

Title: Reference and Instruction Librarian, 12 month (Librarian II/III)

Duties: The Cooper Medical School of Rowan University Library seeks applicants for the position of Reference and Instruction Librarian in Camden, NJ. The Reference and Instruction Librarian is a full-time, tenure-track member. As a tenure-track member of Rowan University faculty, the Reference and Instruction Librarian is expected to be engaged in scholarly, outreach, and teaching/instructional activities, which includes:

- Designs and develops in-person and online programs to teach effective, efficient use of library resources, research skills, and library services, including preparation and delivery of formal and informal presentations to groups or individuals in a medical school and hospital setting.
- Coordinates efforts to integrate biomedical information literacy learning outcomes throughout the undergraduate and graduate medical education curriculum.
- Creates, writes and updates library publications, such as manuals, guides, bookmarks, bibliographies, subject guides and other information literacy/library promotional materials.
- Participates in general administrative departmental duties, library-wide activities, administrative committees, special projects and library programs; represents Rowan University libraries on college, local, state and national level.
- Conducts literature searches and answers general reference questions.

Required Qualifications:

- MLS from ALA accredited institution
- Familiarity with current use of point of care and medical resources, such as DynaMed, PubMed, Scopus, etc.
- Knowledge of current instruction technologies, such as LibGuides, Learning Management System, medical mobile applications, etc.
- Experience in health/medical information services or relevant health/medical coursework.
- Excellent interpersonal communication, presentation, and organization skills, including the ability to effectively impart knowledge and skills via oral and written communication
- Ability to handle multiple responsibilities in a rapidly changing environment;

Preferred:

- Familiar with MLA's Professional Competencies for Health Sciences Librarians
- Experience developing interactive learning modules and instructional materials for both in-person and online instruction sessions:
- Experience in implementing or teaching curriculum within higher education
- Familiarity with assessment tools and trends