This is a cool, quick little feature for the holiday week next week.

<https://newjersey.news12.com/carteret-man-writes-children-s-book-inspired-by-stray-cat-living-at-marina>

My name is Jason Van Woeart and I am a 3rd generation resident of Carteret, NJ. I couldn't help but notice that you not only report on local investigative stories, but local lighthearted stories as well!
At the boat marina in Carteret lives a stray cat that I have been feeding for the past few years between working full-time and school full-time. I recently wrote a children's book about Marina Cat and will be donating 25% of proceeds from the book to animal charity. The book is called, The Adventures of Marina Cat: who ate my food? and it is about perseverance, sharing, inclusion, and acceptance. With the holidays approaching, some Central Jersey readers may see this as an uplifting and local heartwarming story. I would be forever grateful if you would ever consider exploring a future story about Carteret's Marina Cat and her new-found fame. Thank you for your time.

Stay safe & healthy,
Jason Van Woeart

How is it possible that your website is having so many errors? Yes, most of the people share their anger and frustration once they get my email.

Now, I will show you the number of broken links, pages that returned 4XX status code upon request, images with no ALT text, pages with no meta description tag, not having an unique meta description, having too long title, etc., found in your carteret.net.

I have a large professional team who can fix all the above issues immediately at an affordable price. I guarantee you will see a drastic change in your Google search ranking once these are fixed.

If this is something you are interested in, then allow me to send you a no obligation audit report.

Kerry Memorrow I live on Coolidge Avenue. Every time we get a little heavy rain the water comes up to my front porch. I have to park the cars up on my lawn every time I see rain because my car was under water twice already. The last Heavy Rain on July 27th the water came in my house and destroyed everything. I was told when we moved in it was not a flood zone so we never got flood insurance. Your office called my neighbor two weeks prior to that and said to her don't worry about the water coming up anymore we fixed the sewer system. Two weeks later my house was flooded. And we cannot get help from nobody to pay for this damage. Please please and I emphasize please fix the sewer system on Coolidge Avenue. I like you as a mayor but this issue has to be resolved. My wife called you last week but you never returned her call. All I ask is to fix the sewer system thank you very much
