Shulskie explained that last night at her place of work (Ivy league), two individuals verbally threatened her. Shulskie explained that she attempted to de-escalate a "Lets Go Brandon" chant. Shulskie continued and explained that the two individuals chanting were a John Bittner (W/M/53/Howell) as well as a Pamela Richmond (W/F/53/Howell). Shulskie continued and explained that when she attempted to de-escalate the situation, Bittner shouted "Fuck you" in her direction, as well as stood up in an aggressive manner toward her. Shulskie also mentioned that Richmond threatened to have her fired from her place of work, as well as threatened to spit in her face. Shulskie then explained she told them to pay their checks and leave the premises. Richmond was contacted via telephone and advised that she was indeed at the Ivy League last night. Richmond continued and stated that she was chanting the "Lets Go Brandon" chant for the ongoing game on the television with numerous other customers. At this time, Richmond explained that Shulskie screamed at her as well as Bittner. Richmond then continued and explained that Shulskie threatened to make them leave the establishment. Bittner was also telephoned and stated that they were watching baseball at the bar when someone started a "Lets Go Brandon" chant and he also began chanting. Bittner then explained that Shulskie came over to them and screamed "you cant say that". Bittner then explained that the two engaged in a verbal argument over the subject. Nothing physical, no threats reported by Richmond or Bittner. SEE OF. 690 SEE OF.
