"Specifically, it imposes an obligation on public agencies to protect against disclosure of personal information which would run contrary to reasonable privacy interests."

Narrative:

On Saturday, January 19, 2019, at approximately 20:36 hours, I, Patrolman Tristan Johns #92 of the Wildwood Police Department, Uniformed Patrol Division, was patrolling south on Atlantic Avenue in marked patrol vehicle #331, when I observed a black Honda Civic bearing New Jersey registration (B61 GMP) stopped at the stop sign at the intersection of Bennett and Atlantic Avenues. It should be noted, this vehicle was stopped approximately five (5) feet before the stop line at the intersection. I pulled into the parking lot of the Ala Moana Motel and continued to observe this vehicle. The vehicle remained in this location for approximately three (3) minutes.

This driving behavior caused me to become suspicious as to the reason why the driver was stopped at the intersection for an extended period of time. The vehicle then made a right turn onto Atlantic Avenue and then proceeded west in the 200 East block of Hildreth Avenue. I caught up to the vehicle and began traveling behind the vehicle in the 200 East block of Hildreth Avenue.

The driver, who was later identified as Margarita Candelaria-Betancourt (1958), continued to travel west in the 100 West block of Hildreth Avenue and activated her left turn signal approximately mid block indicating she was going to make a left turn at the intersection of Hildreth and New Jersey Avenue. However, Candelaria-Betancourt positioned her vehicle to the right side of the roadway. It should be noted, there are no turn lane markings in the 100 East block of Hildreth Avenue, but due her vehicle positioning Candelaria-Betancourt made a extremely wide turn onto New Jersey Avenue into the outside lane. Also, Candelaria-Betancourt's vehicle was the only vehicle on the roadway at this time. In addition, I observed the windows to her vehicle were tinted heavily with black tint.

At this time, I activated my emergency over head lights to stop the vehicle for the improper turn and the tinted windows violation. After activating my emergency overhead lights, Candelaria-Betancourt continued to travel south on New Jersey Avenue into the 5400 block of New Jersey Avenue and pulled to the shoulder of the roadway. I conducted a passenger side approach to make contact with Candelaria-Betancourt. At this time, Candelaria-Betancourt advised me to open the door because the window was broken.

After opening the passenger side door, I immediately observed a hypodermic syringe in plain view on the front passenger floor. It should be noted, Candelaria-Betancourt was the sole occupant of the vehicle. I explained Candelaria-Betancourt the reason for the motor vehicle stop and requested her drivers license, registration card and proof of insurance. As Candelaria-Betancourt gathered the documents I requested, she opened the glove box and I observed multiple orange prescription bottles in plain view.

I then approached the driver side of the vehicle and requested Candelaria-Betancourt exit the vehicle. Candelaria-Betancourt advised me the hypodermic syringe was for her insulin. I asked Candelaria-Betancourt if she had any insulin or a diabetes testing kit in her vehicle which would typically include a blood glucose meter and she said she did not. These are common items that a person with diabetes would have with them. I asked Candelaria-Betancourt if she would sign a consent to search form for her vehicle and she said that she would not. Candelaria-Betancourt explained last time she completed a consent to search form, the K9 scratched her vehicle. (Refer to Case # 18 - 16006 for further details.) It should be noted, this indicates the K9 detected the odor/presence of narcotics in the vehicle.

As a result, I believed the hypodermic syringe I observed on the passenger side floor was going to be used to intravenously inject narcotics.

Through my training and experience, it is not uncommon for a person that utilizes narcotics to advise law enforcement the hypodermic syringe is used for insulin. In addition, Candelaria-Betancourt was unable to provide me with any evidence that she was diabetic and the hypodermic syringe is utilized for insulin.

At this time, I attempted to place Candelaria-Betancourt under arrest, however, she was attempted to pull away from my control. Candelaria-Betancourt was placed under arrest without incident. Candelaria-Betancourt made complaints of shoulder pain as a result I utilized two (2) pairs of handcuffs. Candelaria-Betancourt made brief statements about a recent shoulder surgery.

Candelaria-Betancourt was secured in the rear of marked patrol vehicle #331. I returned to her vehicle to secure the hypodermic syringe and the three (3) prescription pill bottles I observed in the glove box. Also, I retrieved Candelaria-Betancourt's purse from the vehicle. The vehicle was secured and Candelaria-Betancourt was transported back to police headquarters.

Upon my arrival at police headquarters, I secured my duty weapon and taser prior to escorting Candelaria-Betancourt to the booking area. After removing Candelaria-Betancourt from the rear of my patrol vehicle, she stated she was having difficulty breathing. I immediately contacted dispatch communications utilizing my portable radio to send Wildwood Rescue to the booking area to evaluate Candelaria-Betancourt. I removed the handcuffs from Candelaria-Betancourt and she was sitting on the bench in the booking area.

Wildwood Rescue began to evaluate Candelaria-Betancourt and she advised them she was having difficulty breathing. Candelaria-Betancourt removed her black jacket and blue sweatshirt. I conducted a search of the black jacket and located a clear plastic bag containing multiple white pills imprinted with [REDACTED] It should be noted, the packaging in which I observed the pills is common for the street level distribution of narcotics. However, one of the prescription pill bottles I located in Candelaria-Betancourt's vehicle was empty, but for [REDACTED]

I conducted a search of Candelaria-Betancourt's purse and located a second hypodermic syringe. The hypodermic syringes were logged into evidence with Candelaria-Betancourt's prescription pill bottle containing multiple [REDACTED] prescribed to Candelaria-Betancourt.

[REDACTED]

While being evaluated by Wildwood Rescue, Candelaria-Betancourt became unconscious and unresponsive. Candelaria-Betancourt was transported to the rear of the ambulance to be transported to Cape Regional Medical Center. At this time, dispatch communications advised me Wildwood Rescue was performing CPR in the ambulance. Candelaria-Betancourt was subsequently transported to Cape Regional Medical Center where she remained in critical condition awaiting to be transported to Cooper University Hospital.

Franchesk Hernandez came to police headquarters in reference to Candelaria-Betancourt's pursue and clothing, which were released to Hernandez, however, she was advised her medication is being held as evidence. The family members stated Candelaria-Betancourt has been experiencing healthy complications. Hernandez stated Candelaria-Betancourt was suppose to go to the hospital today but failed to do so.

Candelaria-Betancourt's keys and her vehicle documents were logged secured for safe keeping.

Candelaria-Betancourt was issued a summons for possession of hypodermic syringe, and motor vehicle summons for tinted windows and improper turning.

All B.W.C. and booking room video were logged into evidence.
