Thank you! You were the only one to catch that, even after Dave and Anna saw and took home a copy of my testimony last week. No surprise!
Hope you are doing well, and stay that way!

Thanks for your efforts Rachel. Only FYI would be that the aid loss estimates on a cumulative basis went from $83 mil to $113 mil. Thanks again and stay safe.

Dear Assemblymen and Assemblywomen of the Budget Committee,

Please find attached to this email my testimony and supporting documents that I would have presented to you in person, had the Budget Hearings not been cancelled.

I pray this email finds you well and in good health. I kindly ask that you take to time to review my testimony. My children's school district and community are in dire need of fiscal intervention due to draconian funding cuts we are being burdened with because of the "funding formula" of the legislation referred to as S2. The formula that is being used to determine aid distribution is flawed and outdated, and the DOE refuses to release it or respond to any requests for collaboration to work towards a solution.

Thank you for your attention to this dire matter, especially during this precarious situation we all find ourselves in. I would greatly welcome any feedback or questions.

Sincerely,

Rachel Remelgado

Good morning,

I am sure you don't hear this enough, but I wanted to take the time to say thank you.
Thank you for continuing to fight for a fair and equitable education for my children during our current financial crisis.
Thank you for providing as much information that you can to be shared with our community.
Thank you for inspiring me to become an advocate for my children and my community.
Thank you for publicly maintaining decorum and integrity when I know it is not the initial reaction you feel.
Thank you for staying on course and sticking to facts when faced with skepticism and doubt from parents and community members.
Thank you for your truth and transparency.

Thank you for not giving up.

I thank you and commit to reciprocate all of the above while we fight to survive this injustice and attack on our community.
