While waiting on line in the deli department, complainant observed deli employees leaning over counter to pet a service dog. After petting dog, employees neglected to wash their hands and continued to slice and serve cold cuts. Complainant spoke with both the manager of the department and the store, who admitted that employees did not wash hands after petting dog.

Arrived on site at approximately 1545 hours. Inspected the area of the deli and found no issues at this time. 2 hand wash sinks are provided (1 behind each counter) and are supplied hot water, soap, and paper towels. Each also had a hand wash sign easily displayed. As expected, no service dogs were in the store during investigation. Employees have been informed to wash hands thoroughly and as often as possible. NO CAUSE FOR FURTHER ACTION AT THIS TIME.

☒ Final Entry: NO CAUSE FOR FURTHER ACTION AT THIS TIME.
