

Export

Add to Case

Created Date

Cara Katz

May 30 2024 08:32 PM

...

Thank u for your support! And yes, your fun fact is 100% fact!
Stacey Block Rubinstein
Erin Sternthal

Lauren Ann

May 29 2024 03:39 PM

...

WOOOOOOOOOOOO

José Méndez

May 29 2024 03:33 PM

...

Hello that's my dog you found him he's been missing for 5 days well is he still there?

Susan B McDonald (Hidden)

May 27 2024 06:28 PM

...

<https://www.facebook.com/essexcountynjlostpets/posts/pfbid0gQUadv21HhPUeUteJtAGFM3Kb146vzDvoDQN3sm95TXCX4Ndgq3JXDoK2yoroPH2I>

Julie Greenbaum Levine

May 27 2024 12:15 PM

...

Is Gerard the dog? And everyone recognizes him? Or the police officer?

Livingston NJ Police Department @Livingston N...

May 26 2024 09:58 PM

...

* Update - owner has been located. ****

Found this dog on N. Livingston Ave by Rt 280. If you recognize him please contact Police Headquarters at 973-992-3000 x 0.

Louie The-Dishwasher

May 25 2024 09:40 AM

...

Some comments aren't showing. How about this one from Harry Nutts?

My comment here is my opinion as one the guys that sat "in the cheap seats."

Gary used to be a decent guy, but things really changed over the years. As many chiefs have done before, this guy weaseled his way to chief by playing Township politics, not necessarily from good police work.

Because he rose through the ranks as fast as he did, he lost sight of what was it was like to actually work in patrol, and instead focused on things that do not matter to the men and women under his command. Picking the color of a patrol vehicle is pretty low on the priority list, but that was one of his flagship decisions at the time.

Day after day, he would follow any town administrator he could find, and ignore the damage being done to the department. He COULD have used his position to advocate for his men and women. But that would have required him to actually be a leader and put his own neck on the line.

One glaring example of his loss of vision was when he and his officers were discussing a controversial topic. Gary announced to those patrol officers that they were "sitting in the cheap seats," which really meant that the officers and their view did not matter. I can't explain what a deep and unbelievable insult this was to the men and women that put their lives on the line and do the actual work every single day while he sits behind a desk on the 2nd floor of his Ivory Tower.

Gary has made some very questionable decisions that have affected the perception of his leadership. The most egregious example was bringing his officers to a purely political kneeling ceremony for BLM in 2020. What kind of leader knowingly puts his officers in that position and what kind of message does that to send to the officers under his command? The answer is a BAD leader and that his officers are merely political pawns for him to use to further his own agenda.

There are many more examples I could put out there, but I'm already disgusted by these memories.

Enjoy the weekend LPD, and godspeed to those hoping that when the time comes, the administration will be in their corner.

Harry Nutts

May 24 2024 08:31 PM

...

My comment here is my opinion as one the guys that sat "in the cheap seats."

Gary used to be a decent guy, but things really changed over the years. As many chiefs have done before, this guy weaseled his way to chief by playing Township politics, not necessarily from good police work.

Because he rose through the ranks as fast as he did, he lost sight of what was it was like to actually work in patrol, and instead focused on things that do not matter to the men and women under his command. Picking the color of a patrol vehicle is pretty low on the priority list, but that was one of his flagship decisions at the time.

Day after day, he would find any town administrator he could, and ignore the damage being done to the department. He COULD have used his position to advocate for his men and women. But that would have required him to actually be a leader and put his own neck on the line.

One glaring example of his loss of vision was when he and his officers were discussing a controversial topic. Gary announced to those patrol officers that they were "sitting in the cheap seats," which really meant that the officers and their view did not matter. I can't explain what a deep and unbelievable insult this was to the men and women that put their lives on the line and do the actual work every single day while he sits behind a desk on the 2nd floor of his Ivory Tower.

Gary has made some very questionable decisions that have affected the perception of his leadership. The most egregious example was bringing his officers to a purely political kneeling ceremony for BLM in 2020. What kind of leader knowingly puts his officers in that position and what kind of message does that to send to the officers under his command? The answer is a BAD leader and that his officers are merely political pawns for him to use to further his own agenda.

There are many more examples I could put out there, but I'm already disgusted by these memories.

Enjoy the weekend LPD, and godspeed to those hoping that when the time comes, the administration will be in their corner.

Harry Nutts (Hidden)

May 24 2024 03:09 PM

...

My comment here is my opinion as one the guys that sat "in the cheap seats."

Gary used to be a decent guy, but things really changed over the years. As many chiefs have done before, this guy weaseled his way to chief by playing Township politics, not necessarily from good police work.

Because he rose through the ranks as fast as he did, he lost sight of what was it was like to actually work in patrol, and instead focused on things that do not matter to the men and women under his command. Picking the color of a patrol vehicle is pretty low on the priority list, but that was one of his flagship decisions at the time.

Day after day, he would kiss the ass of any town administrator he could find, and ignore the damage being done to the department. He COULD have used his position to advocate for his men and women. But that would have required him to actually be a leader and put his own neck on the line.

One glaring example of his loss of vision was when he and his officers were discussing a controversial topic. Gary announced to those patrol officers that they were "sitting in the cheap seats," which really meant that the officers and their view did not matter. I can't explain what a deep and unbelievable insult this was to the men and women that put their lives on the line and do the actual work every single day while he sits behind a desk on the 2nd floor of his Ivory Tower.

Gary has made some very questionable decisions that have affected the perception of his leadership. The most egregious example was bringing his officers to a purely political kneeling ceremony for BLM in 2020. What kind of leader knowingly puts his officers in that position and what kind of message does that to send to the officers under his command? The answer is a BAD leader and that his officers are merely political pawns for him to use to further his own agenda.

There are many more examples I could put out there, but I'm already disgusted by these memories.

Enjoy the weekend LPD, and godspeed to those hoping that when the time comes, the administration will be in their corner.

*edit - grammar

Harry Nutts

May 24 2024 02:22 PM

...

This guy weaseled his way to chief by playing Township politics to reach the 2nd floor Ivory tower. Because he rose through the ranks as fast as he did, he lost sight of what was it was like to actually work in patrol, and instead focused on things that do not matter to the men and women under his command.

One of his most shameful comments ever made was when he announced to the patrol officers that they were "sitting in the cheap seats.

Jack Donahue

May 17 2024 03:20 PM

...

What a handsome young man. Keep that sperm coming in your spare time. Says some of the girls.
PS. How the heck did the Nuggets lose by 45 points?

Jadon Barnett

May 14 2024 10:22 PM

...

Lil laraCCA ❤️❤️ my boy #ticketdropped

Joe Hurricane-Wnk (Hidden)

May 11 2024 09:28 PM

...

Damn pick up looks : NO WAY! You guys can live w/o me !! Lol

Debbie Kirchen

May 11 2024 12:10 PM

...

That's my son's bike!

Jose Tunes

May 10 2024 04:38 PM

...

Picanha para todos! BR

Livingston NJ Police Department @Livingston N...

May 09 2024 06:40 PM

...

Livingston NJ Police Department was live.

Harry Nutts

May 06 2024 07:21 PM

...

<3

Jay Zelk

May 06 2024 10:59 AM

...

Ryan "NOT IN MY TOWN" Collis ... all big

Costa Alex (Hidden)

May 03 2024 10:44 AM

...

And why so many commercial tractor trailers in Livingston lately?

Paul Lenzi

May 03 2024 12:06 AM

...

You've come a long way Ryan Manger

Jadon Barnett

May 01 2024 07:09 PM

...

College assassins game this summer. Pool lot at midnight?

Jadon Barnett

May 01 2024 07:04 PM

...

Matt Sass college assassin game this summer ?

Harry Nutts

May 01 2024 01:47 PM

...

Jay Zelk and what's with all these guys holding the same baby?

Livingston NJ Police Department @Livingston N...

April 30 2024 06:15 PM

...

We would like to extend our heartfelt thanks to Andrew Littman. For his bar mitzvah, he raised funds to purchase a defibrillator to donate to the department. He is pictured with his sister Sarah, his mother Michele and his father David, along with Officer Joy Klapal, Chief Gary Marshuetz, Administrative Assistant Eileen Bauer and Officer Sean Whalen. What an amazing young man!

Livingston NJ Police Department @Livingston N...

April 30 2024 06:15 PM

...

We would like to extend our heartfelt thanks to Andrew Littman. For his bar mitzvah, he raised funds to purchase a defibrillator to donate to the department. He is pictured with his sister Sarah, his mother Michele and his father David, along with Officer Joy Klapal, Chief Gary Marshuetz, Administrative Assistant Eileen Bauer and Officer Sean Whalen. What an amazing young man!

Livingston NJ Police Department

April 28 2024 05:56 PM

...

Lauren Ann Wooooooooooooo

Harry Nutts

April 25 2024 02:02 PM

...

Good thing he knows how to swim. To his credit, Kevin established the Falcon Road lighthouse with 909 during the apocalyptic Livingston floods. The legend states he swam - in full uniform, from the site of the sinking all the way to Livingston Bagel to grab a midnight snack for his old boss and mentor.

Livingston NJ Police Department @Livingston N...

April 24 2024 12:51 PM

...

The month of April is almost over. Stop in at police headquarters and purchase your Autism Awareness shirt before it's too late! Shirts are available in our Records Room from 8am - 4pm Monday through Friday. The cost is $10 and all proceeds will be donated to Spectrum 360 and Lifetown. Tom Montesion, supervisor of Records and Officer Joy Klapal are showing off the shirts.

Livingston NJ Police Department @Livingston N...

April 24 2024 12:51 PM

...

The month of April is almost over. Stop in at police headquarters and purchase your Autism Awareness shirt before it's too late! Shirts are available in our Records Room from 8am - 4pm Monday through Friday. The cost is $10 and all proceeds will be donated to Spectrum 360 and Lifetown. Tom Montesion, supervisor of Records and Officer Joy Klapal are showing off the shirts.