement and we have the letter, we can start the installation process, which takes 4-8 weeks.

Introducing you to Velo who'll be your Project Manager, he'll set up a quick call with you to go over logistics, and site survey and coordinate with you upcoming install dates.

Subject: Upcoming Flock Activities - NJ - Freehold Twp PD

Hi George. K Baumann,

Below you will find a summary of upcoming activities related to your Flock Safety network.

Recent Activity		Status	Visit Type	Completed/Scheduled Date
Location Name
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022
		Scheduled	Site Survey	12/16/2022

Status:

Scheduling: We are actively scheduling the technician visit - be that for a pre-installation site survey or the installation. Be on the lookout for the dispatched appointment within the next week or two.

Scheduled: Barring unforeseen circumstances, the technician will be onsite for your site survey or installation on this date.

Completed: The technician has completed the visit. Next step: the experts are in the process of confirming that your cameras are functioning properly (receiving adequate sunlight, connecting regularly to the cellular network, taking high-quality images, etc.). Once that part is complete, we will grant access to your camera footage.

Visit Types:

Site Survey: The technician will confirm that the locations previously agreed upon will work for the installation. The technician will place white flags at each location according to the plan you approved.

Installation: The technician will follow the plan based on the results of the site survey.

Maintenance: Our systems have identified an issue with your camera and a technician will be onsite to resolve the issue.

Stay Safe,
Your Flock Safety Team

Register Today for a Free Webinar on October 5 – Controlling Salmonella in Commercial Poultry through Biosecurity

The United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) is hosting a free webinar called "Defend the Flock: Controlling Salmonella in Commercial Poultry through Biosecurity" on Monday, October 5, 2020 from 2:30-3:30PM EDT. The webinar will provide pro tips from USDA APHIS vets and other poultry industry experts on how to control Salmonella in commercial flocks. Register today at www.bit.ly/USDAWebinar.

Webinar speakers include:

- Dr. Charles Hofacre, President of Southern Poultry Research Group. In his career, Dr. Hofacre held a variety of positions in the poultry industry and taught at University of Georgia for 19 years. He also served as the Executive Vice President of the poultry veterinary organization, the American Association of Avian Pathologists (AAAP).
- Dr. Katy Burden, Veterinary Medical Officer with the National Poultry Improvement Plan, APHIS Dr. Burden worked for USDA's Food Safety Inspection Service and the Georgia Poultry Laboratory before coming to APHIS earlier this year.
- Dr. Taylor Gaines, Staff Veterinarian with the Poultry Health Team, APHIS Dr. Gaines has been with USDA since 2016, working in several import/export positions before joining the poultry health team earlier this year.

USDA offers a full complement of educational materials as part of its Defend the Flock program. All Defend the Flock materials, including checklists, videos, webinars, and educational resources, are available at no charge 24/7 at the Defend the Flock Resource Center. For more information on the program, visit www.aphis.usda.gov/defendtheflock.

Doing More With Less In Records

Ed Claughton
President, PRI
September 2020

These are disruptive times and the volume of information coming in is steadily increasing while budget constraints are forcing cost saving measures. Once again, public safety professionals are being asked to “do more with less.”

States Want Control Over Drug Prices. Will the Feds Give it to Them?

In an attempt to lower health-care costs, Massachusetts is seeking to exclude certain drugs from its Medicaid program. It's a bold step, experts say, that will not only invite imitation but also lawsuits.

SureID celebrates 13th anniversary of RAPIDGate use at U.S. military facilities

SureID, Inc., the national leader in high-assurance identity management solutions, announced today that its flagship RAPIDGate® program has facilitated 380 million entrances and flagged 4 million ingresses at military facilities across the U.S. since its first military implementation at Washington state's Joint Base Lewis-McChord1 in March 2004. Since that time, the RAPIDGate program has identity-proofed and credentialed more than 1,407,000 third-party personnel representing more than 78,000 companies and including more than 200,000 PIV-I credentials issued since 2014.

Larson

The RAPIDGate program provides increased security and streamlined access to highly secure facilities such as military installations, government buildings, federal agencies, manufacturing and distribution sites, commercial buildings, and ports. The program provides a single identity management and perimeter installation access control solution and credential for the high-assurance identity management of vendors, suppliers, service providers and other contractors who are not authorized to receive a Common Access Card (CAC). The program saves time and money both for the U.S. government and for the individual participants who seek access to RAPIDGate-enabled installations. More

The National Association for Information Destruction® (NAID®) announced today the results of the largest study to date of the presence of personally identifiable information (PII) on electronic devices sold on the second hand market. The study showed that 40 percent of devices resold in publicly-available resale channels contained PII. NAID commissioned CPR Tools, Inc. to analyze the used devices, which included used hard drives, mobile phones and tablets.

The current state of electronic storage has made it possible for nearly every adult to carry a form of data storage device. "As data storage is included in nearly every aspect of technology today, so is the likelihood of unauthorized or unintended access to that data," states CPR Tools CEO, John Benkert. He goes on to say, "Auction, resell, and recycling sites have created a convenient revenue stream in used devices; however, the real value is in the data that the public unintentionally leaves behind." Avian flu virus now confirmed in parts of Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky

With the USDA's confirmation of Avian Influenza in southern Tennessee, Alabama, and now Kentucky, the virus has struck the United States for the fourth year in a row. Since the first reported case in 2014, over 40 million chickens and turkeys have died or been euthanized across 15 states in the U.S. Until recently, the last highly pathogenic bird flu was found in a commercial turkey flock in Indiana in January 2016.

According to the World Organization for Animal Health, 13 strains of Avian Influenza were detected in 77 countries between January 2014 and December 2016. After the outbreak two years ago, Mexico and Canada introduced state or regional bans on U.S. broiler exports, and China imposed a national ban. With news of the recent outbreak, Hong Kong, South Korea and Taiwan have all halted import of U.S. poultry. More

Airline trade association seeks solutions around British, American electronics bans

APEX (Airline Passenger Experience Association), a four-decade old international airline trade association, called for immediate government-approved security solutions for the airline electronics ban announced this week by the United States and United Kingdom. IATA calculations indicate 393 flights per week impacted by the electronics ban. By APEX load-factor calculations, this translates into more than three million affected airline passengers per year. With airline and government coordination, APEX believes that solutions may be rapidly implemented by airlines to further increase security and allow personal electronics on-board.

"The U.S. and U.K. this week pointed to a problem in airline security by banning electronics on certain flights. When we take away personal electronic devices from passengers, we are bowing to a potential threat rather than providing an acceptable security solution," APEX CEO Joe Leader stated. "Chemical detection machines utilized worldwide can detect illicit items in electronics. Turning on electronics checks functionality and non-functioning electronics could be banned from flights. The expense of hand-searching every carry-on for the personal electronics ban could instead be directed to a long-term solution that serves airline passengers and safety." More

TONIGHT'S SPOTLIGHT: THE CORONAVIRUS

July 5, 2020

This is an evening edition of our daily newsletter bringing you the latest updates on the coronavirus in New Jersey with reporting by NJ Spotlight & NJTV News. We are providing this as a public service to the daily subscribers of Today's Spotlight. For a collection of all reporting so far, visit here.

Today's developments

- Gov. Phil Murphy today on NBC's "Meet the Press" said New Jersey is starting to see "small spikes in reinfection" of people coming into the state from outside hot spots, including from Florida and South Carolina.
 - The governor said multiple individuals who attended a wedding in Myrtle Beach, N.C., wedding were found to have returned to New Jersey with the virus.
 - Murphy called for a "national requirement" that would require people wear masks when in public.
 - After reversing himself once last week, the governor indicated he would not soon lift the restriction on indoor dining in restaurants. He cited the fact that the virus appears to spread far more in inside settings than outside. "We'll get there I hope, but we're not ready for it," he said of indoor dining.
- Statewide, the holiday weekend did not see any apparent surge of cases, deaths or hospitalizations, with all three numbers staying relatively steady.
 - There were 398 additional confirmed cases reported today, 23 more deaths, and a total of 917 patients in the state's hospitals. (Full breakdown below.)
 - Weekend numbers can tend to be low due to lags in reporting.
 - After not holding his daily press briefings through the weekend, Murphy is scheduled to resume the briefings on Monday.
- Youth day camps and summer programs are permitted to reopen tomorrow, and outdoor gatherings are permitted up to a maximum of 500 people.
 - In-person graduation ceremonies that adhere to safety restrictions are also permitted starting this week.
 - Two other notable -- and COVID-postponed -- dates coming up: the Tuesday, July 7th primary election and the July 15th tax deadline.

The latest numbers

- New Jersey officials reported today an additional 398 confirmed cases of COVID-19, for a statewide cumulative total of 173,402.
 - The daily increase rose from 303 the day before, but still continued to keep the nearly month-long average below 500.
 - New Jersey, long second to New York state (397,131) in the number of cases, is now fifth behind also California (254,408), Florida (200,101) and Texas (193,790), according to Johns Hopkins University Coronavirus Resource Center. Florida yesterday surpassed Texas for the first time in number of cases.
 - More than 46,000 additional cases were reported nationwide yesterday. The nation's cumulative total now stands at nearly 2.9 million cases.
- Another 23 deaths were reported in New Jersey on Saturday, bringing that total of COVID-19 fatalities to now 15,211.
 - The total includes both 13,355 confirmed COVID-related deaths and another 1,856 listed as probable COVID-19 deaths, as determined in an ongoing review of death certificates and other data by state epidemiologists.
 - New Jersey remains the second highest number of deaths in the country, behind only New York (32,189), according to Johns Hopkins.
- The number of COVID-19 patients in New Jersey hospitals this weekend remained below 1,000, although not all hospitals were reported.
 - With 69 of 71 hospitals reporting, 917 patients were being treated for confirmed or suspected cases of COVID-19 yesterday, down from 978 the day before.
 - 210 were in critical or intensive care, up slightly from Friday.

- 151 were on ventilators yesterday, a slight drop.
 - Across the state, 406 patients were in hospitals in the northern third of the state, 280 in central Jersey, and 231 in the south.
 - 95 COVID-19 patients were discharged, six less than the day before.
- Statewide, the total number of COVID-19 tests conducted topped 1.5 million, including negatives.
 - The latest daily, or spot, positivity rate of tests on June 28 was up to 2.95% statewide.
 - On June 30, the rate of reproduction of the virus — or “Rt,” which gauges how many other people are infected by each person with who contracts the virus — was up slightly to 0.87.
 - A rate that remains under 1.0 — as NJ’s has since the beginning of May — is an “indicator that the virus is ultimately going to die” out, Murphy has said.
 - Nursing homes and other long-term care centers in New Jersey on Saturday were reporting another 13 deaths among residents, bringing that total to 6,558.
 - The facilities have also reported 119 deaths among staff.
 - A total of 36,598 positive test results have been reported among residents and staff.

Friday on NJTV News

Ahead of a holiday weekend unlike any other in recent memory, this national birthday comes in the midst of heightened social unrest that has many residents questioning for whom this Independence Day was meant. The weekend also comes as the United States sets a new record for coronavirus cases in a single day -- surpassing more than 50,000. New Jersey is among the few states continuing to make progress containing the virus.

Friday the state reported 386 new positive tests for a cumulative total of 172,742. That's with 58 more lives lost and a combined total of 15,164 confirmed and probable deaths due to COVID-19.

New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection New Jersey Trucker's Challenge

http://www.njmta.org/images/pages/Grant_Pre_Approval_Application.pdf

In New Jersey, thirteen counties have been designated as non-attainment areas for the particulate matter 2.5 (PM2.5) standard. PM2.5 can cause significant health problems. A major source of PM2.5 emissions comes from idling diesel trucks. Reducing the need to idle will significantly help to reduce PM2.5 emissions. You can help reduce diesel emissions, as well as, reduce fuel consumption by joining the New Jersey Trucker's Challenge.

The New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (NJDEP) has established a grant program - the New Jersey Trucker's Challenge with funding in the amount of $750,000 from the State of New Jersey and the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). The New Jersey Motor Truck Association (NJMTA) is the Administrator of the program.

Through the New Jersey Trucker's Challenge truck owners may qualify for funding to be used to assist in the purchase of Auxiliary Power Units (APU) or Bunk Heaters. Truck owners that also install tailpipe emission controls (Diesel Particulate Filter or a Diesel Oxidation Catalyst) can recover most, if not all of their investment.

To participate in the New Jersey Trucker's Challenge you must complete a Pre-Approval Application. If approved, you will receive a notification of the total grant amount approved along with a certification of installation form which must be completed and returned along with receipts of purchase and installation. A 12-month follow-up report is also required. Please note that idling reduction devices purchased or installed PRIOR to application approval for the Trucker's Challenge Program are NOT eligible.

Criteria:

- Must be a NJ domiciled Owner-Operator or Fleet

- Must certify vehicle is 1994 EPA engine or newer
- Must certify that vehicles are used within NJ at least 50% of the time that they are operating.
- Must certify that a Trip Data – Life Time Report (that includes Total Idle Time) will be submitted to NJMTA 12 months following installation of equipment.
- Maximum of 5 units per fleet

Preferences: Member of EPA Smartway Program (www.smartway.gov)

Five Steps to a 'Greener' Car

Fuel Advantage, a Division of Cygnus Business Media.

It doesn't matter if the car you're driving is new or old, big or small. There are preventive maintenance steps every vehicle owner can take to make sure their car is as "green" or environmentally friendly as possible, according to the Car Care Council.

By following five simple preventive maintenance steps, you can help protect the environment by improving gas mileage, which in turn saves money at the pump.

1. The first step is to keep your car properly tuned for optimum performance. A well-tuned engine delivers the best balance of power and fuel economy and produces the lowest level of emissions. A 21st Century tune-up for modern vehicles includes the following system checks: battery, charging and starting; engine mechanical; powertrain control (including onboard diagnostic checks); fuel; ignition; and emissions. A 21st Century tune-up can improve gas mileage by an average of four percent. Fixing a serious maintenance problem, such as a faulty oxygen sensor, can improve gas mileage by as much as 40 percent.
2. The second step is to regularly check and replace dirty air filters. An air filter that is clogged with dirt, dust and bugs chokes off the air and creates a "rich" mixture -- too much gas being burned for the amount of air -- that wastes gas and causes the engine to lose power. Replacing a clogged air filter can improve gas mileage by as much as 10 percent, saving about 15 cents a gallon.
3. The third step is have the spark plugs checked -- if they haven't already been checked as part of the tune-up -- and replaced if necessary. A vehicle can have four, six or eight spark plugs, which fire as many as 3 million times every 1,000 miles. This results in a lot of heat, electrical, and chemical erosion. A dirty spark plug also causes misfiring, which wastes fuel.
4. The fourth step is to maintain the cooling system of your vehicle. A cooling system thermostat that causes the engine to run too cold will lower the fuel efficiency of a car by as much as one or two mpg. There also are improved radiator caps on the market today that allow the cooling system to operate at a higher temperature before boiling over, increasing the system's efficiency and reducing emissions.
5. The last step toward keeping a "green" car is to properly maintain and repair your car as outlined in the council's Car Care Guide. The guide helps drivers understand their car, the care it needs, and when it needs it and why. Single copies of the free guide may be ordered on the Car Care Council Web site, <http://www.carcare.org>.

In addition to proper vehicle maintenance, vehicles can be more fuel-efficient if tires are properly inflated and if drivers observe the speed limit, avoid aggressive driving and excessive idling, and adhere to an errand list to eliminate extra trips to the store for forgotten items.

Law Enforcement Goes Green in Ford Crown Victoria Flex Fuel

Fuel Advantage, a Division of Cygnus Business Media.

Ford Motor Company, which manufactures more than 80 percent of the police vehicle market, will help the nation's Black & Whites go green. The automotive giant recently announced its new 2008 Crown Victoria Police Interceptor will be offered as a flexible fuel vehicle capable of running on either E85 or gasoline.

As police and government agencies begin to seek alternatives to conventional gasoline vehicles, Ford will help them become more environmentally friendly. "The ability to offer an E85-capable vehicle to our police customers is significant," said Gerald Koss, Ford's fleet marketing manager. "Many municipalities and states across the country are encouraging, if not mandating, that their police and other government fleet vehicles begin using alternative sources of fuel. We can now help our police fleet customers achieve this goal."

Ford reported that government agencies that utilize the new flex-fuel cruiser on their annual Department of Energy plan will be eligible for credits toward EPACT mandates. The company also announced that it has achieved fifty-state certification for its entire Ford and Mercury flex-fuel passenger car lineup. Ford will now differentiate flexible fuel vehicles from conventional gasoline vehicles by equipping the former with yellow gas caps.

"Ethanol is one way in which we can help lessen America's dependence on foreign oil," Koss said. "In addition to our flexible fuel vehicles, fleets looking to go green can also choose from two hybrid models, the Ford Escape and Mercury Mariner, as well as a number of Ford PZEV (partial zero emissions vehicles) models."

Fleets can immediately place orders for the E85-powered Crown Victoria Police Interceptor. Production is slated to begin this month.

In 2005, on average, a person was injured in a police-reported motor vehicle crash every 12 seconds and someone was killed every 12 minutes.

Regular crash reduction program reviews, benchmarking, gathering metrics, and holding your provider accountable for results are important to cost-effectively manage fleet vehicle accidents

FBI Announces Deployment of Sentinel Phase 1

Jun 22, 2007, Government Technology News Report

This week, the FBI completed the Bureau-wide deployment of the first phase of Sentinel, the FBI's next-generation information management system.

Phase 1 provides a user-friendly, web-based interface to access information currently in the FBI's Automated Case Support (ACS) system. Information is pushed to users and is available through hyperlinks. Phase 1 features a Personal Workbox, which summarizes a user's cases and leads, putting more information at their fingertips and moving employees from dependence on paper-based files. It also provides user-friendly search capabilities, an improvement over the cumbersome mainframe system. Phase 1 also provides a Squad Workbox which allows supervisors to better manage their resources and assign leads with the click of a mouse.

Phase 1 is the result of collaboration between Lockheed Martin, the prime contractor, and the FBI's Sentinel Program Management Office. The deployment of Phase 1 followed a methodical schedule of design, development, testing, training, and a limited pilot to ensure the system could perform as required.

"With the completion of Phase 1, FBI employees will see a marked improvement in their ability to access, retrieve, and move information," said Joseph L. Ford, FBI associate deputy director. "We are currently working with Lockheed Martin to plan the development and deployment of the next set of Sentinel capabilities."

Linda Gooden, executive vice president of Lockheed Martin Information Systems and Global Services, said, "We are proud to support the FBI in the first phase delivery of this highly capable system. Sentinel will go a long way in helping the Bureau accomplish their mission."

In preparation for the initial deployment, a select group of FBI employees received advanced detailed training on the system, and serve as points of contact providing user support in their respective offices. All Bureau employees were afforded the opportunity to participate in a series of training programs that included seminars, technology-based training, and instructor-led training courses facilitated by experienced FBI instructors. As a part of this training, a full range of users had an opportunity to provide feedback on the training and make recommendations for future enhancements to the Sentinel application. Training is ongoing and additional training will be provided as more features become available.

The Sentinel system, when completed, will help the FBI manage information beyond the case focus of the existing ACS, and ultimately will provide enhanced information sharing, search, and analysis capabilities. Sentinel will also facilitate information sharing with members of the law enforcement and intelligence communities.

Chrysler Group Fleet Operations – Poised and Ready for the Future

June 22, 2007 AUTOMOTIVE FLEET

AUBURN HILLS, MI – Chrysler Group Fleet Operations is poised and ready for the future following the sale of a majority stake in the automaker to Cerberus Capital Management. Earlier, DaimlerChrysler signed a definitive agreement to sell 80.1 percent equity position in the Chrysler Group, including Chrysler Financial, to Cerberus Capital Management, L.P. with Daimler to retain the remaining 19.9 percent.

“As a private (non-public) company we will be better positioned to concentrate on our long-term plan for recovery, rather than on short-term results,” said Pat Dougherty, Director, Fleet Operations for the Chrysler Group. “With the financial strength and additional operational expertise brought by our investment partner Cerberus, Chrysler will renew its focus on what has always made us special: our passion, creativity and commitment to delivering exciting Chrysler, Jeep and Dodge vehicles and quality Mopar parts to our customers.”

Dougherty added: “Our future success will also be supported by our continued relationship with Daimler. In particular, we will continue to collaborate on technologies for clean diesel engines, two-mode hybrids, fuel cells and other alternative powertrains that are especially important in this climate of rising consumer demand for more fuel-efficient vehicles. Other on-going joint projects with Mercedes-Benz will also continue.”

According to an earlier press release, Chrysler Group stated that it remains fully committed to the company’s fleet business. “We are confident that with our new organization our fleet customers will see a stronger Chrysler organization which will continue to be an industry leader with the best products and best support available to the fleet market,” said Dougherty.

Senators Reach Agreement on Fuel Economy Boosting Fleet Average to 35 mpg

June 22, 2007 AUTOMOTIVE FLEET

WASHINGTON - The Senate voted to require average fuel economy of 35 miles per gallon for new cars, pickup trucks and SUVs by 2020, raising efficiency standards that have not changed significantly for nearly two decades.

The fuel economy measure was added to a broad energy bill without a roll call vote even as senators were holding a news conference announcing the compromise.

The legislation for the first time would establish a single fuel economy standard applicable to not only cars, but also SUVs and pickups which currently have to meet less stringent requirement.

Automakers are currently required to meet an average of 27.5 mpg for cars and 22.2 mpg for SUVs and small trucks. The car standard has not changed since 1989, though the truck requirements have been increased slightly by the Bush administration.

The measure tacked onto the energy bill would require a 35 mpg fleet average — including SUVs and pickup trucks — by 2020, and require that automakers make half of their vehicles capable of running on 85 percent ethanol fuel by 2015.

The compromise removed a requirement that automakers would have had to meet an additional 4 percent increase per year for 10 years after 2020. The ethanol flex-fuel requirement also would have been three years longer.

Automakers had strongly opposed the 4 percent requirement, saying it was not achievable and would have required them to make vehicles with a fleet-wide average of 52 mpg by 2030.

Auto industry leaders came to Capitol Hill several weeks ago saying they could not meet the kind of fuel use increases being contemplated. Industry executives and car dealers visited Senate offices this week in last minute lobbying and urged senators to approve a less stringent measure

DOJ, FBI Release Results of Operation Bot Roast

Jun 13, 2007, Government Technology News Report

Today the Department of Justice and FBI announced the results of an ongoing cyber crime initiative to disrupt and dismantle "botherders" and elevate the public's cyber security awareness of botnets. OPERATION BOT ROAST is a national initiative and ongoing investigations have identified over one million victim computer IP addresses. The FBI is working with industry partners, including the CERT Coordination Center at Carnegie Mellon University, to notify the victim owners of the computers. Through this process the FBI may uncover additional incidents in which botnets have been used to facilitate other criminal activity.

A botnet is a collection of compromised computers under the remote command and control of a criminal "botherder." Most owners of the compromised computers are unknowing and unwitting victims. They have unintentionally allowed unauthorized access and use of their computers as a vehicle to facilitate other crimes, such as identity theft, denial of service attacks, phishing, click fraud, and the mass distribution of spam and spyware. Because of their widely distributed capabilities, botnets are a growing threat to national security, the national information infrastructure, and the economy.

"The majority of victims are not even aware that their computer has been compromised or their personal information exploited," said FBI Assistant Director for the Cyber Division James Finch. "An attacker gains control by infecting the computer with a virus or other malicious code and the computer continues to operate normally. Citizens can protect themselves from botnets and the associated schemes by practicing strong computer security habits to reduce the risk that your computer will be compromised."

Good cyber security tips include updating anti-virus software, installing a firewall, using strong passwords, practicing good e-mail and Web security practices. Although this will not necessarily identify or remove a botnet currently on the system, this can help to prevent future botnet attacks. More information on botnets and tips for cyber crime prevention can be found online.

The FBI will not contact you online and request your personal information so be wary of fraud schemes that request this type of information, especially via unsolicited e-mails. To report fraudulent activity or financial scams, contact the nearest FBI office or police department, and file a complaint online with the Internet Crime Complaint Center. The FBI will continue to aggressively investigate individuals that conduct cyber criminal acts.

Alabama Woman Charged With Stealing Driver License Receipts

June 21, 2007 AUTOMOTIVE FLEET

DOTHAM, Ala. --- The Alabama Department of Public Safety said a 53-year-old woman from here has been charged with stealing approximately $40,000 in missing driver license receipts.

The woman had worked for 27 years in the Dotham examining office. She was fired May 29. A Houston County grand jury indicted her on five counts of theft, according to an Associated Press report.

Study Finds Air Bags Dangerous for Tall and Short People

June 14, 2007 AUTOMOTIVE FLEET

PORTLAND, Oregon --- A new study from Oregon Health & Science University concluded that deployed air bags pose a serious risk of injury to short and tall people.

"This is the first time that there is proof to substantiate the concern about small-stature occupants, and it is the first time that there has been any implication that tall people are also at risk, lead researcher Dr. Craig Newgard, an assistant professor at the university, told HealthDay News. Newgard specializes in emergency medicine and public health.

Newgard said researchers studied more than 11 years of data, including results for older air bags and the newer so-called smart airbags that are designed to compensate for a person's weight. Newgard and co-author John McConnell gathered data on 67,284 drivers and front-seat passengers involved in car crashes. They concluded that air bags are effective for people of medium height --- from 5 feet 3 inches to 5 feet 11 inches tall. But they found that airbags pose a threat to people shorter than 4 feet 11 inches tall and people taller than 6 feet 3 inches. Body weight wasn't a factor in injury rates.

Some experts, however, have questioned the study because it doesn't separate out data for new "smart" air bags. "There should be enough data to look at revised air bag design to see if that has made a difference," Toben Nelson, an assistant professor of epidemiology at the University of Minnesota School of Public Health, told HealthDay News. Nelson added that the finding on tall people may be "an artifact of not having many people of taller stature to see significant findings." He said there needs to be more evidence to support the conclusion that air bags pose a threat to tall people.

Harris Poll: 58 Percent of Americans Feel Prepared for a Major Disaster

June 13, 2007 AUTOMOTIVE FLEET

ROCHESTER, N.Y. --- As the 2007 hurricane season opens, memories of the horrible 2005 season may have begun to fade from people's memories, especially since the 2006 season was relatively storm free. But, with one named storm already in the books for this year, are people prepared to face what might be?

According to a new Harris poll, just over half (58%) of Americans say they are prepared for a long-term power outage or a disaster such as a hurricane, earthquake, flood, wild land fire or terrorist attack by having the necessary supplies, including extra food and water for three days. However, the number of those who say they are "very prepared" is just 14 percent compared to the 44 percent who are somewhat prepared.

Nine in ten (91 percent) say they are prepared to take someone to the hospital closest to their home in an emergency, and 84 percent are prepared to put out a small cooking fire on the stove. Three-quarters are prepared to live for a few days with the supplies they have on hand if there was a catastrophic disaster and they could not get to the store. Sixty-two percent of U.S. adults are prepared to turn off the electricity, gas and water in their home.

These are some of the results of a Harris Poll of 2,563 adults surveyed online between April 10 and 16, 2007 by Harris Interactive. This survey was conceived and developed by Harris Interactive and was not commissioned by any organization. However, the poll took into account information from the American Red Cross on the subject of emergency preparedness.

The American Red Cross recommends five specific actions to be taken in order to prepare for a disaster, yet less than half of U.S. adults say that they have done any of these. Just under half (48 percent) have completed first aid or CPR training, while just over one-third (36 percent) have made a specific evacuation plan for how they would leave their home in the case of an emergency situation.

Just over one-quarter (28 percent) say they have put together a disaster supplies kit with water, food, medicine, and other supplies, while the same number have selected a person who lives outside their geographic region that family members can contact if they become separated after an emergency. One-quarter (24 percent) have established a specific meeting place to reunite in the event they and their family cannot return home.

Allstate Study Names Sioux Falls Drivers as Safest in U.S.

June 21, 2007 AUTOMOTIVE FLEET

NORTHBROOK, Ill. --- Residents of Sioux Falls, S.D., are still the safest drivers in the U.S., according to the third annual "Allstate America's Best Drivers Report." The average driver in Sioux Falls will experience an auto collision every 13.7 years. Since the national average is a crash every 10 years, Sioux Falls motorists are 27 percent less likely to get into a car accident.

"The fact that Sioux Falls drivers retained the standing as America's safest drivers for two years in a row is an accomplishment for which all Sioux Falls residents should be proud," said Sioux Falls Mayor Dave Munson. "The quality of our community driver education programs, combined with the careful consideration of our traffic engineering department, goes a long way to make our roadways safe for everyone."

Parked in the runner-up position for the second consecutive year is Fort Collins, Colo. Motorists in Fort Collins experience a car crash every 13.6 years, on average.

For the past three years, Allstate actuaries have conducted an in-depth analysis of company claim data to determine the likelihood of drivers in America's 200 largest cities to experience a vehicle collision compared to the national average. Allstate's auto policies represent about 12 percent of the U.S. population, making this report a realistic snapshot of what's happening on America's roadways.

"The primary purpose of this study is to elevate the safe driving discussion by sharing Allstate's report regarding motorists' driving habits with the public," said Mike Roche, senior vice president of Allstate's claim organization. "We hope that our findings can help shed light on communities with drivers that could be more tolerant and attentive behind the wheel as well as provide a platform to recognize cities with drivers that have collectively improved over time."

This year, Allstate compared all three years of report data to identify cities with the most improved drivers since 2005. A flock of Michigan cities landed in the top five slots: Sterling Heights, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Warren and, in first place, Flint. Flint improved its average years between accidents from 9.8 years in 2005 to 13.4 years --- 25.4 percent better than the national medium in 2007. Flint leaped from the number 73 spot in 2005 to number three overall in 2007 in three years.

Here's a list of the most improved cities and their overall ranking, along with the 2005 to 2007 increase in years between accidents:

- 3. Flint, Mich. --- 3.6 years
- 4. Warren, Mich. --- 3.2 years
- 24. Grand Rapids, Mich. --- 2.8 years
- 25. Detroit --- 2.7 years
- 12. Sterling Heights, Mich. --- 2.3 years
- 54. Aurora, Colo. --- 1.8 years
- 16. Lexington-Fayette, Ky. --- 1.7 years
- 140. Yonkers, N.Y. --- 1.3 years
- 187. Arlington, Va. --- 1.3 years
- 191. Alexandria, Va. --- 1.2 years

"We've seen a nearly continual decrease in crashes statewide in Michigan in the last 10 years, including a 54 percent decrease in serious injury crashes -- that's 9,000 fewer seriously injured people in 2006 compared to 1996," said David Morena, safety and traffic engineer for the Federal Highway Administration in Lansing, Mich. "This progress in crash reduction is evident also in the statistics for the five cities highlighted in this report by Allstate."

Morena attributed the reduction in the overall number and severity of crashes to safety legislation, such as primary seat belt law and graduated licensing for our younger drivers; road infrastructure and operational improvements, and new vehicle safety features.

"Finally, we also cannot ignore the probability of some contribution from the state's economy to lower auto collisions. Trends have shown that when our Michigan economy is in a downturn, auto crashes tend to reduce as well," Morena said.

Drivers from Sioux Falls didn't yield their number one slot in this year's report. However, Michigan, Tennessee and Colorado stand out as also being home to some of the country's safest drivers. Two cities from each state are parked in the top 10 on Allstate's list --- consistent with report findings over its three-year history. Midwestern drivers also appear to heed the safety call. Four out of the 10 top cities are in America's heartland, according to the report.

Here's a list of the top 10 safest driver cities, showing rank and city, collision likelihood compared to the national average, and the average years between collisions:

1. Sioux Falls, S.D. --- 27.2% less likely; 13.7 years
2. Fort Collins, Colo. --- 26.2% less likely; 13.6 years
3. Flint, Mich. --- 25.4% less likely; 13.4 years
4. Warren, Mich. --- 25.0% less likely; 13.3 years
5. Huntsville, Ala. --- 23.6% less likely; 13.1 years
6. Knoxville, Tenn. --- 22.8% less likely; 13.0 years
7. Chattanooga, Tenn. --- 22.7% less likely; 12.9 years
8. Colorado Springs, Colo. --- 21.3% less likely; 12.7 years
9. Milwaukee, Wisc. --- 21.0% less likely; 12.7 years
10. Des Moines, Iowa --- 20.5% less likely; 12.6 years

For the third consecutive year, drivers in Phoenix, Ariz., are the safest big-city commuters, according to Allstate. Phoenix motorists can expect to bump into another vehicle on the roadway every 9.8 years -- slightly more frequent than the national average.

Here's a list of big-city driver cities (with populations exceeding 1 million), showing rank and city, collision likelihood compared to national average, and average years between collisions:

78. Phoenix --- 2.0% more likely; 9.8 years
116. San Diego --- 10.9% more likely; 9.0 years
160. San Antonio --- 23.0% more likely; 8.1 years
163. Houston --- 23.9% more likely; 8.1 years
169. New York --- 27.0% more likely; 7.9 years
178. Dallas --- 29.7% more likely; 7.7 years
183. Chicago --- 34.4% more likely; 7.4 years
185. Los Angeles --- 44.7% more likely; 6.9 years
190. Philadelphia --- 51.9% more likely; 6.6 years

Milwaukee drivers topped the list of safest drivers in mid-sized cities with populations between 500,000 to 1 million residents. This is the third consecutive year that the Wisconsin city has claimed this honor. Milwaukee drivers experience a car accident once every 12.7 years on average, 21 percent less likely than the average driver. Drivers located in the top 10 cities in this break-out list for mid-sized cities are above average, level-headed drivers when compared to the average driver.

Here's the list for mid-size city drivers, showing rank/city, collision likelihood compared to national average, and the average years between collisions:

9. Milwaukee -- 21.0% less likely; 12.7 years
25. Detroit --- 13.5% less likely; 11.6 years
28. Louisville, Ky. --- 13.0% less likely; 11.5 years
33. Memphis, Tenn. --- 11.1% less likely; 11.2 years
36. Nashville, Tenn. --- 9.8% less likely; 11.1 years
39. Denver --- 8.4% less likely; 10.9 years
50. Indianapolis --- 5.0% less likely; 10.5 years
55. Tucson, Ariz. --- 3.8% less likely; 10.4 years
56. El Paso, Texas --- 3.5% less likely; 10.4 years
57. Oklahoma City --- 3.4% less likely; 10.4 years

To create its report, Allstate researchers analyzed internal property damage reported claims over a two-year period (from January 2004 to December 2005) to ensure the findings would not be impacted by external influences such as weather or road construction. A weighted average of the two-year numbers determined the annual percentages. The report defines an auto crash as any collision resulting in a property damage claim.

Border Patrol agents assaulted by crowd of Mexican nationals in California, says CBP

According to a press release issued by CBP on November 26, Border Patrol agents working near the U.S./Mexico International Border were assaulted on November 24 with rocks and bottles.

More than 100 people illegally crossed the International Border from Mexico one-quarter-mile west of the San Ysidro port of entry in the Tijuana River channel. The group advanced toward a Border Patrol agent positioned one-eighth of a mile north of the border. The agent ordered the group to stop, said a news release issued by CBP. The group ignored his commands and continued to advance. The agent deployed his PepperBall Launcher System, an intermediate use-of-force device, in an effort to stop the group and protect himself. The crowd failed to respond appropriately. More

CBP seeks data on four different types of baggage and parcel X-ray screening systems

CBP has issued a Request For Information (RFI) to commercial baggage screening companies for information about their capabilities to supply small, medium, large and pallet X-ray systems that could be used in international airport terminals, mail processing facilities,

“We are looking for software that runs on all four systems and that is universal across the product line,” explains a set of technical specifications that accompanies the RFI. “The operator should be able to operate each unit in the same way, using the same controls and is identical for training purposes. One training should cover all four systems.” More

Baggage screening: The key to more efficient airports?

By Andrew Goldsmith

More than 640 million domestic air passengers hoped for a timely departure in 2012, and yet few ever considered a key part of the security process that makes timely departures possible: screening of baggage that goes into the “hold” of an airplane (more commonly known in the U.S. as “checked” baggage.)

Passengers tend to focus on the most visible aspect of the screening process -- the security checkpoint -- which includes person and carry-on inspection. For travelers, hold baggage screening, or HBS, is more of an afterthought, the checkpoint's "silent partner." But, for airport officials, ineffective HBS processes have far-reaching repercussions: flight delays, lost bags, even cancellations. In fact, given the interdependency of flight scheduling, a single airport's struggles with HBS could lead to operational inefficiencies and traveler dissatisfaction throughout the entire air travel system. According to a press release issued by CBP on November 26, Border Patrol agents working near the U.S./Mexico International Border were assaulted on November 24 with rocks and bottles.

More than 100 people illegally crossed the International Border from Mexico one-quarter-mile west of the San Ysidro port of entry in the Tijuana River channel. The group advanced toward a Border Patrol agent positioned one-eighth of a mile north of the border. The agent ordered the group to stop, said a news release issued by CBP. The group ignored his commands and continued to advance. The agent deployed his PepperBall Launcher System, an intermediate use-of-force device, in an effort to stop the group and protect himself. The crowd failed to respond appropriately. More

When cargo enters the United States and has not yet been inspected and cleared to enter the U.S. economy, it is often secured in containers or trucks with the use of what are called "high security International Organization Standard (ISO) bolts."

These ISO bolts could be used to secure cargo when the container is instructed to move from the congested port of entry to a less-congested “Centralized Examination Station,” or CES, which might be located miles away, where the cargo could be thoroughly inspected. More

CBP seeks data on four different types of baggage and parcel X-ray screening systems

CBP has issued a Request For Information (RFI) to commercial baggage screening companies for information about their capabilities to supply small, medium, large and pallet X-ray systems that could be used in international airport terminals, mail processing facilities, warehouses and other sites.

“We are looking for software that runs on all four systems and that is universal across the product line,” explains a set of technical specifications that accompanies the RFI. “The operator should be able to operate each unit in the same way, using the same controls and is identical for training purposes. One training should cover all four systems.” More

Electronic travel authorizations are becoming much more popular

More than twice as many non-immigrant travelers to the United States each year are applying for their visas or travel authorizations via an online electronic system, rather than filling out paper forms.

According to a notice published in the Federal Register on November 26, more than 21.9 million travelers take advantage each year of the “Electronic System for Travel Authorization,” nicknamed ESTA. More

Baggage screening: The key to more efficient airports?

By Andrew Goldsmith

More than 640 million domestic air passengers hoped for a timely departure in 2012, and yet few ever considered a key part of the security process that makes timely departures possible: screening of baggage that goes into the “hold” of an airplane (more commonly known in the U.S. as “checked” baggage.)

Passengers tend to focus on the most visible aspect of the screening process -- the security checkpoint -- which includes person and carry-on inspection. For travelers, hold baggage screening, or HBS, is more of an afterthought, the checkpoint's "silent partner." But, for airport officials, ineffective HBS processes have far-reaching repercussions: flight delays, lost bags, even cancellations. In fact, given the interdependency of flight scheduling, a single airport's struggles with HBS could lead to operational inefficiencies and traveler dissatisfaction throughout the entire air travel system. TSA's blogger, Bob Burns, offered a few travel tips on November 26 for passengers moving around the country during the holiday season, particularly those who are counting on expedited screening procedures because they have enrolled in TSA's "Pre" trusted traveler program.

"For all of you using TSA Pre, it's very important you enter the correct info when booking your flight or you may not get selected for expedited screening," explained Blogger Bob. More

Magal Security Systems, Ltd. Announced on November 25 that it has received a repeat order to secure 13 power transmission substations for a large power company in Eastern Europe for $2.5 million. The order includes the supply and installation of intrusion detection systems.

Eitan Livneh, President and CEO of Magal S3, commented, "We are pleased with this repeat order and the increased momentum we have seen in the past few weeks. A follow-on order is a sign of a satisfied customer. It also demonstrates how our past efforts and success with customers, as well as our investment in maintaining long-term relationships with them, continue to yield fruits over many years." More

Date: Wednesday, January 18, 2023 7:51:12 AM

Hi George. K Baumann,

Recent Activity
Location Name	Status	Visit Type	Completed/Scheduled Date
	Scheduled	Installation	1/18/2023
	Scheduled	Installation	1/18/2023
	Scheduled	Installation	1/18/2023
	Scheduled	Installation	1/18/2023

Status:

Scheduling: We are actively scheduling the technician visit - be that for a pre-installation site survey or the installation. Be on the lookout for the dispatched appointment within the next week or two.

Scheduled: Barring unforeseen circumstances, the technician will be onsite for your site survey or installation on this date.

Completed: The technician has completed the visit. Next step: the experts are in the process of confirming that your cameras are functioning properly (receiving adequate sunlight, connecting regularly to the cellular network, taking high-quality images, etc.). Once that part is complete, we will grant access to your camera footage.

Visit Types:

Site Survey: The technician will confirm that the locations previously agreed upon will work for the installation. The technician will place white flags at each location according to the plan you approved.

Installation: The technician will follow the plan based on the results of the site survey.

Maintenance: Our systems have identified an issue with your camera and a technician will be onsite to resolve the issue.

Stay Safe,
Your Flock Safety Team

Scheduled: Barring unforeseen circumstances, the technician will be onsite for your site survey or installation on this date.

Completed: The technician has completed the visit. Next step: the experts are in the process of confirming that your cameras are functioning properly (receiving adequate sunlight, connecting regularly to the cellular network, taking high-quality images, etc.). Once that part is complete, we will grant access to your camera footage.

Visit Types:

Site Survey: The technician will confirm that the locations previously agreed upon will work for the installation. The technician will place white flags at each location according to the plan you approved.

Installation: The technician will follow the plan based on the results of the site survey.

Maintenance: Our systems have identified an issue with your camera and a technician will be onsite to resolve the issue.

Subject: USDA Confirms Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza in Commercial Chickens in Mississippi
Date: Saturday, November 5, 2022 11:07:04 AM

Contact:

XXXXXXXXXX@XXXX.XXX

WASHINGTON, November 5, 2022 – The United States Department of Agriculture’s (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) has confirmed the presence of highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) in a commercial breeder chicken flock in Lawrence County, Mississippi.

Samples from the flock were tested at the Mississippi Veterinary Research & Diagnostic Laboratory, part of the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and confirmed at the APHIS National Veterinary Services Laboratories in Ames, Iowa.

APHIS is working closely with state animal health officials in Mississippi on a joint incident response. State officials quarantined the affected premises, and birds on the property will be depopulated to prevent the spread of the disease. Birds from the flock will not enter the food system.

According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the public health risk associated with these avian influenza detections in birds remains low. As a reminder, the proper handling and cooking of all poultry and eggs to an internal temperature of 165 °F is recommended as a general food safety precaution.

As part of existing avian influenza response plans, Federal and State partners are working jointly on additional surveillance and testing in areas around the affected flocks. The United States has the strongest AI surveillance program in the world, and USDA is working with its partners to actively look for the disease in commercial poultry operations, live bird markets and in migratory wild bird populations.

Anyone involved with poultry production from the small backyard to the large commercial producer should review their biosecurity activities to assure the health of their birds. APHIS has materials about biosecurity, including videos, checklists, and a toolkit available at: <https://www.aphis.usda.gov/aphis/ourfocus/animalhealth/animal-disease-information/avian/defend-the-flock-program/df-resources/df-resources>.

USDA will report these findings to the World Organisation for Animal Health (WOAH) as well as international trading partners. USDA also continues to communicate with trading partners to encourage adherence to WOA standards and minimize trade impacts. WOA trade guidelines call on countries to base trade restrictions on sound science and, whenever possible, limit restrictions to those animals and animal products within a defined region that pose a risk of spreading disease of concern. WOA trade guidelines also call on member countries to not impose bans on the international trade of poultry commodities in response to notifications in non-poultry.

APHIS will continue to announce the first case of HPAI in commercial and backyard flocks detected in a State but will not announce subsequent detections in the State. All cases in commercial and backyard flocks will be listed on the APHIS website at <https://www.aphis.usda.gov/aphis/ourfocus/animalhealth/animal-disease-information/avian/avian-influenza/2022-hpai>.

In addition to practicing good biosecurity, all bird owners should prevent contact between their birds and wild birds and report sick birds or unusual bird deaths to State/Federal officials, either through their state veterinarian or through APHIS' toll-free number at 1-866-536-7593. APHIS urges producers to consider bringing birds indoors when possible to further prevent exposures. The Animal Health Protection Act authorizes APHIS to provide indemnity payments to producers for birds and eggs that must be depopulated during a disease response. APHIS also provides compensation for disposal activities and virus elimination activities. Additional information on biosecurity for backyard flocks can be found at <http://healthybirds.aphis.usda.gov>.

Additional background Avian influenza (AI) is caused by an influenza type A virus which can infect poultry (such as chickens, turkeys, pheasants, quail, domestic ducks, geese, and guinea fowl) and is carried by free flying waterfowl such as ducks, geese and shorebirds. AI viruses are classified by a combination of two groups of proteins: hemagglutinin or “H” proteins, of which there are 16 (H1–H16), and neuraminidase or “N” proteins, of which there are 9 (N1–N9). Many different combinations of “H” and “N” proteins are possible. Each combination is considered a different subtype and can be further broken down into different strains which circulate within flyways/geographic regions. AI viruses are further classified by their pathogenicity (low or high)—the ability of a particular virus strain to produce disease in domestic poultry.

WASHINGTON, August 11, 2022 – The United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) has confirmed the presence of highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) in a non-commercial backyard flock (non-poultry) in Sacramento County, California.

State officials quarantined the affected premises, and the remaining birds on the property have been depopulated to prevent the spread of the disease. Birds from the flock will not enter the food system.

According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the public health risk associated with these avian influenza detections in birds remains low. As a reminder, the proper handling and cooking of all poultry and eggs to an internal temperature of 165 °F is recommended as a general food safety precaution.

As part of existing avian influenza response plans, Federal and State partners are working jointly on additional surveillance and testing in areas around the affected flocks. The United States has the strongest AI surveillance program in the world, and USDA is working with its partners to actively look for the disease in commercial poultry operations, live bird markets and in migratory wild bird populations.

Anyone involved with poultry production from the small backyard to the large commercial producer should review their biosecurity activities to assure the health of their birds. California poultry owners are encouraged to visit the California Department of Food and Agriculture Avian Health Program website for biosecurity tools and support at: CDFA - AHFSS - AHB - Avian Health \(ca.gov\)

APHIS has materials about biosecurity, including videos, checklists, and a toolkit available at: <https://www.aphis.usda.gov/aphis/ourfocus/animalhealth/animal-disease-information/avian/defend-the-flock-program/df-resources/df-resources>.

USDA will report these findings to the World Organisation for Animal Health (WOAH) as well as international trading partners. USDA also continues to communicate with trading partners to encourage adherence to WOA standards and minimize trade impacts. WOA trade guidelines call on countries to base trade restrictions on sound science and, whenever possible, limit restrictions to those animals and animal products within a defined region that pose a risk of spreading disease of concern. WOA trade guidelines also call on member countries to not impose bans on the international trade of poultry commodities in response to notifications in non-poultry.

APHIS will continue to announce the first case of HPAI in commercial and backyard flocks detected in a State but will not announce subsequent detections in the State. All cases in commercial and backyard flocks will be listed on the APHIS website at <https://www.aphis.usda.gov/aphis/ourfocus/animalhealth/animal-disease-information/avian/avian-influenza/2022-hpai>.

In addition to practicing good biosecurity, all bird owners should prevent contact between their birds and wild birds and report sick birds or unusual bird deaths to State/Federal officials, either through their state veterinarian or through APHIS' toll-free number at 1-866-536-7593. APHIS urges producers to consider bringing birds indoors when possible to further prevent exposures. The Animal Health Protection Act authorizes APHIS to provide indemnity payments to producers for birds and eggs that must be depopulated during a disease response. APHIS also provides compensation for disposal activities and virus elimination activities. Additional information on biosecurity for backyard flocks can be found at <http://healthybirds.aphis.usda.gov>.

Additional background Avian influenza (AI) is caused by an influenza type A virus which can infect poultry (such as chickens, turkeys, pheasants, quail, domestic ducks, geese, and guinea fowl) and is carried by free flying waterfowl such as ducks, geese and shorebirds. AI viruses are classified by a combination of two groups of proteins: hemagglutinin or “H” proteins, of which there are 16 (H1–H16), and neuraminidase or “N” proteins, of which there are 9 (N1–N9). Many different combinations of “H” and “N” proteins are possible. Each combination is considered a different subtype and can be further broken down into different strains which circulate within flyways/geographic regions. AI viruses are further classified by their pathogenicity (low or high)—the ability of a particular virus strain to produce disease in domestic poultry.

Subject: USDA Confirms Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza in Pennsylvania and Utah

Contacts: xxxxxxxxxx@xxxx.xxx

WASHINGTON, April 16, 2022 – The United States Department of Agriculture’s (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) has confirmed the presence of highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) in a commercial layer chicken flock in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania and a non-commercial backyard flock (non-poultry) in Utah County, Utah.

Samples from the Pennsylvania flock were tested at the Pennsylvania Veterinary Laboratory and samples from the Utah flock were tested at the Utah Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory, both part of the National Animal Health Laboratory Network. The cases were confirmed at the APHIS National Veterinary Services Laboratories in Ames, Iowa.

APHIS is working closely with state animal health officials in Pennsylvania and Utah on joint incident responses. State officials quarantined the affected premises, and birds on the properties will be depopulated to prevent the spread of the disease. Birds from the flocks will not enter the food system.

According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the recent HPAI detections do not present an immediate public health concern. No human cases of these avian influenza viruses have been detected in the United States. As a reminder, the proper handling and cooking of all poultry and eggs to an internal temperature of 165 °F is recommended as a general food safety precaution.

As part of existing avian influenza response plans, Federal and State partners are working jointly on additional surveillance and testing in areas around affected flocks. The United States has the strongest AI surveillance program in the world, and USDA is working with its partners to actively look for the disease in commercial poultry operations, live bird markets and in migratory wild bird populations.

Anyone involved with poultry production from the small backyard to the large commercial producer should review their biosecurity activities to assure the health of their birds. APHIS has materials about biosecurity, including videos, checklists, and a toolkit available at:

<https://www.aphis.usda.gov/aphis/ourfocus/animalhealth/animal-disease-information/avian/defend-the-flock-program/dtf-resources/dtf-resources>.

USDA will report these findings to the World Organisation for Animal Health (OIE) as well as international trading partners. USDA also continues to communicate with trading partners to encourage adherence to OIE standards and minimize trade impacts. OIE trade guidelines call on countries to base trade restrictions on sound science and, whenever possible, limit restrictions to those animals and animal products within a defined region that pose a risk of spreading disease of concern. OIE trade guidelines also call on member countries to not impose bans on the international trade of poultry commodities in response to notifications in non-poultry.

APHIS will continue to announce the first case of HPAI in commercial and backyard flocks detected in a State but will not announce subsequent detections in the State. All cases in commercial and backyard flocks will be listed on the APHIS website at <https://www.aphis.usda.gov/aphis/ourfocus/animalhealth/animal-disease-information/avian/avian-influenza/2022-hpai>.

In addition to practicing good biosecurity, all bird owners should prevent contact between their birds and wild birds and report sick birds or unusual bird deaths to State/Federal officials, either through their state veterinarian or through APHIS' toll-free number at 1-866-536-7593. APHIS urges producers to consider bringing birds indoors when possible to further prevent exposures. The Animal Health Protection Act authorizes APHIS to provide indemnity payments to producers for birds and eggs that must be depopulated during a disease response. APHIS also provides compensation for disposal activities and virus elimination activities. Additional information on biosecurity for backyard flocks can be found at <http://healthybirds.aphis.usda.gov>.

Additional background Avian influenza (AI) is caused by an influenza type A virus which can infect poultry (such as chickens, turkeys, pheasants, quail, domestic ducks, geese, and guinea fowl) and is carried by free flying waterfowl such as ducks, geese and shorebirds. AI viruses are classified by a combination of two groups of proteins: hemagglutinin or “H” proteins, of which there are 16 (H1–H16), and neuraminidase or “N” proteins, of which there are 9 (N1–N9). Many different combinations of “H” and “N” proteins are possible. Each combination is considered a different subtype and can be further broken down into different strains which circulate within flyways/geographic regions. AI viruses are further classified by their pathogenicity (low or high)—the ability of a particular virus strain to produce disease in domestic poultry.

WASHINGTON, March 26, 2022 – The United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) has confirmed the presence of highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) in two flocks in Minnesota – a commercial turkey flock in Meeker County and a backyard mixed species flock (non-poultry) in Mower County.

Samples from the Meeker County flock were tested at the Minnesota Poultry Testing Laboratory and samples from the Mower County flock were tested at the University of Minnesota Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory, both part of the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and confirmed at the APHIS National Veterinary Services Laboratories (NVSL) in Ames, Iowa.

OIE trade guidelines also call on member countries to not impose bans on the international trade of poultry commodities in response to notifications in non-poultry.

APHIS will continue to announce the first case of HPAI in commercial and backyard flocks detected in a State but will not announce subsequent detections in the State. All cases in commercial and backyard flocks will be listed on the APHIS website at <https://www.aphis.usda.gov/aphis/ourfocus/animalhealth/animal-disease-information/avian/avian-influenza/2022-hpai>

In addition to practicing good biosecurity, all bird owners should prevent contact between their birds and wild birds and report sick birds or unusual bird deaths to State/Federal officials, either through their state veterinarian or through APHIS' toll-free number at 1-866-536-7593. APHIS urges producers to consider bringing birds indoors when possible to further prevent exposures. The Animal Health Protection Act authorizes APHIS to provide indemnity payments to producers for birds and eggs that must be depopulated during a disease response. APHIS also provides compensation for disposal activities and virus elimination activities. Additional information on biosecurity for backyard flocks can be found at <http://healthybirds.aphis.usda.gov>.

WASHINGTON, March 17, 2022 – The United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) has confirmed the presence of highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) in a non-commercial backyard flock (non-poultry) in Rockingham County, New Hampshire.

Samples from the flock were confirmed at the APHIS National Veterinary Services Laboratories (NVSL) in Ames, Iowa.

APHIS is working closely with state animal health officials in New Hampshire on a joint incident response. State officials quarantined the affected premises. Birds from the flock will not enter the food system.

According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the recent HPAI detections do not present an immediate public health concern. No human cases of these avian influenza viruses have been detected in the United States. As a reminder, the proper handling and cooking of all poultry and eggs to an internal temperature of 165 °F is recommended as a general food safety precaution.

As part of existing avian influenza response plans, Federal and State partners are working jointly on additional surveillance and testing in areas around the affected flock. The United States has the strongest AI surveillance program in the world, and USDA is working with its partners to actively look for the disease in commercial poultry operations, live bird markets and in migratory wild bird populations.

Anyone involved with poultry production from the small backyard to the large commercial producer should review their biosecurity activities to assure the health of their birds. APHIS has materials about biosecurity, including videos, checklists, and a toolkit available at <https://www.aphis.usda.gov/aphis/ourfocus/animalhealth/animal-disease-information/avian/defend-the-flock-program/df-resources/df-resources>

USDA will report these findings to the World Organisation for Animal Health (OIE) as well as international trading partners. USDA also continues to communicate with trading partners to encourage adherence to OIE standards and minimize trade impacts. OIE trade guidelines call on member countries to not impose bans on the international trade of poultry commodities in response to such notifications in non-poultry.

Additional background

Avian influenza (AI) is caused by an influenza type A virus which can infect poultry (such as chickens, turkeys, pheasants, quail, domestic ducks, geese, and guinea fowl) and is carried by free flying waterfowl such as ducks, geese and shorebirds. AI viruses are classified by a combination of two groups of proteins: hemagglutinin or "H" proteins, of which there are 16 (H1–H16), and neuraminidase or "N" proteins, of which there are 9 (N1–N9). Many different combinations of "H" and "N" proteins are possible. Each combination is considered a different subtype and can be further broken down into different strains which circulate within flyways/geographic regions. AI viruses are further classified by their pathogenicity (low or high)—the ability of a particular virus strain to produce disease in domestic poultry.

WASHINGTON, December 6, 2022 – The United States Department of Agriculture’s (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) has confirmed the presence of highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) in a non-commercial backyard flock (non-poultry) in Lawrence County, Alabama.

Samples from the flock were tested at the Alabama State Diagnostic Laboratories, part of the National Animal Health Laboratory Network, and confirmed at the APHIS National Veterinary Services Laboratories in Ames, Iowa.

APHIS is working closely with state animal health officials in Alabama on a joint incident response. State officials quarantined the affected premises, and birds on the property will be depopulated to prevent the spread of the disease. Birds from the flock will not enter the food system.

Thanks to all 38,000 (!!) of you who completed the “Who are you?” survey. If you are one of those people who was told they were a robot, traffic has now slowed down now. If you have the patience to try one more time, click the link here. Thank you!!

Egg prices are up 60%, which means we are paying upwards of \$5-7 for a dozen eggs. That is if you can find them.

Why? A constellation of reasons, but there is one we can't ignore: the avian flu is hammering poultry farmers. For the general public, there's no immediate concern, except that it's a pain at the grocery store. However, avian flu is mutating, which may have implications for our future health. Here's the lowdown.

What's going on?

In early January 2022, U.S. infectious disease surveillance systems detected a highly pathogenic avian influenza virus (HPAI) called A(H5N1), more commonly known as the bird flu or avian influenza.

Since then, more than 54 million wild and domestic birds have been infected across 47 U.S. states leading to an unprecedented outbreak. This includes 44 million egg-laying hens, hence egg prices. We haven't detected the avian flu in the U.S. since 2016, so this new outbreak this is noteworthy.

Why does this matter?

The risk of avian flu to human health is currently very low. To demonstrate, CDC has tracked the health of more than 5,190 people exposed to birds with the virus in 2022, with one human case reported. If someone does get infected, there is no sustained human-to-human transmission. In other words, a human can typically only get it from an infected bird.

But, as Dr. Michael Osterholm said to STAT, “Any time you’re dealing with H5N1, you sleep with one eye open.” This is for three reasons:

1. Economic damage. On a small scale, outbreaks can wreak havoc on backyard chicken coops, which is stressful for families who are reliant on their egg and meat production. On a larger scale, outbreaks in commercial poultry farms have devastate local food supplies, affect farmers’ and employees’ livelihoods, and raise poultry prices due to a limited and strained supply. For example, an egg factory in Iowa killed 5.3 million chickens over a single case of avian influenza in the flock. This was the largest culling of commercial birds in the U.S.

The presumed burial pit of chickens on Rembrandt Foods property. Photograph: Dan Brouillette/The Guardian. Source here.

2. High mortality rate. If someone does get infected, symptoms can range from asymptomatic to severe illness, hospitalization, and death. From 2003-2021 there have been very few human cases worldwide: 864. But, among these cases, 456 died—a 53% mortality rate.
3. Mutations. H5N1 has the potential to mutate into being better adaptable to humans. This can happen over time with single mutations or at one time with one big change in which large sections of the virus recombine (like with the human flu) to create a very different virus. Concern recently heightened when a European report confirmed sustained mammal-to-mammal transmission of H5N1 in Spain in October 2022 at a mink farm. The weekly mortality rate reached 4.3% per week. Scientists mapped the genome of the virus at the mink farm and found that it carried rare and previously unreported mutations. This means the virus could be mutating in a concerning direction. Many epidemiologists continue to put money on the flu causing the next pandemic. (Keep in mind that the 1918 flu was linked to the avian flu.) I cannot think of a bigger disaster than having another respiratory pandemic on the heels of COVID-19, given fatigue, polarization, loss of trust, and limited time to improve.

What to do?

Infected birds shed the virus through their mucous, saliva, and feces. Humans can get sick from breathing in the droplets or aerosols containing viral particles.

You cannot get avian flu from eating poultry or eggs. The FDA conducted a risk assessment and found risk was very low for three reasons:

1. Rapid onset of bird symptoms = low likelihood of entering the food chain;
2. Safeguards in place, like testing flocks and federal inspections;
3. Proper storage and food preparation at home is enough to inactivate the virus.

Right now you don't need to do anything, unless you're in close contact with birds. A person's level of risk is dependent on duration and intensity of exposure. In other words, a person with one chicken in their backyard is at much lower risk than someone at a poultry farm.

Those around wild birds, such as at parks, lakes, rivers, or other waterways, need to exercise caution, including wearing PPE, washing hands, and changing clothes. If you have backyard poultry, wear a mask and wash your hands. Also, monitor the health of your flock, especially if they come in contact with other wild birds.

Commercial facilities have stepped up control measures to monitor cases and safety measures to protect their flocks, which is also contributing to increasing egg prices.

All of these practices will help you, as an individual, avoid sickness. But it will also help lower the population risk by reducing the number of times the virus mutates (and reducing the possibility of a human outbreak).

How long will this outbreak last?

We don't know. Just like with COVID-19, it's difficult to predict a virus's future. The last large avian flu pandemic lasted 6 months, so the current outbreak has already been twice as long.

Bottom line

We are experiencing a record outbreak of avian flu—the largest and longest in U.S. history. It has been devastating to farmers and birds but likely only affects you at the grocery store. Epidemiologists continue to pay close attention and are crossing our fingers that we don't see sustained human-to-human transmission.

CEO Roundtables on ALPR Policy and The Future of UAV's

Our AI Ethics Board is preparing to release its recommendations on best practices and model policies for ALPR systems. This is your chance to get a preview of their recommendations — and, more importantly, to give your feedback on these important issues.

Rick Smith, Axon CEO and Founder, is hosting back-to-back technology roundtables on August 11th to share the draft report on ALPR best practices from our AI Ethics Board, followed by a session on the future of Unmanned Aerial Vehicles in Public Safety.

- ALPR Ethics, Policy and Best Practices: August 11, 9 a.m. PT

Rick will discuss ethics-first design of ALPRs and how that aligns with police reform efforts and where the technology is going. Joining him will be Flock Safety CEO and Founder, Garret Langley. The Axon AI Ethics Board is an independent body that is rapidly gaining influence among both law enforcement and community/justice reform communities. This is a chance to make sure your voice is heard before their final report is issued.

- Future of UAV's: August 11, 10:30 a.m. PT

Rick will be joined by Aydin Ghajar, who ran Uber's premium ride business before joining Axon as GM of Axon Air. This session will include a survey of emerging UAV technologies including potential partners that could be integrated into the Axon ecosystem.

These roundtables will run back-to-back for people interested in attending both sessions. There is a single registration link here:

Register Now

One registration gives you access to both events - simply join at 9 or 10:30 based on your interest area.

These sessions are closed to only sworn law enforcement attendees.

If you have any questions, please contact Jack Nolan at Axon.

Stay safe,

CEO Roundtables on ALPR Policy and The Future of UAV's

Our AI Ethics Board is preparing to release its recommendations on best practices and model policies for ALPR systems. This is your chance to get a preview of their recommendations — and, more importantly, to give your feedback on these important issues.

Rick Smith, Axon CEO and Founder, is hosting back-to-back technology roundtables on August 11th to share the draft report on ALPR best practices from our AI Ethics Board, followed by a session on the future of Unmanned Aerial Vehicles in Public Safety.

- ALPR Ethics, Policy and Best Practices: August 11, 9 a.m. PT

Rick will discuss ethics-first design of ALPRs and how that aligns with police reform efforts and where the technology is going. Joining him will be Flock Safety CEO and Founder, Garret Langley. The Axon AI Ethics Board is an independent body that is rapidly gaining influence among both law enforcement and community/justice reform communities. This is a chance to make sure your voice is heard before their final report is issued.

- Future of UAV's: August 11, 10:30 a.m. PT

Rick will be joined by Aydin Ghajar, who ran Uber's premium ride business before joining Axon as GM of Axon Air. This session will include a survey of emerging UAV technologies including potential partners that could be integrated into the Axon ecosystem.

These roundtables will run back-to-back for people interested in attending both sessions. There is a single registration link here:
